INDIAN ORDER OF MERIT.

No. 1385.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to sanction the following admissions to the Military Division of the Indian Order of Merit:—

For admission to the 2nd Class of the Order.

Subadar Bir Singh, 21st Field Company, 3rd Sappers and Miners, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 17th April 1916. During the enemy's counter-attack our bombers were driven back but he did not cease in the work of making a block until 4 men of his party had been killed and wounded by rifle fire and bombs at 10 yards' range. He then assisted in checking the enemy's advance at the block and immediately after the enemy's retirement completed the work with the survivors of his party.

No. 42 Sapper Bhag Singh, 32nd (Divisional Signal) Company, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the attack on the 17th April 1916. While performing the duty of linesman he, together with one other man, went out under heavy rifle fire to repair a cable; on approaching to within 200 yards of a trench which they thought was still occupied by our troops, they came under very heavy fire from two machine guns and a number of rifles from the trench.

Bhag Singh's companion was killed instantly, while he had three bullets through his clothes. He flung himself down and continued to crawl for a distance of 200 yards and delivered a priority message and brought back the receipt to Brigade Headquarters, again under machine gun and rifle fire when exposure meant instant death.

This man has been with his company since the beginning of the war and was present at all the battles in France, including Ypres, Neuve Chapelle, Festubert, etc., and has invariably behaved with the utmost gallantry.

Subadar (now Subadar-Major) Loknath Singh, 2nd Queen Victoria's Own Rajput Light Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness during operations on the 8th March 1916.

He commanded the remnants of the 2nd Rajputs when there were no British officers left. He was of great assistance in controlling the men and set them a fine example of coolness and bravery. He refused to retire until a general retirement was ordered.

Subadar Multan Singh, 2nd Queen Victoria's Own Rajput Light Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 17th-18th April 1916, when in command of an outpost line 800 yards in advance of our line during the Turkish counter-attack after both his British officers had been wounded. After the outposts on both his flanks had been driven back he maintained his position for half an hour. When the enemy were 50 yards from him he withdrew his picquets in good order and delayed the hostile advance. The casualties in his position were 3 British officers and 26 Indian ranks. He brought in all the wounded.

No. 1782 Sepoy Multan Singh, 2nd Queen Victoria's Own Rajput Light Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 8th March 1916, when, as a stretcher bearer, he searched for and brought in wounded who were lying within 80 yards of the enemy's trenches. He was under fire most of the time. He also assisted the Medical Officer to dress wounds under fire.

No. 3266 Sepoy Mahmud Ali Khan, 5th Light Infantry (attached 9th Bhopal Infantry), for conspicuous gallantry and coolness on the 12th April 1916, when the water in the marsh was blown into the forward trenches, filling them rapidly, and forcing the garrison to evacuate them. The enemy took advantage of this opportunity to pour in a heavy shell and machine gun fire. On his own initiative, in full view of the enemy, regardless of personal risk, he erected a barricade in the trench with the assistance of a comrade, to enable two badly wounded men to be got away. There is no doubt that but for this act these wounded men would have been drowned.

No. 2472 Sepoy Sadi, 6th Jat Light Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness on the 22nd April 1916, when he assisted in carrying a machine gun and ammunition boxes across 60 yards of open ground to a sap-head, the enemy's trenches being 400 yards away. Three of the party of seven were wounded. Sepoy Sadi had also to expose himself when making the gun emplacement and remedying jams which occurred. He was wounded while serving his gun.

No. 2495 Sepoy Kalu Ram, 6th Jat Light Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness on the 22nd April 1916, when he assisted in carrying a machine gun and ammunition boxes across 60 yards of open ground to a sap-head, the enemy's trenches being 400 yards away. Three of the party of seven were wounded in doing this. Sepoy Kalu Ram went back three times to the front line for ammunition boxes.

No. 3943 Sepoy Mugli Khan, 9th Bhopal Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness on the 12th April 1916, when the water in the marsh was blown into the forward trenches filling them rapidly, and forcing the garrison to evacuate them. The enemy took advantage of this opportunity to pour in a heavy shell and machine gun fire. On his own initiative, in full view of the enemy, regardless of personal risk, he erected a barricade in the trench with the assistance of a comrade, to enable two badly wounded men to be got away. There is no doubt that but for this act these wounded men would have been drowned.

Subadar Bhagat Singh, 27th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry and good leadership during operations on the 17th April 1916. He was well to the front during the attack after both his Double Company Commander and Double Company Officer were wounded. Every Indian officer and Havildar in his half company was either killed or wounded.

Subadar Kahn Singh, 27th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry in the attack on the 17th April 1916. He was the first Indian officer in the enemy's trenches before our bombardment lifted. He was conspicuous for gallantry and calmness during the retirement and in his endeavour to reform parties of various units until wounded and incapacitated.

No. 465 Naik Adam Khan, 28th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry during the operations on the 6th April 1916, when he went out with a party under heavy fire to try and bring in their commanding officer who had been wounded and was lying in an exposed position. The party were unable to bring away the wounded officer at first owing to heavy fire being opened on them when they lifted the stretcher. Later, they again went out under heavy fire and succeeded in bringing him in. They then went out a third time under heavy fire and brought in a wounded Indian officer who was lying in front of the firing line.

No. 4573 Lance-Naik Jan Baz, 28th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry on the 6th April 1916, when he went out with a party under heavy fire to try and bring in their commanding officer who had been wounded and was lying in an exposed position.

The party were unable to bring away the wounded officer at first owing to heavy fire being opened on them when they lifted the stretcher. Later they again went out under heavy fire and succeeded in bringing him in. They then went out a third time under heavy fire and brought in a wounded Indian officer who was lying in front of the firing line.

Subadar Sundar Singh, 36th Sikhs, for conspicuous gallantry, during the operations on the 12th April 1916. He was severely wounded while leading two sections forward under heavy rifle and machine gun fire and although in great pain from a shattered thigh he continued to encourage and hold together his remaining men, who had been severely tried by heavy losses and were still subjected to a heavy fire.

Jemadar Massa Singh, 36th Sikhs, for conspicuous gallantry during the operations on the 12th April 1916. He commanded his company with coolness and skill during the action. His Double Company Commander was killed while going forward under a heavy fire to the assistance of a wounded British officer; seeing this, Jemadar Massa Singh at once went out and was severely wounded while bandaging him.

No. 3013, Naik Pritam Singh, } 36th Sikhs, for conspicuous gallantry during the
No. 3648, Lance-Naik Prem Singh, } operations on the 12th April 1916. These two non-commissioned officers of the Machine Gun Section kept their gun in action after all the rest of the detachment were either killed or wounded. They finally succeeded in bringing away their gun when the retirement was ordered.

No. 2948, Naik Hari Singh, 36th Sikhs, attached 47th Sikhs, for conspicuous gallantry at the action on the 15th April 1916, when he gallantly seconded his leader and assisted in the bombing and very materially helped in making it a success.

Jemadar Makhmad Din, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 6th April 1916, when leading his platoon to within 600 yards of the enemy's trenches under very heavy rifle, machine gun and shell fire. At this point a British officer was killed and the Commanding Officer dangerously wounded. Jemadar Makhmad Din and the remaining nine men of his platoon maintained their position during the day and at night-fall buried the dead officer and then withdrew, bringing the wounded Commanding Officer with them.

No. 840, Havildar Mangal Singh, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry and initiative on the 6th April 1916; when left in command of a platoon he led it forward under very heavy rifle, machine gun and shell fire and, although he had only one man left, continued to do so until level with the troops on his right and left. He maintained his position within 600 yards of the enemy throughout the day, and only withdrew at night-fall when ordered to do so.

No. 1193 Havildar Suhel Singh, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 6th January 1916, when he showed an example of coolness and bravery in the advance on the Turkish trenches under very heavy fire. The zeal with which his section followed his example was in a great measure responsible for the successful advance of his double company. He was also observed on the following day as being far in advance of the double company during the assault with fixed bayonets on the enemy's position. He was also brought to notice for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the action of the 8th March 1916 in bringing up ammunition to the regiments in the firing line.

Subadar Buta Singh, 53rd Sikhs (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry on the 7th April 1916, when he applied first aid to a wounded British officer who was lying in an exposed position under heavy shell, machine gun and rifle fire. He assisted in removing him to a less exposed position and in digging him in there and attended to him until it was possible to remove him after dark, further advance having been stopped by order.

Jemadar (now Subadar) Khan Gul, 53rd Sikhs (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry on the 8th March 1916. When the Subadar in command of his company was wounded, this newly promoted Jemadar took command and continued to handle it with skill and gallantry. He was specially helpful to his Double Company Commander during the difficult retirement when the company lost its way in the dark.

No. 194, Sepoy Shingar Singh, 53rd Sikhs (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry on the 8th March 1916, when he went three times to the rear and brought up ammunition to the firing line and distributed it with great coolness under heavy fire.

Subadar-Major Harnam Singh, Bahadur, 56th Punjabi Rifles (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry during operations on the 8th March 1916, when he commanded and led his double company with great ability and courage after the Double Company Commander had been wounded.

Subadar Khan Gul, 59th Scinde Rifles (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry and most valuable and loyal assistance on the 8th March 1916, during the attack on the enemy's trench and during the retirement. After his Captain had been hit the third time, Subadar Khan Gul collected the remainder of the men and took up a position from which he covered the retirement of the left of the Brigade. This Indian officer has always set a fine example to his men, notably at Givenchy and Neuve Chapelle.

Subadar Gauri Charan, 59th Scinde Rifles (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 17th-18th April 1916, during the Turkish counter-attack. As soon as the line was heavily attacked he organised ammunition and grenade carrying parties and led them to the line. During the night he made 7 or 8 journeys under very heavy fire. By his prompt and gallant action his regiment was not only able to maintain its own ammunition supply but also to assist other units. Subadar Gauri Charan was the only officer present when the massed 1st Line Transport of the Brigade was heavily shelled. He conducted the transport to another place, kept it together and undoubtedly saved a stampede of mules and consequent loss.

No. 2551, Havildar (now Jemadar) Sunit Chand, 59th Scinde Rifles (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry and coolness on the 8th March 1916, when in command of the regimental machine guns. The machine gun teams suffered very heavily, half the personnel being either killed or wounded and one gun was placed out of action by a direct hit by a shell.

No. 4040, Havildar Kalandar Khan, 59th Scinde Rifles (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 17th-18th April 1916, during the Turkish counter-attack. Throughout the night he was engaged in carrying ammunition up to the front line and continually crossed and recrossed the fire swept zone. He was particularly successful in getting his tired men to work with energy and speed, he himself displaying exceptional energy and daring.

Subadar Zaman Shah, 89th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry, marked ability and great coolness, on the 12th-13th April 1916. While commanding a platoon on the extreme left of the line and separated from the next unit by 400 yards he maintained his position at the most critical time under very heavy rifle fire, and in spite of heavy casualties, until fresh troops could be brought up to fill the gap. The enemy made several attempts to dislodge him but were unable to do so owing to his excellent fire control. He inspired his men with confidence and refused to yield any of the ground gained in the advance.

No. 1749, Havildar Ram Persan Tiwari, 89th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry and marked ability on the 12th-13th April 1916. On the British officer in charge of the machine gun section being wounded early in the advance, Havildar Ram Persan Tiwari took command and ably controlled the section. He was solely responsible for the eventual excellent tactical dispositions of the 4 guns in the new line, which materially enabled our line to maintain its position in spite of counter-attacks. Under very heavy rifle fire and at great personal risk he went from gun to gun encouraging his men and making most effective use of his fire.

Subadar-Major Farman Ali, Bahadur, 92nd Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry and meritorious service in action on the 6th January 1916, when in command of his half company in action. He was twice wounded in this action but carried on until disabled. Also for gallantry, initiative and coolness in the advance on the 7th April 1916 under heavy shell, rifle and machine gun fire. He was in charge of the 1st Line Supports of No. 4 Company when No. 2 Double Company Commander was dangerously wounded in the firing line. He at once pushed up his supports and took over command of No. 2 Company. He continued to advance until ordered to halt and dig in. On the line he then formed the rest of the Brigade was aligned. His example and initiative were most valuable and conspicuous throughout the day.

Subadar-Major Muhammad Bakhsh, Bahadur, 93rd Burma Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry on the 17th-18th April 1916, during the Turkish counter-attack, in controlling and reforming parties of all units under a heavy fire. He once wrestled with a Turk and killed him without using any firearms.

Jemadar (now Subadar) Indar Singh, 93rd Burma Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry on the 17th-18th April 1916, during the Turkish counter-attack, in controlling and re-forming parties of all units under a heavy enemy fire during a critical time. He several times formed firing lines on his own initiative which drove the enemy off.

Subadar (acting Subadar-Major) Kalu Gurung, 1st Battalion, 1st King George's Own Gurkha Rifles, for conspicuous gallantry during operations on the 8th March 1916. He led his platoon in the attack with most conspicuous dash and coolness. During the counter-attack at night when surrounded by the enemy he charged with his platoon, drove off the enemy and extricated his platoon with great skill.

No. 2820 Rifleman Randhoj Karki, 1st Battalion, 9th Gurkha Rifles, for conspicuous gallantry and absolute disregard of danger during the attack on the 17th April 1916. This man belonged to a party that captured two Turkish field guns. After the guns had been captured Rifleman Randhoj Karki ran across the open about 400 yards to where the enemy's gun horses were dug in, carrying only a kukri and a bomb. He threw the bomb and rushed into the trench and reappeared with 8 prisoners. Another man who was following joined him and together they brought the prisoners in. This was done under fire, both men being wounded.

2nd Class Senior Sub-Assistant Surgeon Riyazuddin, Indian Subordinate Medical Department, attached 27th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness during operations on the 17th-18th April 1916. When some of our advanced troops in their first retirement passed through the aid-post positions, forcing him to withdraw, he withstood the surrounding influences and in spite of the increasing closeness of the enemy's fire established by far the most advanced post in that part of the field, and worked it throughout the night under most trying conditions. At dawn he took the first opportunity of rejoining his regiment.

No. 1219 2nd Class Sub-Assistant Surgeon Kundan Lal, Indian Subordinate Medical Department, attached 56th Punjabi Rifles, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 8th March 1916, in attending to and collecting the wounded. He has shown gallantry and devotion to duty during previous battles in Mesopotamia.

Sub-Assistant Surgeon Lal Singh, Indian Subordinate Medical Department, attached 93rd Burma Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the action of the 17th-18th April 1916; when forced by the approach of the enemy, he personally supervised the evacuation of the Regimental Aid-post during the absence of the Medical Officer. On the way he found an abandoned machine gun and carried it himself about 400 yards to a safe position in rear while under heavy fire.

During the action of the 8th March 1916, he also displayed great devotion to duty in tending the wounded.

For promotion to the 1st Class of the Order.

No 3108, Naik Gurmukh Singh, 21st Field Company, 3rd Sappers and Miners, for excellent work during operations in the end of February and beginning of March in advancing our trenches against the enemy's position. On the night of 1st-2nd March 1916 he accompanied Lieutenant Tedman in tracing sap head 1 B and was shot through the clothes. His pick was broken by a bullet fired by Turks at about 20 yards range. He always seized opportunities of crawling forward with a few men and digging in to expedite the work.

For admission to the 2nd Class of the Order.

No. 4116, Sapper Mahtab Khan, 20th Company, 3rd Sappers and Miners, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in March 1916, when engaged in sapping operations against the enemy's lines. He specially distinguished himself on the 22nd-23rd March 1916 in crawling out in the open under a heavy close range fire and in removing one of the enemy's land mines which menaced the safety of the working party and the progress of the sap.

No. 1194, Lance-Naik Lal Khan, 19th Punjabis [attached 59th Scinde Rifles (Frontier Force)] for conspicuous gallantry on the 8th March 1916, when he fought with magnificent courage in the enemy's trenches. He was one of a party who met the hostile bombers and held them back while their own supply of grenades lasted, though attacked from both sides. With one of their officers they were the last of their company to leave the enemy's trenches. During the retirement the officer was wounded and these men refused to leave him and brought him in under very heavy fire and at great risk of capture.

No. 2103, Havildar Bir Singh, 35th Sikhs (attached 47th Sikhs), for conspicuous gallantry and skill on the 15th April 1916; when in command of a picquet of 14 rifles he organised and led an attack on a hostile picquet over 200 yards of open ground in broad daylight. The attack was made by a rush over the open to bombing distance whence bombs were thrown until the enemy surrendered. This non-commissioned officer led the charge himself and threw the first bomb. The enemy picquet consisted of 1 officer and 21 other ranks of which the officer and 17 other ranks were captured, 2 were killed and 2 escaped. The attack was made under flanking fire from the remainder of the enemy's picquet.

No. 1561, Sepoy Mahantu, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force), for marked gallantry and coolness on the morning of the 6th April 1916 in advancing under heavy shell and rifle fire to dress the wounds of his Commanding Officer. In doing so he was killed.

His widow (if any) is admitted to the pension of the Order with effect from the date of his death.

No. 1189, Naik Khan Khel, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force) for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 8th March 1916. When the regiments in the firing line were running short of ammunition he, with several others, volunteered to take up an extra supply under heavy fire from rifles and machine guns. Nearly all the boxes reached the firing line though many men were hit.

No. 2665, Naik Ghulam Hassan, 52nd Sikhs (Frontier Force) [attached 59th Rifles (Frontier Force)], for conspicuous gallantry on the 8th March 1916, when he fought with magnificent courage in the enemy's trenches. He was one of a party who met the hostile bombers and held them back while their own supply of grenades lasted, though attacked from both sides. With one of their officers they were the last of their company to leave the enemy's trenches. During the retirement the officer was wounded and these men refused to leave him and brought him in under very heavy fire and at great risk of capture.

Subadar Tola Singh, 59th Scinde Rifles (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry on the 8th March 1916 during an attack. Both his British officers being wounded he took command of his Double Company. During the withdrawal from the redoubt he held his men well in hand. He placed himself under the orders of the Officer Commanding, 47th Sikhs, and rendered invaluable service in rallying the men of his regiment as they reached the line of the 47th Sikhs. He collected and led parties of men to recover wounded from the ground under an enemy redoubt under very heavy fire. Eventually he retired with the 47th Sikhs and was wounded during this movement. He has been in every action with his regiment since October 1914 and has always been conspicuous for his good work.

No. 4551, Lance-Naik Ali Faqir, 59th Scinde Rifles (Frontier Force), for conspicuous gallantry on the 8th March 1916, when he fought with magnificent courage in the enemy's trenches. He was one of a party who met the hostile bombers and held them back while their own supply of grenades lasted, though attacked from both sides. With one of their officers they were the last of their company to leave the enemy's trenches. During the retirement the officer was wounded and these men refused to leave him and brought him in under very heavy fire and at great risk of capture.

No. 1443, Sepoy Kesar Singh, 82nd Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry, meritorious service and initiative on the 8th March 1916. This sepoy took command of his section when his non-commissioned officer was killed and led it forward under heavy fire. He was seen to shoot 10 of the enemy and although wounded he assisted to withdraw the only two remaining men of his section.

No. 1841, Naik Mahtab Ali, 89th Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry during the attack on the 11th March 1916, when he went forward five times from the trench in which he was and brought in wounded from a small fold in the ground 150 yards from the enemy under intense rifle fire. He was severely wounded when bringing in the last man. He was previously recommended for good patrol work in France.

Jemadar (now Subadar) Abdul Akbar, 92nd Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness in the attack on the 22nd April 1916, when he led his company to the furthest point reached in the attack under very heavy rifle and machine gun fire. He reported the loss of one of his British officers to the Subadar-Major, went to look for another British officer, and found him killed and all the Indian officers of the company severely wounded. He took command of this latter company and directed them with ability until ordered to retire. He did good service in the action on the 6th January 1916 where he was wounded and again in the action on 7th April 1916 where he was again wounded.

Jemadar Partab Singh, 92nd Punjabis, for conspicuous gallantry, meritorious service and coolness in the attack on 22nd April 1916; when his British officer fell mortally wounded at an early stage of the attack he promptly took command of the Double Company which was the leading line and carried it forward to the furthest point reached. He commanded his company with ability and coolness until he had only 9 men left, all British officers being either killed or wounded. He retired only under orders of the Subadar-Major. He has shown the same coolness, competence and disregard of danger when in the firing line in the actions of 6th, 7th, 13th, 20th and 21st January, on the 7th April 1916 and on various minor occasions. He is the only Indian officer of the regiment who has been present in all actions with the regiment in Mesopotamia and on the Suez Canal in 1915. He has never been off duty and has frequently commanded his double company in action.

Jemadar (now Subadar) Murari Sinde, 116th Mahrattas (attached 102nd Grenadiers), for conpicuous gallantry and coolness on the 7th January 1916 in advancing at night, with two privates, up to within 300 yards of the enemy's trenches and bringing back under a heavy rifle fire from both the enemy's trenches and our own, 6 mules laden with ammunition which had broken loose. Also for marked gallantry and ability on the 17th January 1916 when in command of a patrol specially called for by the General Officer Commanding, 35th Infantry Brigade, to reconnoitre towards the enemy's position which was about 900 yards away; he actually passed through the enemy's trenches and brought back useful information. He ca ried out this duty under heavy rifle fire from both sides.

Jemadar Munshi Singh, 125th Napier's Rifles, for conspicuous gallantry and ability on the 22nd April 1916, when he led his platoon forward in a very able manner, rallied them and led them forward again, under very heavy rifle and shell fire, until he was killed.

His widow (if any) is admitted to the pension of the Order with effect from the date of his death.

No. 1771, Havildar Sher Khan, 125th Napier's Rifles, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness on the 22nd April 1916, when he led his men forward under very heavy shell and rifle fire. Notwithstanding his being hit through both cheeks he continued to advance and was twice wounded through the arm; he still continued to lead his men forward and was shot through the left lung. He again went forward and was only stopped when the fifth bullet hit him in the leg. Even then he went back to the Aid Post unassisted.

No. 2436, Rifleman Goru Ram, 125th Napier's Rifles, for conspicuous gallantry and coolness on the 22nd April 1916, when he remained behind to help a seriously wounded comrade after his company had been ordered to retire. Having bound up his comrade's wounds he put him on his back and succeeded in bringing him in under very heavy machine gun and shell fire.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

EMIGRATION.

RESOLUTION.

Delhi, the 15th November 1916.

The following paper is published for the information of those interested in the subject:—

Despatch from the Government of India, to His Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 41 (Emigration), dated the 15th October 1915.

We have the honour to address you regarding the present system under which Indian labourers are recruited for certain Crown colonies. It will be remembered that in the year 1910 the Committee over which Lord Sanderson presided submitted a report which contained certain criticisms and suggestions regarding the conditions under which the emigration of Indian labour to the colonies should be conducted ; but the general trend of its conclusions was in favour of the continuance of the present method of indenture which was considered to be 'to the great benefit,' not only of the colonies, but equally of the main body of emigrants. It may be remarked incidentally that this Committee sat in London, and did not visit any of the colonies, though it examined a number of representative witnesses from each of them. The Committee's report contained a recommendation to the effect that officers of the Indian Government should visit each of the colonies employing indentured Indian labour at regular intervals, and report on the condition of the emigrants and on the measures which may be desirable to promote their welfare.

2. In pursuance of this recommendation, the Government of India deputed Mr. McNeill, I.C.S., and Mr. Chimman Lal, an Indian gentleman from the United Provinces, which is an important recruiting ground for colonial emigration, to visit the colonies concerned and submit a report on the conditions under which Indian labour was employed. The report was received by the Government of India in July 1914. These two gentlemen agreed with Lord Sanderson's Committee in their approval of the system. They considered that 'its advantages far outweighed its disadvantages,' and that 'the great majority of the emigrants exchanged grinding poverty with practically no hope of betterment for a condition varying from simple but secure comfort to solid prosperity.' They also made certain recommendations for the improvement of the system and for the elimination from it of certain undesirable features to which they drew attention.

3. Apart from these recommendations, there are certain significant facts and figures in the report, which have attracted the special attention of the Government of India, and have led them to consider carefully whether the economic benefits which, it has been claimed, are conferred on the Indian labourer by indentured emigration, may not be outweighed by other and more serious drawbacks, and whether the popular feeling in this country, which has been setting more and more strongly against the practice of recruitment on indenture, is not after all based on solid as well as sentimental reasons. The colonies which at present receive Indian indentured labour are Trinidad, Demerara, Jamaica, Fiji and Dutch colony of Surinam. We do not propose to consider in any detail the arguments regarding emigration to the latter colony, for it is clear that, if our views regarding British colonies meet with your acceptance, it will be impossible for the Government of the Netherlands to demand the application of any different policy to Surinam. The varying degrees of dependence of the different colonies on imported Indian labour, and the history of the system under which it has been worked in the past in each case, are fully set forth in the report of Lord Sanderson's Committee; it is not necessary, therefore, to repeat these, nor do we desire to discuss the housing, sanitary and medical arrangements that exist in the various colonies: it may be at once admitted that they are generally satisfactory and often excellent, while the weak spots are mostly capable of, or in process of, removal. It is rather to the social, administrative, and economic conditions under which Indian labour is employed that we desire to direct attention. We shall first discuss the death and suicide rates, the proportion of the sexes, the prosecutions for labour offences in the colonies, and the method of recruitment in India. We shall then consider the economic advantages of emigration from the Indian point of view. And, finally, we shall explain the objections which Indian public opinion has raised against the continuance of the system.

4. Death-rate.—The statement below represents the death-rate in the colonies of indentured and, so far as figures are separately available, of unindentured Indian labour:—

Year.	Colony.	Population.		Death-rate per 1,000		General Indian death-rate in colony.
		Indentured.	Unindentured.	Indentured.	Unindentured.
1911	Trinidad	9,627	15,873	18·2	...	9·8
1912	Trinidad	10,982	14,169	17·0	...	...
1913	Trinidad	12,747	13,306	15·5	...	...
1911-12	British Guiana	9,141	54,804	17·7	26·4	25·6
1912-13	British Guiana	9,453	57,442	12·1	19·4	18·9
1913-14	British Guiana	9,114	57,336	9·4	20·2	18·6
1911-12	Jamaica	2,910	...	30·9	...	...
1912-13	Jamaica	3,066	...	22·1	...	...
1913-14	Jamaica	4,047	...	23·0	...	..
1911	Fiji	14,462	29,758	27·3	13·3	17·8
1912	Fiji	15,369	32,482	25·9	11·8	16·9
1913	Fiji	15,961	35,644	22·7	10·7	14·4

The above figures do not enable a contrast to be made in all cases between indentured and unindentured population. But the figures are particularly striking in Fiji. Here the death-rate has been decidedly high, considering that the island is free from malaria and that the majority of indentured coolies are adults in the prime of life selected after medical examination. The death-rate, however, shows signs of diminution which may be attributed to the improvement effected by the colony in sanitary, and medical arrangements. The death-rates for persons of all ages and for persons of 20-30 years of age, the age which most nearly corresponds to the average age of indentured immigrants, in the United Provinces and Madras were as follows :—

Year.	Ages 20-30.				All ages and sexes.
	United Provinces.		Madras.		United Provinces.	Madras.
	Per 1,000 men.	Per 1,000 women.	Per 1,000 men.	Per 1,000 women.	Per 1,000	Per 1,000
1910	20·43	21·66	11·5	11·9	38·67	24·7
1911	23·09	26·71	10·9	11·6	44·95	23·1

The average death-rates in 1914 in Madras and the United Provinces jails, where the inmates are cared for on somewhat similar principles but much more closely than in the colonies, were 11·83 and 11·9, respectively. Allowing for the fact that indentured emigrants are all medically examined before leaving India, and that the housing, sanitaton and medical supervision of coolies in the colonies are far superior to anything available for the Indian village population, it is clear that the mortality among indentured coolies is decidedly high, especially in Fiji, although more conscientious and sustained efforts are probably made in this colony for the medical care and sanitation of Indian labourers than anywhere else in the world.

5. As a special feature of the death-rate, the high number of suicides among indentured coolies has for long attracted attention. This subject is dealt with* in considerable detail in Messrs. McNeill and Chimman Lal's report. We reproduce the figures below :—

Colony.	Average rate, for ten years ending 1912, of suicides per million of Indian population.
	Free.	Indentured.
Trinidad	134	400
British Guiana	52	100
Jamaica	...	396
Dutch Guiana	49	91
Fiji	147	926
These figures may be compared with the figures given below for various parts of India.

A 2

The average rate amongst the unindentured population is high: but that among the indentured is a most serious matter, and not the less so in that it is seen at its very worst in the colonies with the largest population basis of indentured labour. We may admit at once that a more careful record is probably maintained for indentured than for unindentured Indians. But the difference is too marked and the ratio too constant to admit of this being at all a complete explanation. We may admit also that the indentured population includes practically all the new comers. But this again cannot explain such high figures. Messrs McNeill and Chimman Lal's report abstains from drawing very definite conclusions as to the causes; among possible factors are home sickness, lack of freedom, the abnormal sex ratio, which will be discussed below in greater detail, and the unaccustomed surroundings.

6. Proportion of the sexes.—The coolies despatched from Calcutta in the year 1913 comprised 4,281 males and 1,845 females. The corresponding figures for 1912 were 5,960 and 2,569. From Madras 1,517 men and 605 women embarked in 1913 for Fiji and British Guiana. The proportion of sexes among the average Indian population of various colonies concerned was stated in the report presented to Parliament by the Colonial Office in March 1914 to be as under :—

Colony.	Adult males.	Adult females.	REMARKS.
Trinidad, Tobago	21,989	17,159	These figures were compiled from the 1911 Census Reports of the various colonies.
British Guiana	53,083	34,799
Jamaica	7,137	4,775
Fiji	20,062	8,785

This disproportion affects both indentured and unindentured labour, the latter of course to a much less extent.

7. The high suicide rate and the disproportionate sex ratio are not, it is true, evils peculiar to a system of indentured labour. At the same time, suicides are undoubtedly of far greater frequency among indentured colonial labourers than among the unindentured The latter class is largely composed of persons who have passed the dangerous period of hopeless home-sickness, which is said to be one of the main causes of suicide. But it is possible enough that the feeling of being bound to serve for a fixed period and on the same estate is often the last straw that turns the scale in the mind of a man who is already depressed by home-sickness, jealousy, domestic unhappiness, or any other cause. Even if indentured labour were abolished, the effect of unusual surroundings, inability to return at will, or other causes might be sufficient to maintain the suicide rate above a normal figure. But it is most probable that the ability of the coolie to change his surroundings and his employer would, in this event, cause a very great diminution in the rate. As regards the question of sexual immorality, though this very important subject has not been dealt with in any great detail in the reports of the two previous Committees, there is a considerable amount of unofficial evidence, which shows that the moral conditions in the Indian coolie lines in Fiji at any rate are indescribable: and in view of the proportion of the sexes shown in the official figures, we feel certain that these accounts are little, if at all, exaggerated. The only suggestion that is made in Messrs. McNeill and Chimman Lal's report for its removal would take a great length of time to exercise its full effect, which after all would be comparatively slight. The evil seems inseparable from the maintenance of emigration under present conditions and on its present scale. Immigrants, except where a system of seasonal emigration by families prevails, are bound to include more men than women; and the latter are equally bound to include, as is the case at present, a large proportion of persons who are prostitutes, social outcastes, or have been unhappy in their domestic relations. Choice of partners is thus necessarily limited, both as to quantity and quality; and it is still further restricted by the obligation to reside on a particular estate. It thus appears impossible to effect any improvement in the present state of things, which forms one of the darkest blots on the system, without a radical alteration in the sex ratio; and the necessity for bringing this about calls for serious consideration. But until this is done, the moral responsibility, which we incur, would be infinitely less under a system of free emigration, than under the present system. The law which allows the coolie to enter into a binding agreement in India is an Act of the Indian Government, and enforceable in its courts.

8. Prosecutions.—The figures for prosecutions are very significant, though they have decreased in number in recent years.

1911	10,660	2,373	22	2,031	85	397

Almost all the cases dismissed were on account of want of prosecution or evidence and most of these were presumably cases in which the employer himself did not wish to proceed to extremities.

In Fiji, as in certain other colonies, conviction often involves extension of the period of indenture, a very undesirable form of punishment.

Imprisonment for labour offences, except after three previous convictions, was abolished in Fiji in 1912.

It may be noted that many of the prosecutions involve more than one charge against the same coolie, and that the same men are sometimes prosecuted more than once in the same year, so that the actual number of coolies prosecuted is somewhat less than the number of cases. With this explanation, it may be stated that the average percentage of prosecutions on population concerned over the periods for which figures are given above was for Trinidad 23, for British Guiana 19, for Jamaica 12, and for Fiji 13. By far the larger proportion of these prosecutions arose out of the provisions of the labourer's contract.

There is no need to suppose that all these prosecutions were unreasonably undertaken: in fact, it is fairly clear that in most estates, prosecutions are kept down to the minimum number consistent with what has hitherto been considered efficient management. There are, however, not wanting signs that in Fiji at any rate, the unwisdom of the system hitherto pursued is being recognized : but as long as a labourer is bound to serve a particular master, kind or cruel, it will be impossible to avoid retaining some means of compulsion to make the coolie keep to his bargain.

The extraordinarily high proportion of convictions to prosecutions is significant even in such simple cases as labour offences. It is alleged by the opponents of the system that justice is not done; that the coolie is largely in the hands of the interpreter who is apt to take the side of the employers; that the magistrates are in many cases themselves employers, or necessarily favour the employers; and that the witnesses are servants of the prosecutor. Some of these facts are obviously true ; but of the truth of others no authoritative evidence is forthcoming, while Messrs. McNeill and Chimman Lal's report states that justice is usually properly administered. But the possibilities of injustice which obviously exist, coupled with the very high percentage of convictions, give rise to uncomfortable suspicions.

9. Method of recruitment.—The recruitment of coolies by contractors, whose earnings depend on per capita payments for coolies recruited, has for long been regarded by the Government of India as unsatisfactory. In the case of labour required for Assam the system was made illegal from 1st July of this year. No specific local enquiry has as yet been made into the conditions under which labour is recruited in upcountry districts for the colonies, but there is no reason to believe that colonial emigration, controlled as it is only by Crown agents at comparatively distant centres, is on any better footing than was contract recruitment for Assam, while the complaints that appear in the press, or reach the ears of local officers, regarding occasional abuses, are of a very similar nature to those which led the Government of India, after careful enquiry, to abolish contract recruitment for Assam labour. Those responsible for the management of tea gardens, in Calcutta or upcountry, though they usually desire to work on clean lines, have proved quite unable to control the abuse which seem inseparable from the system of contract recruitment. The coolie contractor and his agents have for long borne a decidedly unsavoury reputation with their fellow villagers or townsmen. The policy of the Government of India in respect of Assam emigration has been to replace these men by sardars, who are labourers of a superior class from the tea gardens themselves, and who come back from time to time to their own villages and return with the recruits which they have collected there to the garden of their own employer, where they again work side by side with the recruits they have brought. This is the only system now permitted for Assam recruitment, and the kangani system under which recruitment for Ceylon and the Straits Settlements is mostly conducted, while it has certain drawbacks of its own, resembles it in its main features. It will readily be appreciated that there are serious difficulties involve in the maintenance of a system for the benefit of overseas colonies, which we have found it necessary to abolish in the case of Assam, one of our own Provinces.

Regarding the class of persons collected by the recruiters, the last annual report on emigration from the Port of Calcutta bears eloquent testimony. Of 5,210 persons received into the upcountry depôts, 1,186 were rejected as medically unfit; of the balance 3,837 persons reached the Calcutta depôts, of whom only 2,678 left for the colonies, the balance having been returned as unfit or having absconded. The nature of the miscellaneous scraps of humanity collected by the recruiters in the first instance can be readily imagined.

10. Economic aspect.—We turn now to the economic aspect of the question. It has often been stated that the economic advantages gained by the Indian labourer are so great that they outweigh the moral and social evils which we have just described. We do not think it possible to apply a common measure which will enable such a comparison to be made. But the extent of these economic advantages has been too readily assumed. The rise in wages and in the standard of comfort among the labouring population of India has been great, and in certain particular areas, very great indeed. It is necessary, therefore, to compare the economic conditions of Indian labour in the colonies with those existing in various parts of India itself in order to decide precisely what degree of weight can be allowed to this argument.

Trinidad.—On the estates visited by Messrs. McNeill and Chimman Lal, the wages averaged about 4*s*. 6*d*. a week for indentured men. On a few of the best estates, the earnings were about 5*s*. The women earn from half to two-thirds of the above. The food of an industrious worker with a healthy appetite costs from 2*s*. 9*d*. to 3*s*. a week. Infants get rations at the employer's expense. Messrs. McNeill and Chimman Lal's Report states that a good worker can save 2*s*. a week and all but inferior workers can save on the average about 1*s*. In point of fact, with average earnings of 4*s*. 3*d*. and food costing 3*s*., it does not seem very probable that the labourer will clothe himself and his children, pay for petty luxuries, etc., of the type he affects, and yet save as much as 1*s*. It may be noted that rice, which sells at 4 seers to the rupee, pays an import tax of 20 per cent ad valorem, and dhal 12 per cent. Coolies have little or no chance of adding to their earnings while under indentures. No separate particulars are given for remittances or savings by indentured Indians.

British Guiana.—The average for all workers, including females and children, is 11¾*d*. a day, for an average week of 5 days. On field work, the weekly average for shovel-men was 8*s*. 9½*d*. and 6*s*. 5½*d*. for all others. Good workers sometimes earn £1-5-4 a fortnight, and earnings of 18*s*. 8*d*. are not uncommon. The average earnings per day actually worked by men is about 12*d*. A man, it is stated, ought to be able to save upwards of 2*s*. a week, if of average physique.

Indentured coolies are rewarded by being allowed to cultivate plots of rice. Repatriated emigrants took back with them the following sums :—

Year.	Returned emigrants.		Sums brought back.
	Men.	Women.	Deposited for transmission.	Estimated additional sums.
			Dollars.	Dollars.
1910	558	220	43,451	7,242
1911	460	179	36,897	4,800
1912	404	158	39,860	6,644
1913	446	154	29,253	4,875

These amounts were saved after a period, presumably, of ten years, and represent an average saving of 70 to 80 dollars a head, or say R240.

Jamaica.—Men's wages per day worked averaged from 10½*d.* to 1*s.* 5¾*d.* The average labourer works on two days out of three. Women's wages average from 7½*d.* to 1*s.* ¾*d.* per day worked. A fair estimate of the daily cost of living would be, it is stated, 3*s.* 6*d.* weekly for an able-bodied man. Plots of land are rarely given to indentured coolies, nor are they encouraged to keep cows, for fear of deteriorating the type of animals kept by their employers.

Returned emigrants took back with them the following sums :—

Year.	Returned emigrants.		Sums brought back.
	Men.	Women.	Cheques.	Jewellery.
			£	R
1911	...	...	...	...
1912	210	74	2,650	722
1913	...	...	...	...

Fiji.—An ordinary skilled man earns 9*s.* or 10*s.* a week at cane cutting and for loading trucks from 1*s.* 3*d.* a day upwards. Coolies very seldom work more than 5½ days a week. Rations are given to indentured immigrants for six months and to children for twelve months after arrival. The employer may not deduct for an adult's rations more than 2*s.* 4*d.* weekly. The retail cost of these rations to the coolie would be from 3*s.* to 3*s.* 6*d.* The price of rice is about 2½ seers to the rupee. Children's rations include milk. The average number of days worked is higher than in another colonies, as the climate is healthy, the sanitary arrangements good, and the coolies are said to like the variety of the work with its slack and busy seasons during the latter of which they can earn high wages. Repatriations are comparatively few, owing to the good wages. Plots of land have not hitherto been given to coolies, but it is now proposed to do this. One shilling is the minimum wage for men for a day of 9 hours. The average earnings in 1913 were as under :—

—	Per working day.	Per day worked.
	d.	d.
Men	12·29	13·32
Women	6·54	8·37

The average savings after paying for food would thus be about 2*s.* 10*d.* Repatriated emigrants took back with them the following sums :—

Year.	Returned Emigrants.		Sums brought back.
	Men.	Women.	Cash deposited.	Value of other cash, etc.	Total.
1910	199	70	1,156	7,313	8,470
1911	334	98	2,391	10,194	12,585
1912	275	106	1,879	11,955	13,834
1913	376	131	2,760	14,000	16,760

About one-third of those repatriated were destitute or unfit. The remainder had worked for 10 years. Assuming that the former class brought back nothing, which is improbable, the latter brought on an average some £49 a piece.

It would appear therefore that coolies in the above mentioned colonies can save from less than 1*s.* to about 3*s.* a week, provided that they spend little or nothing except on food and clothes. The savings brought home after 10 years' work, during 5 years of which they are presumably employed as free coolies, show that they do not, as a matter of fact, save anything like this figure, even allowing for money remitted to India. Annual remittances by Indians, which however include those by both free and indentured labourers, were as under :—

Year.	Trinidad.	British Guiana.	Fiji.	Jamaica.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1910	58,013	31,026	48,214	6,614
1911	55,614	33,635	47,730	6,305
1912	52,791	41,133	57,300	6,975
1913	65,218	46,677	57,421	5,595
1914	79,513	38,084	60,900	5,155

B

The annual report on emigration from the Port of Calcutta for the year 1914 shows that out of emigrants arriving in Calcutta, the following brought back savings .—

—	Returned Emigrants.		Savings brought by.	Of whom sums over Rs. 150 were brought by.
	Men.	Women.
Demerara	424	157	483	241
Trinidad	487	172	273	182
Fiji	522	177	53	45
Jamaica	...	...	...	...

These figures bear out fairly well the figures already quoted, as regards the relative wage earning possibilities in the different colonies. They do not include the value of the jewellery brought back, which is presumably estimated and somewhat doubtful : and a very large proportion of returned emigrants, nearly half, brought back no savings at all.

11. We have seen, then, that the wages earned by indentured coolies in the colonies range between 4*s*. 3*d*. and 6*s*. 3*d*. per week, or say, 18*s*. and 26*s*. a month, the highest earnings being in Fiji. Deducting the cost of rations at 3*s*. 3*d*. a head, the net earnings in the latter colony came to 3*s*. a week, or say 12*s*. 9*d*. a month. But there are many places in India where as good or almost as good wages are paid for unskilled labour, excluding the Punjab where the labourer is stronger and more efficient. In Eastern Bengal, wages run as high as 1*s*. 4*d*. a day in the jute season which lasts for several months. The published wage statistics for the eastern districts of Bengal, which are however not entirely reliable, give the rate for ordinary agricultural labour at from 13*s*. 4*d*. to 20*s* a month. More accurate figures obtained by the personal enquiries of an officer on special duty, showed that the labourers in Mymensingh earn from 8*d*. to 10*d*. a day : while others obtain from 5*s*. 4*d*. to 9*s*. 4*d*. a month with their food. On the above figures an average wage of from 4*s*. to 5*s*. a week may be fairly assumed. Calculating the cost of the same rations as are given or bought in Fiji, at Eastern Bengal prices, the Eastern Bengal cooly's weekly food expenditure is 1*s* 4⅛*d* and deducting this from the average weekly wage rate of 4*s* 6*d*. the balance is roughly 3*s*. 2*d*. The Eastern Bengal labourer's position is thus nearly as good as that of an indentured coolie in Fiji. He has to pay house rent unless, as is usually the case, he sleeps in a jute godown, or the cultivator's verandah, while the Fiji labourer is housed for nothing. The Eastern Bengal labourer is often an emigrant from Bihar, who leaves most of his family behind him where no doubt they earn a trifle, while the very few children that the Fiji coolie takes with him contribute to the family earnings, and his infant children receive rations. But the above figures are enough to show that in point of actual excess of wages over the bare cost of living there are places in India, outside the large towns, where a coolie can do as well as in most, if not all, of the colonies without the great disadvantage of having to leave his country and indenture himself to an employer, who may be considerate or the reverse, but whom he is bound to serve for five years, or go to jail if he refuses. It is true that in the areas in the east of the United Provinces and in Madras, whence the indentured coolie is mostly drawn, the wages are miserably low, and congestion is intense. But there is no reason except the lack of a recruiting agency to take him there, why the United Provinces coolie should not follow the example of his Bihar neighbour and go to work in Eastern Bengal, where the field for labour is very large. In the towns and the urban mills the wages for labour, with a small degree of skill that does not take long to gain, are nearly as high as in Eastern Bengal, though house rent and cost of food are higher. A coolie ought thus to be able on purely arithmetical considerations, to save from 2s. a week upwards. It is certain that the Indian demand for labour is far more than enough to absorb the 6,129 coolies that left Calcutta for the colonies on indenture in 1913, even if thereto be added the 1,607 coolies that left Madras for the same destination in the same year.

There is, however, a real advantage to the coolie, and it is a very real one, in colonial emigration. It gives the coolie the chance, after his indenture is over, of obtaining land, from which he can derive higher profits and live a life the conditions of which are in many ways more pleasant, than anything which is open to him in India though it is to some extent attainable in this country. In Assam, for instance, where labour under indenture has now been abolished, the tea garden labourer is usually allowed a plot of land to cultivate in his spare time : and when he leaves the garden an abundance of fertile waste land is available from which he can take up a plot at very little expense, and with the title of a ryot holding direct from Government.

12. We have seen that the case against indentured emigration is, from the point of view of the moral and social welfare of the coolie, very strong : and from the material point of view, its advantages are not so considerable as is sometimes thought. We have now to consider, so far as the information before us permits, and so far as it is necessary at the present stage, what would be the effect on the colonies, were it abolished.

British Guiana.—The average number of coolies who entered the colony yearly up to 1905 was 3,500 : and between 1905 and 1910, 2,200. In the year 1913, the colony took only 64 coolies from Madras and 1,276 from Calcutta. At the end of the year 1912, the resident Indian population was 129,389 out of a total of some 300,000. The injury to colonial interests, even if Indian emigration were stopped altogether, which we do not propose, would thus apparently not be fatal.

Trinidad.—The total population of this colony was estimated in 1907 at 338,000 : the Indian residents at the end of 1912 were 117,100.

The average yearly emigration has been as under—

1881-1891	2,500
1891-1901	2,100
1901-1908	2,700
1911	3,557
1912	2,627
1913	1,236

The number of adult labourers indented for and supplied during the last three years was as under :—

—	Indented for.	Supplied.
1911	more than 3,200	3,557
1912	2,300	2,550
1913	1,089	1,188

The demand thus appears, on the whole, to be declining, and a further diminution of the supply, while it would no doubt affect the plantations adversely, could scarcely make plantation agriculture impossible.

Jamaica.—The total population is 830,000, of whom in 1908 the Indian element was stated to constitute 13,821, a number which showed a decrease of about 1,000 in 19 years. At the end of 1912, it is shown at the obviously estimated figure of 20,000. In 1913, only 824 indentured emigrants sailed for Jamaica. In 1914, there was no emigration. Here prohibition must be a matter of indifference to the colony.

Fiji.—The case is, however, very different in Fiji, where at the end of 1913, the resident Indian population was 51,605. Between 1905 and 1910 about 8,000 coolies emigrated from India to the colony, and 2,200 returned. The subsequent figures have been—

Year.	Emigrated.
1911	4,204
1912	3,373
1913	3,222

By far the greater proportion of these were from Madras.

In view of the nature of the cultivation, which is mainly conducted by capitalist interests and consists of sugarcane and cocoanut plantations, of the declining numbers of the native population, of the difficulty experienced in recruiting Polynesians to a sufficient extent, and of the scanty population of the island; there is no doubt that any considerable diminution of the supply of Indian labour would be a very serious matter for the colony.

It would appear, in fact, that any diminution in the Indian labour supply which may reasonably be anticipated as the result of the proposals we are making in this despatch, can hardly affect Jamaica at all; will not be a really grave matter in the case of Demerara and Trinidad; and is only likely to need serious consideration in the case of Fiji.

13. We may now consider the position from the point of view of India herself. Including the figures of emigration to Surinam, the total Indian emigration on indenture to the tropical colonies during the year 1913 was—

Port of embarkation.	Number.
Madras	1,607
Calcutta	6,129
TOTAL	7,736

From an economic point of view, then, the interest of India as a whole in indentured emigration is negligible, and we need not meet the argument that colonial emigration is a safety-valve for congested districts in India.

It is, moreover, the case that in the same year, 117,783 unindentured coolies proceeded from Madras alone to the Straits Settlements, and 190,059 to Ceylon.

14. Conclusions.—In his despatch of 3rd January 1913, Lord Crewe stated that the Indian national sentiment against the stigma laid on the race by the existence of the indentured system ignored the advantages to the labourers themselves. We have attempted to show that the economic advantage gained by the coolie, while actually serving under indenture, is not so great as is often supposed; and that the real benefit, which he gains from emigration arises after the close of his indenture period, from the opportunities then before him of purchasing or leasing land or setting up in business and making himself a position as a settler. But whatever may be the extent of the economic advantage arising from the emigration of indentured labour, the political aspect of the question is such that no one, who has at heart the interests of British rule in India, can afford to neglect it. It is one of the most prominent subjects in Indian political life to-day: and its discussion arouses more bitterness, perhaps, than that of any other outstanding question. For Indian politicians, moderate and extreme, alike consider that the existence of this system, which they do not hesitate to call by the name of slavery, brands their whole race in the eyes of the British Colonial Empire with the stigma of helotry. How, they ask, will a European colonial ever admit us into the fellowship of citizens of the Empire, when he knows that men of our country and colour can be purchased for five years for five shillings a week? It is firmly believed also in this country, and it would appear, not without grave reason, that the women emigrants are too often living a life of immorality in which their persons are, by reason of pecuniary temptation or official pressure, at the free disposition of their fellow recruits and even of the subordinate managing staff. The feelings which these beliefs engender are strong. As far back as 1910, when moving a resolution in favour of the abolition of indentured labour in Natal, the late Mr. Gokhale mentioned the unanimous feeling of his party and of Indians in South Africa, that indenture should be abolished everywhere. A further debate on the general question took place in 1912, when the resolution brought forward by the same gentleman, though defeated, had the support of every Indian member of the Imperial Council. It is unnecessary here to trace the arguments brought forward in the mover's eloquent speech which are recorded in the debates of the Imperial Council, and are still used by Indian editors and politicians. The Government speakers on the other side admitted the existence of certain abuses, which it was believed could be largely remedied: but pressed the economic advantages to the coolie emigrants and denied that the indentured system could rightly be entitled slavery. Indian public opinion has strengthened and grown more articulate since the debate of 1912, while the favourable impression created on our minds by Lord Sanderson's Report, on which our defence of the system in 1912 was mainly based, has been considerably qualified, as has been indicated in the earlier paragraphs of this despatch, by the information which has subsequently been elicited by Messrs. McNeill and Chimman Lal.

15. On receipt of Messrs. McNeill and Chimman Lal's Report, we invited the opinions of Local Governments on its recommendations and on the general question whether indentured emigration to the colonies should be continued. The greater number of the Governments consulted have submitted their opinions, and we append copies of the letters marginally noted.

Although the report favoured the continuance of indentured emigration, while its recommendations referred only to the measures necessary for improving that system, it is noteworthy that the opinions of the Governments of the United Provinces, Madras and the Central Provinces (that of the latter Government conveyed in a memorandum by Sir B. Robertson, the Chief Commissioner), provinces which provide, practically speaking, all the indentured recruits that emigrate to the colonies to which this despatch relates, unanimously testify to the necessity of putting an end to indentured emigration altogether. The opinion of the Assam Administration is much to the same effect, in that they suggest the replacing of indentured emigration by a system of State-aided, but presumably free, emigration. The Bombay Government have no very decided views on the maintenance of indentured emigration which does not, however, directly concern them, as the Bombay Presidency sends, practically speaking, no emigrants to the colonies. We have still to receive reports from certain other provinces; these, however, have little immediate concern with the question and there are strong reasons for indicating our own attitude on this urgent and important question without further delay.

16. The feeling in India against indentured emigration has in no way diminished since the discussions of 1912, but has indeed gained force owing to the labour troubles in South Africa two years ago. We would also again point out that now that we have abolished in India what was considered by a large section of the intelligent public to be an abuse, it is becoming increasingly difficult for us to defend the retention of a similar system for the benefit of the colonies. We are of opinion that the moment has now arrived to urge His Majesty's Government to assent to the total abolition of the system of Indian indentured labour in the four British colonies where it still prevails and in Surinam; and thus to remove a social stigma which is deeply resented by educated public opinion in India, and exposes to hostile criticism the Government of India and His Majesty's Government in the sanction which they lend to a system entailing much unhappiness and moral degradation amongst certain classes of a population dependent on their care and protection. We can well understand that His Majesty's Government, with their heavy pre-occupations during the course of the war, may prefer to postpone the final settlement of the question till after the conclusion of peace. But in the meantime, to facilitate the preliminary discussions which will have to be undertaken with the colonies interested, we desire to submit the following preliminary suggestions on the general outlines of a scheme which, in our opinion, affords the most hopeful solution of the difficulties which we have pointed out, while causing as little disturbance to colonial interests as is compatible with the maintenance of our obligations to the classes of the Indian population concerned.

17. It is quite clear that the mere abolition of indentured emigration, a course which implies the refusal to allow any emigrant to leave the country under a contract, will not be sufficient The result of this would be that recruiters would induce coolies to go without any agreement, but by the grant of advances, or by fraud, and the coolies on their arrival in the colony would be wholly at the mercy of its laws, and might be compelled to work out the advances which they had received, or were alleged to have received, by local labour laws with which the Government of India would have greatly weakened its power of interference. The mere abolition of indentured emigration, while it would remove what is in India considered a racial stigma, would not do away with the morally undesirable features of coolie life in the colonies or with the abuses of contract recruiting in India, and yet these are stains from which British administration in India ought to cleanse itself. The introduction of a system of recruitment on sardari or kangani lines would, we admit, present difficulties in the case of distant colonies. It would be costly to arrange for the continuous voyage under proper conditions of small parties of coolies; and the system must, in any case, be freed from the bonds which the receipt of advances and the Ceylon enticement law attach to the kangani system. We think, however, that such difficulties can, and should, be met. One of the best features of the last mentioned system is the possibility which it holds out of improving the present abnormal sex ratio with its attendant evils, the removal of which is, in our opinion, an absolutely essential condition of whatever new system be introduced to take the place of indentured emigration. The system might be financed by the colonies through a tax on coolie-cultivated estates, or coolie-produced exports. There is no need for the individual planter to pay for the individual coolie, and so be led to consider that he has a right of property in him. The coolie should be at liberty to serve whatever master he chose, while if he desired to return to India, he would be called on to pay some share of the cost of his repatriation, a share which might vary with the nature of the circumstances and with the length of time he had served. The prospects of free emigration are not at present very hopeful, except so far as the Mauritius figures are concerned. The figures for free labour emigration during the past three years have been as under :—

——	British Guiana.	Jamaica.	Trinidad.	Fiji.	Mauritius.
1911-12	19	...	62	16	...
1912-13	6	2	4	54	840
1913-14	4	...	49	83	794

It would appear, then on the whole, that an improved kangani system, under which a coolie was not bound by the receipt of advances or by the local law to serve on a particular estate; with a proper sex ratio, and confined to approved colonies, offers the most promising results. The present system of inspection, shipping, and sanitary regulations would have to be maintained. There is no doubt that the change, especially the insistence on a proper sex ratio, would lead, at any rate at first, to a considerable falling off in the number of emigrants. But, after all, it is not the duty of the Government of India to provide coolies for the colonies, but to insist that those who go there shall do so under conditions which are not repellent to educated Indian opinion, and which give the emigrant himself a chance to live a decent life under proper conditions, and to develop into a more desirable class of settler than the man who at present leaves the coolie barracks of a Fiji sugar estate at the expiry of his period of indenture. By a policy on these lines India will surely offer a more acceptable contribution to the cause of Imperial progress and unity than by a blind compliance with demands for the continuance of an evil system.

ORDERED that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations, for information, and that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 11th November 1916.

Burma.—Good rain fell in several districts of Lower Burma and a few districts of Upper Burma, elsewhere the fall was light. In Lower Burma reaping of wet weather paddy and hill-side crops has commenced. In Upper Burma ploughing for miscellaneous crops is progressing. Reaping of early paddy, plucking of cotton and gathering of ground-nut continue. Condition of standing crops is satisfactory. The health of cattle is good. The price of unhusked rice in Rangoon is Rs. 112 per hundred baskets and is below normal. The market for white rice is weak.

Assam.—The weather was seasonable in the beginning and rainy and cloudy at the close of the week but generally favourable to standing crops. Ploughing of land for, and sowing of mustard and pulses are in progress. Plucking and manufacture of tea and harvesting of early rice are still going on. Prospects of tea, winter rice, cotton and sugarcane are fair. Damage caused by insect pests to paddy crops is reported from Cachar and Sylhet. Insufficiency of fodder and cattle disease is reported from three districts. The price of common rice has fallen in four districts and risen in one. Agricultural loans are still being given in flood damaged areas of Cachar.

Bengal.—During the latter part of the week there was heavy rainfall accompanied by wind and storms in most of the districts of the Burdwan division; elsewhere the fall was light to moderate. Considerable damage has been done to the standing crops where the fall was heavy. Sowing of potatoes and pulses was also retarded. Sowings of spring crops and harvesting of early winter rice continue in the Eastern Bengal districts. Fodder is reported to be scarce in parts of the Jessore, Khulna, Dinajpur and Tippera districts. Cattle disease is reported from four districts only. The average price of common rice has fallen slightly from that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on famine in Bankura is as follows:—The state of affairs in the affected areas has improved. Prospects of standing crops are good. Harvesting of autumn paddy continues. Prices are falling. The price of rice is 10 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 788. All relief works have been closed since 6th November.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain fell during the week in parts of the Orissa, Chota Nagpur and Bhagalpur divisions. Sowings of spring crops are in progress. Harvesting of early winter paddy continues in Orissa and Chota Nagpur and has commenced in parts of Bihar. Standing crops are on the whole doing well. The average price of common rice has fallen as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from fifteen districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is on the whole good; some damage has, however, been done to paddy and other standing crops in some of the States by the recent heavy rainfall.

United Provinces.—No rain fell during the week. Harvesting and threshing of autumn crop, sowing of winter crops and poppy, and picking of cotton are in progress. The harvest prospects are good. The yield of rice is likely to be better than for some years but cotton will only be moderate. The fine weather late in October considerably improved prospects of grain and fodder. Irrigation of winter crops and pressing of sugarcane has commenced in some places. The agricultural stock is in good condition but slight cattle disease is reported from twenty districts. Fodder and water supply are sufficient. The markets are adequately supplied. Prices tend to fall especially in the Central Doab and south eastern districts.

Punjab.—The weather remained dry during the week. Picking of cotton and harvesting of rice, maize, etc., continue. The outturn is generally normal to good. Standing cotton, sugarcane and other crops are in good condition. Sowings of gram have been completed in some districts and of wheat, barley and oilseeds, etc., are in progress. The area sown is normal or above normal. Germination of the crops sown is good. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes a e sufficient. Prices of wheat and other grains have risen slightly in some districts but still range between normal and warning rates. Those of autumn food grains are in some cases below normal rates. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Prices of wheat :—Lahore 9¼, Lyallpur 10, Ferozepore 10¼ and Ambala and Rawalpindi 10½ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless. Rain is required for autumn sowings on unirrigated areas in the Peshawar district. The weather is cold. The condition of standing irrigated and unirrigated crops is average in the province. Sowings of spring and harvesting of autumn crops are proceeding. The outturn of latter is reported to be average. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are sufficient. The Paharpur canal is not running. The public health is good, but malarial fever is still extremely prevalent in the Peshawar district. Prices are high but stationary in Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan and falling in the case of wheat, gram and barley in Bannu.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 14 and maize from 14 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is good. Cattle disease prevails in Ranbirsinghpura and Jasmergarh tahsils only. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was insignificant. Spring sowings are in progress. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—The weather is cool and clear. Standing crops are good. Harvesting of autumn and sowings for spring crops are in progress. Prospects are good. The condition of agricultural stock is good. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are falling in Marwar, Jaisalmer and Kishangarh, rising slightly in Tonk and Karauli and generally stationary elsewhere.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was sufficient everywhere. Land for spring crops is being prepared and sowing has commenced. Harvesting of autumn crops is in progress in Gwalior, Indore, Bundelkhand and southern States. Standing crops and probable outturn are fair in Indore and Bhopal and good elsewhere. Crops have been damaged in Bhopal by excessive rain. Agricultural stock is in good condition everywhere except for some cattle disease. Fodder supply is sufficient. Prices are rising in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The week was rainless and the weather continues to be clear and cool. Reaping of autumn crops, picking of cotton, preparation of land for and sowing of spring crops are in full swing. Standing crops are generally in good condition except cotton and juar which were damaged by excessive rain. Fodder and water are sufficient and cattle are in good condition. The price of wheat has generally risen.

Feudatory States.—Four States received rain not exceeding 1¼ inches. Harvesting is proceeding and crops are generally in good condition.

Bombay.—Rain fell during the week in the Konkan, Ahmednagar, Poona, Sholapur, Satara and Savantvadi. The fall was excessive in the Karnatak and Kolhapur. Standing crops are thriving except in parts of Kanara, Sholapur, Satara, Bijapur, Dharwar, Kolhapur and three talukas of Poona and Belgaum where they have been damaged by rain. Autumn harvesting generally continues. Cotton picking is progressing in Karachi, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Khandesh and Ahmednagar. Spring sowing generally continues. Fodder supply is adequate. Agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition and drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of the Panch Mahals and Kaira. Prices of food grains have slightly fallen in Konkan and Karnatak and are generally steady elsewhere.

Hyderabad.—Report not received.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was good throughout the State. Prices of food grains are steady. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of harvested ragi, paddy and sugarcane is fair. The prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy in the greater part of the State. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Rainfall 2 inches 78 cents. Condition of rice crop good. Picking of cardamom continues. Fly picking of coffee has commenced in parts. Prices of food grains are rising. Public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was nil or light in the Vizagapatam littoral, Banganapalle, Ramnad, Tinnevelly, Travancore and Cochin; fair in Ganjam, Tanjore, Pudukkottai and Malabar; heavy in Chittoor and good elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good generally, but have been damaged by heavy rain and floods in parts of two districts; more rain is required in parts of three others. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding normally with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy and dry crops are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is insufficient in parts of Anantapur, South Arcot, Chittoor, North Arcot and southern parts except Tanjore and sufficient elsewhere. Pasture is sufficient. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

Director of Statistics

Published by order of the Governor-General in Council.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN SEPTEMBER 1916.

The object of the tables below is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and the Madras ports during the month of September 1916, and for the six months April to September 1916, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1915. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SEPTEMBER 1915 AND 1916.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river and sea in September 1916, as against the corresponding month of 1915 show (in round numbers) an increase of—

184 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour.)

(153,600 tons as against 54,000 tons last year.)

60 per cent in linseed.

(29,900 tons as against 18,600 tons last year.)

54 per cent in rape and mustard seed.

(18,800 tons as against 12,200 tons last year.)

22 per cent in jute.

(882,500 bales as against 725,400 bales last year.)

8 per cent in rice (including paddy).

(71,800 tons as against 66,400 tons last year.)

5 per cent in tea.

(36,581,800 lbs. as against 34,818,200 lbs. last year.)

2 per cent in gram and pulse.

(34,200 tons as against 33,600 tons last year.)

The imports of raw cotton by rail, river and sea into ports show a decrease of 65 per cent (70,900 bales as against 201,000 bales last year) due mainly to smaller exports from the United Provinces, the Punjab, Rajputana and Central India, Bombay, the Central Provinces and Berar and the Nizam's Territory.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal sources of the imports in September 1915 were the Central Provinces and Berar, the United Provinces, and the Punjab. During the corresponding month of 1916, the Punjab sent by far the largest quantity, namely, 66 per cent of the total. Table XI shows the exports out of India of wheat (including wheat flour) month by month during the last five years.

NOTE.—One bale of cotton or jute is equivalent to 400 lbs.
One maund is equivalent to $82\frac{2}{7}$ lbs.
One maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SIX MONTHS ENDING SEPTEMBER 1915 AND 1916.

The six months' figures in table I show (in round numbers) a decrease of—

35 per cent in rice (including paddy).
(510,500 tons as against 785,000 tons last year.)

34 per cent in raw cotton.
(1,098,800 bales as against 1,672,400 bales last year.)

33 per cent in jute.
(1,810,800 bales as against 2,691,200 bales last year.)

18 per cent in tea.
(117,778,200 lbs. as against 143,424,300 lbs. last year.)

15 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).
(731,600 tons as against 856,300 tons last year.)

9 per cent in gram and pulse.
(212,000 tons as against 231,900 tons last year.)

Imports of linseed by rail, river and sea into ports show an increase of 65 per cent (245,800 tons as against 148,800 tons last year) mainly on account of larger exports from the United Provinces, Bihar and Orissa and the Central Provinces and Berar. The increase of 29 per cent (111,500 tons as against 86,700 tons last year) in rape and mustard seed is accounted for by larger exports from up-country into the ports mainly from the United Provinces.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SEPTEMBER 1916 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with August 1916, the imports in September 1916 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers) an increase of—

111 per cent in jute.
(882,500 bales as against 418,800 bales previous month.)

51 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(18,800 tons as against 12,400 tons previous month.)

41 per cent in gram and pulse.
(34,200 tons as against 24,300 tons previous month.)

28 per cent in tea.
(36,581,800 lbs. as against 28,625,000 lbs. previous month.)

and a decrease of

25 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).
(153,600 tons as against 206,100 tons previous month.)

19 per cent in raw cotton.
(70,900 bales as against 87,800 bales previous month.)

15 per cent in rice (including paddy).
(71,800 tons as against 84,800 tons previous month.)

14 per cent in linseed.
(29,900 tons as against 34,900 tons previous month.)

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

War Office,
25th September, 1916.

The following Despatch has been received by the Secretary of State for War from General Sir Archibald Murray, Commander-in-Chief, Egyptian Expeditionary Force :—

General Headquarters,
Egyptian Expeditionary Force,
1st June, 1916.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit a report on the operations of the Force under my command from the date on which I assumed command to the 31st May, 1916.

1. On 9th January, 1916, I arrived in Cairo, and, on the following day, took over the command of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force from General Sir C. C. Monro, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., who had himself arrived from Mudros but a few days before. At that date the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force was in a state of transition as regards its larger component, the Dardanelles Army. On the night of the 8th-9th January this Army had completed its successful evacuation of Cape Helles; its units were still concentrated at Mudros and Imbros awaiting transport to Egypt, where all the Force, excluding the Salonica Army, had been ordered to concentrate. Meanwhile, a portion of the Force, which had been set free by the earlier evacuation of the Suvla Bay and Anzac positions, had already arrived in Egypt, where it had come under the command of General Sir John Maxwell, K.C.B., K.C.M.G. The concentration of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps, for instance, was practically complete, and the 53rd Division was occupied in operations on the Western Frontier of Egypt. General Headquarters of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force were temporarily established in Cairo.

The instructions which I had received from the Secretary of State for War placed under my command all organized formations then in Egypt, or on their way to Egypt, with the exception of such troops as might be considered necessary for the defence of Egypt and the Nile Valley against attack from the west, or for maintaining order in the Nile Valley and the Nile Delta. The function assigned to me was that of protecting Egypt against attack from the east, and the westward limit of my command was roughly fixed by a line running north and south approximately five miles west of the Suez Canal. The British Force at Salonica was also placed under my general supervision.

2. During the period under review, in addition to the extensive military preparations required for the defence of the eastern front, the amount of purely administrative work thrown on all sections of my Staff has been extremely heavy. The exigencies of the Gallipoli campaign had placed the Force under my command in a state of serious disorganisation. Some units were in Egypt, others on the sea, others in Ægean ports. It was not until the end of February that the last units of the Dardanelles Army reached Egypt. Every day for over six weeks ship loads of troops, guns, animals and transport were arriving at Alexandria and Port Said. The components of this mass had to be disentangled and forwarded to their proper destinations; old units had to be re-organised, new units to be created, brigades, divisions, Army Corps to be re-formed. The British troops from Gallipoli were incomplete in personnel and material. It was urgently necessary to bring them up to strength, re-equip them, and provide them with train and mechanical transport on a modified scale. The Australasian troops also needed re-equipment, and, in their case, there was the additional problem of dealing with a mass of unabsorbed reinforcements. Further training of officers and men was an urgent necessity. Moreover, the embarkation of troops for service elsewhere began in February and continued without intermission till the end of April. To this work must be added not only the maintenance of my Force, both in Egypt and Salonica, with animals, supplies, ordnance stores, works material, and medical and veterinary stores, but also the provision and despatch of ordnance stores, works material, and supplies specially demanded for Basrah and East Africa.

The bulk of the work of disembarkation and embarkation, including the very heavy work of railway transport, fell upon the staffs of my Deputy Quartermaster-General and Inspector-General of Communications, to whom great credit is due. This work, together with the task of supplying and maintaining the troops operating on the eastern, and subsequently also on the western front, was efficiently carried out by the Ordnance, Supply and Transport, Remount, and Works departments.

As regards instruction, a training centre for Australasian reinforcements was started at Tel el Kebir and continued until it was decided that the Australasian training depôts should be transferred to England. Further, a machine gun school was formed at Ismailia which, after producing excellent results, was merged in the Imperial School of Instruction at Zeitoun. The latter institution, which came under my control after 19th March, has since been increased in size so as to train officers in all branches of warfare. Under its commandant, Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon'ble E. M. Colston, M.V.O., its work has been most valuable. Besides the ordinary courses for officers and non-commissioned officers, it holds machine gun, Lewis gun, signal and telephone, artillery, Stokes gun, and grenadier classes. Between 7th January and 31st May, 1,166 officers and 5,512 other ranks attended and passed in the various classes. A machine gun school was also started at Salonica.

Excellent work has been done by the signal service during this period. In the first place, it has efficiently carried out the work of refitting the signal units from the Peninsula, re-organising them to suit the conditions peculiar to Egypt, and training locally officers and men to fill the gaps and meet the increased demand for signallers and telegraphists. Ninety-four officers and 1,305 other ranks have been trained in these duties at Zeitoun and Alexandria this year. Secondly, it has had to provide intercommunication for troops engaged upon over 1,000 miles of front, which has involved the development of an unusually extensive net-work of military telegraphs. All the resource and ingenuity of the service has been taxed to cope with the conditions peculiar to this field of operations—abnormal distances, unusual means of transport, desert, sand storms and mirage. Lastly, it has substituted a military telegraph and telephone service for the civil system which, until this year, had been the only available means of communication throughout Egypt and was worked mainly by native personnel.

I would also specially mention the survey work that has been carried out since the arrival of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force in Egypt. In addition to the standardisation, printing and issue of tactical maps of Sinai to the whole of the army on the eastern front, a new survey on a large scale of the Canal zone and certain areas east of our lines and advanced posts has been continuously carried on by the Topographical Section of the Intelligence Branch, working in close co-operation with the Royal Flying Corps. This survey, which has now been in process for nearly six months, is now approaching Qatia. I believe that the map based on this survey is the first map entirely constructed on this principle. The work was initiated by Mr. E. M. Dowson, Director-General, Survey of Egypt, who placed his resources at the disposal of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force. The actual direction of the work has been in the hands of the Intelligence Branch of my General Staff, and is based on experience, gained in Gallipoli, of the production of trench maps from aeroplane photographs, controlled by ordinary field survey methods. Co-operation in this survey has been part of the routine of the Royal Flying Corps.

These labours, most of which demanded the utmost despatch in their completion, were carried out concurrently with the conduct of more strictly military operations, to my report on which I will now proceed.

3. When I arrived in Egypt the intentions of the enemy as regards an attack on the Suez Canal were by no means certain. Though his new means of communication in southern Syria and Sinai, commenced with this end in view, were still in a backward state, he undoubtedly had at his disposal the troops, amounting to 250,000 men or more, necessary for such an attack. The adequate defence of the Canal was, therefore, a matter of serious importance. The outline of a scheme of defence had already been prepared; certain works were being constructed, railways and pipe-lines and roads commenced, and troops were being concentrated in the three sections of the Canal defences, which were based on Suez, Ismailia and Port Said respectively. A satisfactory agreement was arrived at between Sir John Maxwell and myself regarding the delimitations of our respective spheres of command and the troops to be allotted to him. On 22nd January General Headquarters opened at Ismailia.

My chief concern was now the defence of the Canal. The work on the stationary defences was backward. Difficulties of water supply on the east bank were increased by shortage of piping; labour troubles had delayed the progress of roads and railways. Guns had still to be emplaced, and no part of the front defence line was actually occupied by troops. Nevertheless, as there were no signs of an imminent advance on the part of the enemy, the question of the stationary defences caused me no serious anxiety, though everything possible was done to hasten on their completion. The organisation of the offensive defence, which time has proved to be paramount, was, however, a pressing matter hitherto untouched. Practically nothing had been done towards the organisation of mobile forces. The collection of a large number of riding and transport camels had to be undertaken at once and a plan of campaign to be devised. Moreover, time was short, for it was plain that any offensive on a large scale by the enemy must be commenced before the middle of March. For the force under my command the only possible line of advance was along the northern line from Qantara towards Qatia and El Arish, and the task was at once taken up of examining the possibilities of an offensive on this line and solving the problem of maintaining a considerable force at Qatia during the summer months. The result of these investigations is to be seen in my memorandum of 15th February addressed to the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, in which I stated that the first step towards securing the true base for the defence of Egypt was an advance to a suitable position east of Qatia and the construction of a railway to that place.

Up to the middle of February aeroplane reconnaissance was the only active military operation possible, owing to the need for reorganising the units of the Force and for pushing on the work of laying roads, pipe-lines and railways to enable an adequate force to be maintained on, and beyond, the front lines. The magnitude of the latter task may be judged from the fact that, during the period covered by this despatch, 114 miles of road, 154 miles of pipe-lines, and 252 miles of railway were laid. The work of the Royal Flying Corps, most actively and gallantly pursued, enabled me to keep the enemy's posts at Hassana, Nekhl and El Arish under close observation, and neither their reports nor those of the equally gallant and efficient Naval Air Service, which observed by seaplane the garrisons of southern Syria, showed any concentration of enemy troops for a big attack on the Canal. On February 16th the Russian Army entered Erzerum, inflicting a heavy defeat on the Turkish Army opposed to it. It seemed likely then that all the enemy's schemes for attacking the Canal in force must, for the present, fall to the ground, and such has proved to be the case. The garrisons in Syria were gradually reduced, until it was estimated that not more than 60,000 men were available for an attack on Egypt. During the latter half of February the work of reconnaissance beyond the front line began in earnest, especially in the northern section, where the 15th Corps patrolled as far as Bir El Nuss and Hod Um Ugba, establishing the fact that the country was all clear and practically deserted. At this period, too, a reconnaissance was undertaken from Tor. This post and that of Abu Zeneima, both on the Sinaitic coast south of Suez, were then garrisoned by a battalion of the Egyptian Army—subsequently by the 14th Sikhs—and had, by arrangement with General Maxwell, come under my direction. The reconnaissance from Tor was undertaken against a concentration of a small body of the enemy at Wadi Ginneh, some miles distant from the coast. This minor operation was in every way successful, though the enemy had fled before their camp was reached, leaving behind their baggage, which was destroyed. The troops then returned without further incident.

4. From March onwards, the rapid embarkation of troops for France depleted my forces considerably. During this month the military operations on the eastern front, if not momentous, were satisfactory. On 6th March a very gallant and successful attack on Hassana was made by the Royal Flying Corps, which resulted in the destruction of the pumping station. Bomb attacks were made on Nekhl and other places in Sinai, and on 24th March Hassana was again attacked in force with bombs. In the northern sector, the preliminary steps were being taken for the advance to Qatia. Week by week permanent posts were pushed further ahead, special reconnaissances were made with a view to testing the water supply, and the broad gauge railway from Qantara to Qatia was being carried forward as fast as possible.

5. On 11th March I received instructions from the late Secretary of State for War that the command of the troops in Egypt was to be reorganised, and that I was appointed General Officer Commanding-in-Chief all the Imperial forces in this country, which added to my original command the command held by General Sir John Maxwell. The preliminary details for carrying this change into operation were fixed at a Conference with General Maxwell held on 13th March, and on 19th March I formally took over the whole command in Egypt, thus ending a system of dual control which had of necessity been unsatisfactory, especially from the point of view of economy. By this change I not only became responsible for the administration of martial law in Egypt and the maintenance of order throughout the Nile Valley and Delta, but I also succeeded to the direction of the operations against the Senoussi on the Western Frontier, which had very appropriately been brought to a triumphant period by General Maxwell by his victories which led to the occupation of Sollum on 14th March, the capture of Gaafer, the dispersal, with the loss of all his guns, of Nuri's force, and the recapture from the enemy of 90 British prisoners taken by hostile submarines. The unification of the command in Egypt made large economies in staff possible, and these were carried out at once. The Levant Base also ceased to exist, General Sir Edward Altham, K.C.B., remaining as Inspector-General of Communications. The work of re-organising the forces and staffs for the Delta and Western Frontier Force was pushed on as fast as possible. I decided to keep General Headquarters at Ismailia, and to establish at Cairo a General Officer Commanding the Delta District, who would also act as Commander of L. of C. Defences. For operations on the west I formed a Western Frontier Force, divided into two sections, a north-western and a south-western, divided by a line drawn east and west through Deirut. These staffs and forces were definitely established and at work by 1st April. The whole force under my command now took the name of Egyptian Expeditionary Force. Towards the end of March, at the request of the Sirdar, I undertook the responsibility for the defence of the reach of the Nile between Assouan and Wadi Halfa. Captain F. H. Mitchell, R. N., D. S. O., was sent for this purpose to make all arrangements for an armed naval patrol of this reach.

On 18th March, Captain H. R. H. the Prince of Wales took up his duties as Staff Captain on my Staff, remaining till his departure from Egypt on 1st May.

6. As soon as the conduct of operation on the Western Frontier devolved upon me, I took steps, in consultation with the various officers who were then best acquainted with the situation, to estimate the size of the hostile forces with which I should have to deal, and to determine the policy along this front of over 800 miles by which the Nile Valley could best be protected. It appeared from the information placed at my disposal that the Senoussi forces, spread over the whole Western desert, did not exceed 3,000, and it was certain that the enemy's morale had been severely shaken by Sir John Maxwell's recent successful operations. The chief dangers, therefore, against which I had to guard were enemy raids upon the Nile Valley, the stirring up of native tribes that were inclined to be well-disposed towards the Senoussi, and the creation of unrest in the Nile Valley and Delta among disaffected or nervous elements of the population. The chief end to be held in view was to prevent any local success on the part of the Senoussi.

On 15th April the Kharga Oasis, which had previously been reported by aerial reconnaissance and resident agents to be clear of the enemy, was occupied without incident. The movement of troops was effected by the existing light railway, and by the 18th April a force numbering 1,660 of all ranks was concentrated in the Oasis.

On the 27th April the small oasis of Moghara was occupied. A strongly entrenched post has been constructed. The occupation of this post has materially assisted in preventing the passage of foodstuffs from the Nile Valley to the west, and denies the water to any enemy force attempting to move in the contrary direction.

During April frequent raids and reconnaissances, chiefly with a view to capturing concealed depôts of ammunition, were undertaken on the Western Front; in these enterprises our armoured and light motor cars have been of inestimable value. On 7th April a detachment of four armoured cars, accompanied by the machine-gun section of the 2-7th Middlesex Regiment, conducted a raid from Sollum upon an ammunition depôt at Moraisa, eighteen miles north-west of Sollum. After a very slight resistance from the guard of thirty Muhafzia, twenty-one boxes of 8·9 centimetre Mantelli gun ammunition and 120,000 rounds of small arms ammunition were taken and destroyed. On 11th April a motor car reconnaissance found and removed eleven rifles and 7,000 rounds of small arms ammunition some twenty miles west of Sollum. On 23rd April an armoured car reconnaissance from Sollum discovered and brought in 140,000 rounds of small arms ammunition from a concealed depôt. On the 30th April a further 20,000 rounds were discovered and brought in to Sollum. During this month, also, four prisoners, including a Turkish officer, were captured sixty miles west of Minia, and two small camel convoys were captured near El Alamein. The light car patrols were responsible for all these captures.

7. During the month of April reconnaissance was active all along the Eastern Front, with the result that by the middle of the month all water supplies of any importance within thirty miles of the Canal were patrolled by our troops, and mobile columns were ready to go out and deal with enemy parties approaching them, or, in the event of serious threat, to demolish the rock cisterns. In No. 1 Section, on 20th April, a patrol from Bir Mabeiuk came in contact with an enemy patrol, fifty strong, on the sand hills near the mouth of the Wadi Hamatha, some eighteen miles W.S.W. of Suez. A squadron and fifty rifles endeavoured to cut the enemy off, but he at once retired and scattered among the hills. Our casualties were two men killed. On 23rd April and the following days four columns, each composed of mounted troops and infantry, carried out reconnaissances of the approaches from the west to Ain Sudr and Sudr El Heitan. The columns returned to their respective posts on 26th April.

In No. 2 Section, on 27th March, the 2nd Australian and New Zealand Army Corps came into existence on the departure of the 1st Australian and New Zealand Army Corps to France. The Corps was commanded by Lieutenant-General Sir Alexander Godley, K.C.M.G., C.B., and consisted of the 4th Australian Division, commanded by Major-General Sir H. V. Cox, K.C.M.G., C.B., C.S.I., the 5th Australian Division, commanded by Major-General Hon'ble J. MacCay, V.D., and the Anzac Mounted Division, commanded by Major-General H. G. Chauvel, C.B.C., M.G. (attached). In this section, the wells at Moiya Harab and Wadi Um Muksheib having been brought into the regular patrolling area, a very successful reconnaissance to Jifjaffa was carried out between 11th and 15th April. The troops for this enterprise were a squadron of the 9th Australian Light Horse Regiment, accompanied by a detachment of Bikanir Camel Corps, and commanded by Major Scott, D.S.O., 9th Australian Light Horse. The objective was fifty-two miles from the starting point, and a jumping-off place for the attack, eight miles south-west of the objective, was reached at 2-30 A.M. on 13th April. From here an attack was launched by three troops upon the enemy's position at 9 A.M. The enemy, cut of in their attempted retreat by the right flanking party of the attack, stood at bay on one of the hills above the village, and lost six men killed and five wounded before surrendering. One Austrian lieutenant of engineers and thirty-three other prisoners were captured, our own casualties being one man and one horse killed. The destruction of the enemy's camp was thoroughly carried out, a quantity of correspondence was taken, and the elaborate well-boring plant, which had been at work for five months, was completely demolished. The manner in which this operation was carried out was most creditable, both to the commander of the column and to all ranks composing it.

In conjunction with this reconnaissance, a mounted column was sent out in No. 1 Section to reconnoitre Bir el Giddi and the roads leading east from it. This force satisfactorily accomplished its mission, and, after an encounter with a hostile patrol, captured unwounded three armed Arabs.

In the Qatia District, where alone there is sufficient water supply to maintain a large body of troops, preliminaries to the accomplishment of our ultimate aim—the permanent occupation of the well-watered zone radiating 15 miles east and south-east of Qatia—were steadily pushed on. On 2nd April, a squadron of the Gloucestershire Hussars under Lieutenant-Colonel Yorke, with a detachment of Bikanir Camel Corps, reconnoitred Bir el Abd, some 15 miles east of Qatia, met with no resistance, and burnt some tents and stores belonging to the enemy. On the following day, Bir Mageibra, 10 miles south-east of Qatia, was reconnoitred by the Worcestershire Yeomanry. On the 6th April Brigadier-General E. A. Wiggin, commanding the 5th Mounted Brigade, took command of the Qatia District, and was made responsible direct to the headquarters of No. 3 Section.

On 9th April, a further reconnaissance of Bir el Abd was undertaken by a squadron of Worcestershire Yeomanry. This time a strong party of enemy were found in possession of a ridge north-east of Bir el Abd. A sharp skirmish ensued when the Yeomanry attacked, and the enemy was driven eastwards from his position, but, owing to the heaviness of the sand, it was impossible for our cavalry to keep up the attack, and, after easily fending off an attempt at a flank attack, they withdrew unmolested. On 12th April, on orders being received for General Horne to proceed to France, Major-General The Hon. H. A. Lawrence took over the command of No. 3 Section.

By the 21st April, the railway towards Qatia had reached a point upon which a serious advance to hold the whole district could be based, as soon as the necessary dispositions could be made. On the 23rd, however, the enemy attempted to forestall any such advance by making a sudden raid in force upon Qatia. This operation, though comparatively small forces were engaged, produced the severest fighting yet experienced by the force under my command.

8. On 21st April, the 5th Mounted Brigade were disposed as follows:—The Worcestershire Yeomanry at Qatia, the Warwickshire Yeomanry, less one squadron, at Hamisah, 3 miles south south-west of Qatia, and Brigade Headquarters and the Gloucestershire Yeomanry at Romani, 6 miles north-west of Qatia. General Wiggin, commanding the Brigade, had received orders to dispose his Brigade in the Qatia District in such a manner as to protect all railway, topographical and water survey parties, with special attention to the exploitation of the water supply; also to observe the route eastwards towards Bir el Abd, but not to take any serious offensive measures without further orders. It had also been impressed on General Wiggin by the General Officer Commanding, No. 3 Section, that, since it would take two days to reinforce him with infantry, he was, in the event of a heavy attack, to manœuvre back upon Dueidar, 13 miles from Qantara on the Qatia road, or upon the railhead near El Arais some 7 miles north-west of Qatia On the evening of the 21st one squadron of Worcestershire Yeomanry moved into bivouac at Oghratina, 7 miles east-north-east of Qatia to cover an R. E. party detailed to prepare wells. On the 22nd another squadron of Worcestershire Yeomanry proceeded to Oghratina, being replaced in Qatia by a squadron of Gloucestershire Yeomanry, pending the arrival of one regiment of the Anzac Mounted Division, which had been ordered up from Salhia so as to reach Qatia on the 24th. The remainder of the 2nd Australian Light Horse Brigade was marching to arrive at Qantara on the 23rd.

In Qatia the squadron of Gloucestershire Yeomanry was covered by good trenches for some 50 or 60 men, and a number of smaller shelters afforded good covers. Their horses were picketed close to their camp.

The Officer Commanding the two squadrons of Worcestershire Yeomanry at Oghratina had been told to push on entrenchment as far as possible, and it was General Wiggin's intention that these squadrons, if attacked in force, should retire on Qatia and thence, if necessary, on Romani, with their left flank covered by the Gloucestershire Yeomanry and their right by the Warwickshire Yeomanry from Hamisah.

On the morning of the 23rd, both posts stood to arms at 4 A.M., and I have ascertained that patrols had gone out by that hour, though those at Oghratina were probably much hampered by a thick fog.

On the 22nd April, the Royal Flying Corps reported to No. 3 Section that new bodies of enemy troops were at Bir el Bayud, 15 miles east-south-east of Qatia, and Bir el Mageibra, 10 miles south-east of Qatia. Upon receipt of this information, General Wiggin obtained leave from General Officer Commanding, No. 3 Section, to attack the enemy at Mageibra that night, reporting that he intended to use two squadrons of Warwickshire, and the one remaining squadron of Worcestershire Yeomanry. General Wiggin, with Lieutenant-Colonel Coventry, commanding the Worcestershire Yeomanry, accompanied the raid to Mageibra. Finding very few enemy, they destroyed the camp and returned to Hamisah about 9 A.M., on the 23rd with six Turkish prisoners. In the meantime the post at Oghratina was attacked at 5-30 A.M. This attack was repulsed. No further information was received from the Officer Commanding at Oghratina until 7 A.M., when he reported that he was again heavily attacked on all sides. This attack carried the post, all the garrison of which were either killed, wounded, or captured. No details of the fighting have, therefore, been obtainable. Qatia itself was attacked about 9-30 A.M. Lieutenant-Colonel Coventry was detached with one squadron of Worcestershire Yeomanry from General Wiggin's Force to operate towards Qatia. Unfortunately, this squadron became involved in the unsuccessful resistance of the Qatia garrison, and, with the exception of some 60 men and one officer who were able to disengage themselves, fell with it into the hands of the enemy. I have therefore been able to gather no detailed information of the actual fighting at Qatia.

General Wiggin and Colonel Yorke, commanding the Gloucestershire Yeomanry at Romani, both showed great judgment in dealing with the situation, and did all that was possible with their small forces against the enemy force of about 2,500, with four guns of small calibre. General Wiggin pushed forward from Hamisah north-east against the enemy's left, south of Um Ugba, and drove him back for about a mile; the advance was slow owing to the nature of the ground and the determined resistance encountered. Colonel Yorke, after hearing that Dueidar was safe, moved his whole force at 10 A.M., to attack the enemy's right advancing on Qatia. He skilfully drove the Turkish right back to El Rabah, and caused their guns to shift their position further east. The enemy gave ground slowly, and, since by 3-30 P.M. it was evident that Qatia had fallen, General Wiggin determined to fall back; he himself retired on Dueidar by way of Hamisah, Colonel Yorke on Romani; neither were followed. Meanwhile, at 5-30 A.M. a Turkish force, 1,000 strong, with one gun, advancing from the south, attacked Dueidar, the most advanced defensible post, which was held by 100 men of the 5th Battalion, Royal Scots Fusiliers, under the command of Captain Roberts, 5th Battalion, Royal Scots Fusiliers. This officer, who throughout showed conspicuous skill and ability, succeeded in repelling two determined attacks on the position at 6-30 A.M. and 8-30 A.M., respectively. Both attempts cost the enemy dear. At 9-30 A.M. reinforcements of two companies 4th Royal Scots Fusiliers, under the command of Major Thompson, 4th Battalion, Royal Scots Fusiliers, who had been despatched from Hill 70, seven miles away, on the first news of the attack, arrived at Dueidar. The various posts were strengthened, and a counter-attack, delivered at 12-30 P.M. with great spirit, forced the enemy to retire, leaving 30 prisoners in our hands and 70 dead. The Turks were pursued in their retreat by the 5th Australian Light Horse, who had only arrived at Qantara at 1 P.M., and by aeroplanes, thereby suffering further loss. Besides the three and a half squadrons of Yeomanry and details lost at Qatia and Oghratina, our casualties on the 23rd were two officers and 18 men killed, four officers and 21 men wounded. Aeroplane reconnaissance on the evening of the 23rd established the fact that the enemy force, which included a large body of picked Turkish regular troops, was already retiring. At dawn on the 24th eight machines of the 5th Wing, Royal Flying Corps, made a bomb and machine gun attack from a low altitude on the enemy troops left in Qatia, causing very heavy casualties and completely destroying the camp. One machine also located and attacked a large body of enemy at Bir el Abd, and located another party retiring on Bir el Bayud. On the morning of the 25th further bomb and machine gun attacks were made by the Royal Flying Corps on enemy forces at Bir el Abd and Bir el Bayud. Both attacks were extremely successful, working great havoc among men and animals. I cannot speak too highly of the admirable work done by the 5th Wing, Royal Flying Corps, during these few days. The strain thrown on pilots and machines was very heavy, and the former displayed the utmost gallantry and resource on all occasions. Chiefly through their efforts the enemy was made to pay a very heavy price for his partially successful raid. The general situation in front of No. 3 Section was not affected by these operations. Our cavalry continued to patrol the Qatia district, which was now practically clear of the enemy, while our infantry posts at Dueidar and Romani were strengthened, and the railway towards Romani was pushed on with all speed.

9. After 16th January, when General Sarrail assumed supreme control of the operations of the Allied Forces at Salonica, the British Force there commanded by Lieutenant-General Sir B. T. Mahon, K.C.V.O., C.B., D.S.O., only remained under my control for administrative purposes. From the beginning of January to the end of April no active operations of importance took place. The general line of defences remained practically unaltered. Some 200 miles of deep trenches, including communication trenches, 710 emplacements for guns, 230 redults or strong posts, 160 miles of obstacles (barbed wire), and 1,300 miles of telegraph cable have been completed; and the defences as a whole are now quite ready for occupation should the situation demand it.

As in Egypt, so in Salonica, the administrative work has been extremely heavy. At the outset the state of the communications was very unsatisfactory. There were only two metalled roads leading to our lines, both in a shocking state of repair; the few existing tracks soon became impassable in wet weather for everything except pack animals. The construction and repair of roads had, therefore, to proceed simultaneously with the preparation of the defences. Roads in the forward area were all begun by the troops themselves, and all ranks worked admirably, the men thoroughly recognising the importance of the matter. Later, it was found possible to organise local civilian labour companies, who have largely been employed to complete and maintain the road work begun by the troops. Altogether about 90 miles of new metalled cart roads have been constructed, and 105 miles of mule tracks, besides some 60 miles of repairs to previously existing roads and tracks. Railway extensions leading to the various depôts on the Monastir road, with the necessary sidings, have been constructed, and Decauville lines laid within the depôts themselves. Preparations have been made for further extensions. Another great difficulty, that of insufficient wharfage accommodation, has been met by the construction of new piers in the bay itself and at Skala Stavros. These have reduced the congestion to an appreciable extent and fully justified the labour and expense involved.

The supply system, though hindered at first by the state of the communications and by the fact that the equipment of the force with a special scale of transport was only in process of gradual completion, has worked with uninterrupted success. The health of the troops has been excellent, all ranks having benefited by hard physical work in good climatic conditions. In view of the approach of summer, when malaria is likely to prevail in certain districts through which our line passes, special precautions have been taken for the protection of the troops and, where possible, alternative positions prepared.

Throughout the period the importance of training the troops has been insisted upon. At first one day weekly was devoted to training, as opposed to road-making or work on the defences. This proportion has gradually risen to four days weekly, excluding one day of rest.

On 9th May, under orders from the War Office, Lieutenant-General G. F. Milne, C.B., D.S.O., succeeded Lieutenant-General Sir Bryan Mahon, K.C.V.O., C.B., D.S.O., in command of the Salonica Army. General Mahon sailed on the same date to take up command of the Western Frontier Force in Egypt.

10. In Egypt during the month of May there was no major operation to record. Intelligence received early in the month showed that the Turks had materially increased their numbers in Sinai, doubtless with the view of detaining troops in Egypt. The enemy's main concentrations were too far away for me to strike at them, and I was in hopes that he might be induced to cross the barrier of hills which extends from north to south some sixty miles from the Canal: he would then have been exposed to attack with the defiles behind him. However, he made no such advance, and, during the hot weather in the middle of May, there were indications that he was drawing in his advanced posts. On the 8th and 21st May enemy aircraft attacked Port Said with bombs, doing no material damage. On the first occasion three civilians were wounded; on the second two civilians were killed, five soldiers and thirteen civilians were wounded. In each case the attack was answered by prompt and successful retaliation by the Royal Flying Corps. In all sections of the Eastern front reconnaissances were frequent, particularly in No. 3 Section, to which were now allotted three brigades of the Anzac Mounted Division. During the month the Mahemdia-Romani district has been occupied in some force, and at a conference, held on 17th May, at which General Lawrence, commanding No. 3 Section, was present, further decisions regarding the occupation of the Qatia district were arrived at.

During the month several successful reconnaissances to the east were made by the Anzac Mounted Division, which proved itself a unit upon which I could absolutely depend to display energy, resource and endurance. On the 8th May, starting early from Oghratina, the 2nd Light Horse Brigade reconnoitred to Bir el Abd with patrols pushed out to Hod Salmana. On the 16th May, a day of intense heat, the same brigade, starting from Hod el Sagia, five miles east-south-east of Qatia, reached Hod el Bayud, 15 miles on in the same direction, at 7 A.M. Camels and dismounted men were seen making off in a north-easterly direction. The enemy's camp was destroyed, and one prisoner, 36 camels, and a quantity of ammunition were brought in. The reconnaissance returned to Qatia, having covered 60 miles in 30 hours. During this time the Canterbury Mounted Rifles went out to Bir Abu Afein, covering 40 miles in 30 hours.

On the 18th May a very successful bombardment of El Arish from the sea and the air was carried out. A sloop and two monitors of His Majesty's Navy bombarded the town, reducing the fort south-west of the town to ruins and damaging the aerodrome. The seaplanes of the Royal Naval Air Service then attacked with bombs, being followed later by 6 machines of the Royal Flying Corps, who had orders to attack any enemy aircraft that appeared and to bomb the enemy's camp and troops. The camps were effectively bombed, and three bombs exploded in the middle of a body of a thousand men who were on the march south o the town. A close reconnaissance of El Arish from the air was made, and many valuable photographs taken at the same time. All ships and aircraft returned safely. On 22nd May, the Royal Flying Corps carried out a highly effective bombardment of all enemy camps on a 45 mile front roughly parallel to the Canal, during which severe damage was done to the waterworks at Rodh Salem and to buildings at El Hamma and Bir Mazar. On 23rd May, the 2nd Australian Light Horse Brigade reconnoitred Hod el Gedaidia, 15 miles east of Qatia, where shots were exchanged with a patrol of 40 men on camels, who retired. Finally, on 31st May, the New Zealand Mounted Rifles Brigade, one regiment of Australian Light Horse, and a sub-section of the Ayrshire Battery, R.H.A., attacked the enemy's post at Bir Salmana, 20 miles East North East of Qatia. The post was surrounded before dawn, and an enemy post on the Ganadil road was rushed, while a camel detachment was seen making off to the south-east. The enemy lost 15 men killed and 2 men captured. Our cavalry pursued till 8 A M. when the pursuit was taken up by aeroplanes which bombed scattered parties with effect, killing 20 camels and 8 more men. The force returned, having covered 60 miles in 36 hours besides fighting an engagement. The only casualties were two men slightly wounded.

On the Western Front during May preliminary measures for the occupation of the Baharia Oasis have been in progress. A line of blockhouses has been established along the Darb el Rubi which runs due west from Samalut on the Nile. Four blockhouses were completed and occupied by 23rd May. Work on the two remaining blockhouses has been postponed till the railway has reached a point where it can materially assist in the supply of stores: this should be about the end of June. From the most advanced blockhouse it is now possible to reconnoitre as far as the Mohariq sand dunes, some 80 miles west of Samalut. The difficulty of maintaining such a line in a waterless desert subject to frequent and severe sands torms has not been small, but all ranks have worked well and with great keenness.

The enemy has a small body of troops, under the command of Nuri, collected on the Libyan side of the frontier west of Sollum, but as yet he has not openly displayed his intentions. Two battalions of Italian troops landed at Moraisa during the month and have occupied Bardia. The relations between the Italian and British commanders on the frontier are excellent. The area between Sollum and Barrani has been cleared of the Bedouin population, and, though it has been impossible entirely to prevent communication between the Bedouins and Siwa, the energy of our patrols, according to numerous reports, is successfully restricting the entry of food supplies into Siwa.

By means of patrols of Imperial Camel Corps and motor cars, communication between the oases occupied by the enemy and the Nile Valley and Delta has been rendered almost impossible. In particular, the camel patrolling from Kharga towards Dakhla and Beris has been carried out most efficiently by No. 1 Imperial Camel Company under specially trying conditions. The Farafra, Baharia, Moghara and Wadi Natrun fronts have also been controlled with great vigilance.

The Aulad Ali tribes in Egyptian territory are now all west of Barrani, except for a receiving camp at Sollum. Markets have been established for the sale of food at Sollum, Mersa Matruh, Dabaa, El Hamman and Wadi Natrun, where they are allowed to purchase what is necessary for their daily needs. This restricts indiscriminate movement to the west on to the Delta.

In spite of the occupation, during very hot weather, of so many advanced posts in the desert or on its edge, I am glad to report that the health of the troops has been remarkably good. I much regret, however, that General Sir Bryan Mahon, shortly after his arrival in this country to take up the command of the Western Frontier Force, had to be invalided home owing to severe sunstroke. In the meantime, Major-General A. G Dallas, C.B., has continued, with great ability, in temporary command of that force.

11. I beg to acknowledge with great respect the valuable assistance I have received from His Highness the Sultan of Egypt. He has with great kindness placed at my disposal his unrivalled knowledge of affairs affecting his country.

To His Excellency the High Commissioner, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir A. H. McMahon, G.C.V.O., K.C.I.E., C.S.I., and to the Government of Egypt, I owe, a deep debt of gratitude for whole-hearted co-operation and help.

I am very greatly indebted to Vice-Admiral Sir R. E. Wemyss, K.C.B., C.M.G., M.V.O., and the naval forces under his command for constant assistance and active co-operation.

The construction of roads, waterworks, and kindred tasks in connection with the Canal Defences, which I have described to you, owe their accomplishment in a very large measure to the admirable services of Colonel Sir Murdoch Macdonald, K.C.M.G., of the Public Works Department of Egypt. His wide experience and capacity have been an indispensable asset to me in dealing with these important problems.

I am particularly indebted to the Railway Department, under Colonel Sir George Macauley, K.C.M.G., R. of O., Royal Engineers, for the highly [illegible] manner in which railway communication has been carried on under great difficulties. The movement of alarge number of troops and impediments of an Army has severely taxed the capacity of the railway, and has put a great strain on its staff. That it never failed to accomplish what was desired is due to the high efficiency this Department has attained, and to the personal exertions of Colonel Sir George Macauley.

I wish to bring to your notice the very responsible and important duties that have fallen to my Director of Army Signals, Brigadier-General M. G. E. Bowman-Manifold, D.S.O., R.E., and to the admirable way in which he has discharged them.

Military operations on the two fronts have been spread over a very wide front, amounting to close on 1,000 miles in the west and 90 miles in the east. Prompt and reliable inter-communication has been a matter of vital importance.

In the successful achievement of this I beg also to bring to your notice the services of the Egyptian Telegraph Department under Lieutenant-Colonel J. S. Liddell, D.S.O., Royal Engineers, and to express my thanks to the Eastern Telegraph Company and the Telephone Company of Egypt, who have given my Director of Army Signals unceasing v aluable help.

I beg to bring to notice the valuable services rendered to the Canal Defences by the representative and principal officer of the Suez Canal Company, Charles Comte de Serionne, Agent Superieur de la Compagnie du Canal de Suez, and by the staff of that company.

The arduous and important work of the care of the sick and wounded in the Hospitals has been considerably lightened by a large amount of voluntary aid. I wish specially to mention the work of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John of Jerusalem under Sir Courtauld Thomson, C.B.

The Nursing services, both English and Australian, have done admirable work, and the voluntary aid of the Sisters of Notre Dame de la Déliverance, working at the Austrian Hose pital at Alexandria, have been specially brought to my notice.

Finally, and in conclusion, I wish to bring to notice the admirable services of my Chief of the General Staff, Major-General A. L. Lynden-Bell, C.B., C.M.G., my Deputy Quarter-master-General, Major-General W. Campbell, C.B., D.S.O., and my Deputy Adjutant-General, Major-General J. Adye, C.B. No Commander-in-Chief has ever been more loyally served, and no staff has ever worked with less friction.

I have other names to bring to notice for distinguished and gallant service during the operations under review, and these will form the subject of a separate communication.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,
A. J. MURRAY, General,
Commander-in-Chief,
Egyptian Expeditionary Force.

War Office,
London, S. W.,
25th September 1916.

The following despatches have been received by the Secretary of State for war from the Commander-in-Chief, Egyptian Expeditionary Force :—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

RESOLUTION.

Delhi, the 24th November 1916.

The Governor General in Council has recently considered the organization, methods and procedure of the Buildings and Roads Branch of the Public Works Department with the object of deciding whether it can be improved and rendered more economical and efficient. Whilst the Governor General in Council desires to recognise the great services of the Public Works Department in the past, and the important part that it has taken in the development of India, a recognition with which the Secretary of State desires fully to associate himself, there is a considerable body of opinion that the changing conditions make it desirable to reconsider the methods under which Public Works are carried out and more particularly to secure, if and whenever this is possible, the substitution of private for departmental agency. It is urged that much of the work at present carried out by the Public Works Department could be intrusted to private agency, and that greater economy could thus be secured, and further that much greater use might be made by Government of local bodies, some of which at present employ a skilled public works agency. Much work of a simple and unimportant character which is now undertaken and supervised by highly salaried officers of Government could, it has been suggested, be carried out at reduced cost under contract subject to Government inspection. In the second place, it is urged that, if local bodies are encouraged and enabled to arrange more extensively than at present for the execution by their own staff or by private agency of their works, it will not only be a further step in the direction of decentralization but also would stimulate the growth of firms of standing in the building and allied trades and so encourage further industrial activity. Such developments will, further, tend automatically to react upon the educational system of the country. A demand for more highly trained engineers in private employ would involve the provision of facilities for the best possible training at the Engineering Colleges. And it is considered that such provision must be an integral factor in any schemes for the development of private enterprise such as would be connected in changes of the kind in view.

2. For the purpose of examining these matters the Governor General in Council has accordingly determined, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to appoint a Committee whose duty it will be to inquire into and report generally upon the organization and the system of administration of the Buildings and Roads Branch of the Public Works Department, with special reference to the considerations advanced in the foregoing paragraph, and to make such suggestions for change as the circumstances seem to justify. Among the particular points which the Committee should inquire into are the following:—

(i) whether the methods at present adopted for the execution of civil works are economical and suitable for the purpose for which they were devised;

(ii) whether under the existing system private enterprise is sufficiently encouraged, and whether it is possible and desirable to entrust the construction and upkeep of certain classes of public works to agency other than departmental, and if so, upon what lines such change should be effected;

(iii) whether any changes recommended by the Committee necessitate any modification of the organization of the staff of the Public Works Department, and if so what;

(iv) whether the Public Works Department meets the needs of other Departments of the Administration, and whether the relations inter se of the various sub-divisions of the Buildings and Roads Branch, Sanitary, Architectural, Electrical and Civil Engineering are satisfactory ;

(v) whether further decentralization within the Public Works Department itself is desirable, and, if so, to what extent and in what directions.

(vi) whether the Public Works Department Code which regulates the execution and maintenance of civil works is unduly restrictive and if so, in what direction change is desirable;

(vii) whether the system of education in Government Engineering Colleges is organised on a sufficiently broad basis to meet the needs of private agency as well as of Government, whether it attracts suitable candidates and whether the standard of instruction is sufficiently advanced to provide fully qualified civil engineers for employment by Government, local bodies, and private engineering and contracting firms, and if not, in what directions and to what extent improvement is required ;

(viii) whether adequate provision is made for the practical training on works of students who have received their scientific education in English or Indian Colleges.

3. For this purpose the Governor General in Council, with the approval of the Secretary of State, has decided to constitute a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of an officer experienced in Indian Administration as President, an officer acquainted with the system followed by the Local Government Board in England, a member familiar with English methods of local self-government, and two ex-members of the Public Works Department, of whom one should be an Indian. He has, therefore, been pleased to appoint the following members :—

(1) F. G. Sly, Esq., C.S.I , I.C.S., Commissioner, Nagpur Division, Central Provinces.

(2) Sir Noel Thomas Kershaw, K.C.B., Local Government Board, England.

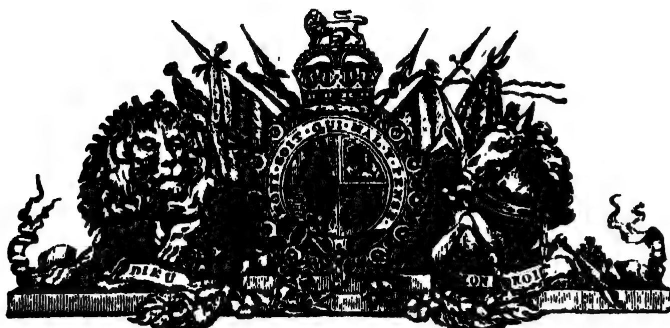
(3) C. S. Cobb, Esq., M.V.O., M.A., LL.B., Chairman of the London County Council.

(4) Rai Bahadur Gangaram, C.I.E., M.V.O., late of the Public Works Department.

(5) The second ex-member of the Public Works Department to be appointed hereafter.

Mr D. G. Harris, Under Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, has been appointed Secretary to the Committee.

During the visit of the Committee to each Province where its inquiries will be conducted, a local member will be appointed to the Committee by the local Government or Administration concerned in order to represent the views of the local authorities and to see that the local circumstances and conditions are fully laid before the members of the Committee. The local members will not be required to join in the preparation of the final report.



4. The general inquiry will be public and its conduct and the regulation of the course of business are entrusted to the President in communication with the members. The Governor General in Council leaves it to the President to determine the procedure to be adopted in obtaining and recording evidence. The Committee, through the Secretary, acting under instructions from the President, will correspond directly with local Governments. The Governor General in Council desires that all communications or requisitions for information emanating from the Committee may be treated as urgent and complied with promptly and that, in each Province visited by the Committee they may be afforded every facility for prosecuting their inquiries.

RESOLUTION.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE ASSAM LABOUR BOARD DURING THE YEAR ENDING THE 30TH JUNE, 1916.

Delhi, the 24th November, 1916.

The following paper is published in accordance with Rule 29 of the Assam Labour Board Rules :—

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE ASSAM LABOUR BOARD DURING THE YEAR ENDING THE 30TH JUNE, 1916.

No. 4619, dated the 11th October, 1916.

From—LIEUTENANT-COLONEL W. M. KENNEDY, C.I.E., I.A., Chairman, Assam Labour Board,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Commerce and Industry.

In compliance with rule 28 of the rules prescribed under section 116 F of the Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1901, I have the honour to submit the Annual Report of this Board, together with a copy of the Auditor's Report and audited Statement of Accounts of this Board, which were adopted at the meeting of the Board held on the 18th September, 1916.

Annual Report on the working of the Assam Labour Board during the year ending the 30th June, 1916.

I—ADMINISTRATIVE.

Constitution of Board, etc.

1. The Assam Labour Board is incorporated under the authority conferred by the provisions of Section 5 of the Assam Labour and Emigration (Amendment) Act, 1915, which received the assent of the Governor-General on the 25th March, 1915. The Board consists of sixteen members including the Chairman, who is required to be an officer of Government appointed by the Government of India. The remaining members are elected as follows :—

(a) eight by the Indian Tea Association, Calcutta, as representative of that Association and of the Indian Tea Association, London ;

(b) four by the Assam Branch, Indian Tea Association ; and

(c) three by the Surma Valley Branch, Indian Tea Association.

Members of the Board hold office for three years, but a member elected or appointed to fill a casual vacancy holds office only for the remainder of the term of office of the member whom he replaces.

The Executive Committee of the Board consists of five members, namely, the Chairman of the Board and a member elected to represent each of the following bodies :—

Indian Tea Association, Calcutta.
Indian Tea Association, London.
Assam Branch, Indian Tea Association.
Surma Valley Branch, Indian Tea Association.

The two members of the Committee representing the Indian Tea Associations, Calcutta and London, are elected by the eight members of the Board representing those Associations, while the members of the Board representing each of the two Branch Associations elect the member of the Committee representing their Branch.

Membership of Board and Executive Committee.

2. Major (now Lieutenant-Colonel) W. M. Kennedy, C.I.E., I.A., Deputy Commissioner, Assam, was appointed Chairman of the Board for one year with effect from the 1st May, 1915, and the extension of his appointment for a further year has since been sanctioned. The following gentlemen were elected members of the Board with effect from the 1st May, 1915 :—

1. Mr. R. Graham. 2. Hon'ble Mr. E. H. Bray. 3. Mr. H. W. Carr. 4. Mr. G. F. A. Denne. 5. Mr. John Leslie. 6. Mr. J. Mackenzie. 7. Mr. A. D. Pickford. 8. Mr. C. Rennison.	Representatives of the Indian Tea Associations, Calcutta and London.
9. Hon'ble Mr. H. Miller. 10. Hon'ble Mr. C. L. Pringle. 11. Mr. A. Chrystall. 12. Mr. Eric H. Hanny.	Representatives of the Assam Branch, Indian Tea Association.
13. Hon'ble Mr. H. B. Fox. 14. Mr. W. Manson. 15. Mr. R. T. Fraser.	Representatives of Surma Valley Branch, Indian Tea Association.

The following changes occurred in the Personnel of the Board owing to resignations :—

Mr. A. Moffat elected vice Hon'ble Mr. H. Miller with effect from the 31st December, 1915.
Mr. G. Turnbull „ „ Mr. R. Graham „ „ „ the 22nd March, 1916.
Mr. C. Wood „ „ Hon'ble Mr. C. L. Pringle „ „ „ the 14th April, 1916.
Mr. T. D. Wood „ „ Mr. A. D. Pickford „ „ „ the 26th April, 1916.

Messrs. Pringle and Pickford having resigned their membership of the Board their seats on the Executive Committee become vacant and after the close of the year Messrs. Moffat and T. D. Wood have, respectively, been elected to replace them.

Rules for the working of the Board.

3. Rules for the working of the Board were prescribed by the Government of India under Section 116 F. of the Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1901, in Department of Commerce and Industry Notification No. 295-132 C., dated the 20th November, 1915.

Meetings of Board.

4. Two meetings of the Board were held during the year under review, namely, on the 15th and 16th December, 1915, and on the 9th March, 1916. Under the rules for the working of the Board a minimum of two meetings in each year is required to be held, namely, in March and September or as near thereto as convenient. Additional meetings may be called at the discretion of the Chairman, who is required to summon a meeting of the Board on a requisition presented by five members. Owing to the fact that the rules for the working of the Board were not prescribed till November, 1915, it was not possible to hold a meeting before the following December. All the members of the Board were present at the meeting held in December, 1915, but the Hon'ble Mr. E. H. Bray and Mr. E. H. Hanny were unavoidably prevented from attending that held in March last.

When the Board or Executive Committee are not sitting, the rules provided for questions under consideration being referred for the opinion of members by the circulation of papers, and this procedure has been often followed, since the frequent summoning of meetings of the Board or of the Executive Committee would be attended with inconvenience to the eight members of the former and the two members of the latter who reside at considerable distances from Calcutta.

Meetings, etc. of Executive Committee.

5. Two meetings of the Executive Committee attended by all the members, were held, viz, on the 16th December, 1915, and the 7th March, 1916. A list of the matters delegated by the Board to the Executive Committee will be found in Appendix B.

Board's Office.

6. The Chairman joined his duties on the 10th May, 1915, and began to organise the Board's Office, which through the courtesy of the Indian Tea Association, was at first held in the Association's Office in the Bengal Chamber of Commerce Building. It was hoped that the Government of India would be able to provide accommodation for the Board in one of the vacant Government offices in Calcutta, but this could not, after all, be arranged so accommodation has been secured in Gillander House, 8, Clive Street, at a rental of Rs. 175 per mensem.

The office establishment has been fixed, for the present, at the following strength:—

1 Head Clerk on Rs. 100—$\frac{10}{5}$—150.

1 Shorthand Typist on Rs. 50—$\frac{5}{10}$—100.

1 Typist and Despatcher on Rs. 50—$\frac{5}{5}$—75.

1 Diarist on Rs. 30—$\frac{4}{5}$—50.

1 Duftry on Rs. 10—$\frac{1}{10}$—20.

1 Jemadar Chuprassie on Rs. 12.

1 Chuprassie on Rs. 10.

1 „ „ „ 9.

1 „ „ „ 8.

The ministerial and menial staff are granted travelling allowance at the rates admissible to Government officers of similar status. The Chairman has been empowered to grant leave up to one month on full pay to ministerial officers, any leave in excess of that period being sanctioned by the Executive Committee, who fix the allowance to be given. Leave to menials is granted by the Chairman.

During the year, 1,561 letters were received and 3,003 letters issued. The fact that so many members of the Board reside outside of Calcutta tends to increase correspondence. With the sanction of the Executive Committee, the office was inspected by Mr. Charu Chandra Goswami, I.S.O., late Registrar, Assam Secretariat, who reported it to be in good order. Mr. Goswami has made several suggestions, including the establishment of a Provident Fund for the staff which are under consideration.

Appointment of Supervisors.

7. Section 116 C, Act VI of 1901, empowers the Board to appoint Supervisors to assist them in carrying out their duties. Three Supervisorships have been sanctioned, carrying a salary of Rs. 1,000 per mensem, rising by annual increments of Rs. 50 to Rs. 1,200, leave and travelling allowances being regulated by the provisions of the Civil Service Regulations relating to uncovenanted officers of Government drawing salary at a similar rate. The appointments are terminable at three months' notice on either side, subject to the right of the Board to dispense summarily with the services of a Supervisor for misconduct.

A large number of applications for the posts of Supervisor were received, and the following appointments were made with effect from the dates shown against each:—

Mr. C. H. Craven, Indian Police, Assam—31st December, 1915.

Mr. C. E. Middleton Stewart, Indian Police, Central Provinces—5th April, 1916.

Mr. J. McPherson, Deputy Magistrate and Deputy Collector, Bihar and Orissa—4th April, 1916.

The services of these officers have kindly been lent by the Local Governments under whom they served, the Board paying the usual contribution towards their leave and pensionary allowances.

The following charges have been assigned to each of the three Supervisors:—

MR. CRAVEN.—The province of Bengal, except the districts of Midnapore, Bankura and Howarh; the districts of the Santhal Parganas, Singbhum, Manbhum, Ranchi, Sambalpore, Bhagalpur, Hazaribagh, Monghyr, Darbhanga, Muzaffarpur, Champaran, Saran, Patna, Shahabad, Gaya, and Palamau in the province of Bihar and Orissa; the United Provinces, the districts of Mandla, Jubbulpore, Damoh, Saugor, Hoshangabad, Nimar, Narshingpur, Betul and Chhindwara in the Central Provinces.

Head-quarters of Supervisor—Purulia.

MR. STEWART.—The province of Madras; the districts of Puri, Cuttack and Balasore in the province of Bihar and Orissa; the districts of Midnapur, Bankura and Howarh in the province of Bengal; the districts of Bilaspur, Raipur, Drug, Balaghat, Bhandara, Chanda, Wardha and Nagpur in the Central Provinces.

Head-quarters of Supervisor—Bilaspore.

MR. MCPHERSON.—The transit routes from Asansol and Kharagpur to Assam and throughout the latter province, the Supervisor to be permitted, for a specific purpose, to travel over transit routes other than those specified above.

Head-quarters of Supervisor.—Barrackpore.

It was originally intended that Messrs. Craven and McPherson should be stationed at Asansole and Mr. Stewart at Kharagpur, but owing to the impossibility of securing house accommodation at those places, Purulia, Bilaspur and Barrackpore have, for the present, been fixed as their respective head-quarters.

On the recommendation of the Board, each of the Local Governments concerned have been so good as to empower all three Supervisors to exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred and imposed on them within the recruiting or labour districts, as the case may be, under the Local Government. It is occasionally necessary for a Supervisor engaged in an enquiry into alleged offences, or in watching suspected batches of coolies, to travel outside the special charge assigned to him. The concession, also, facilitates the transfer of Supervisors and the re-arrangement of their charges as experience may indicate to be necessary, and admits of the temporary deputation of a Supervisor to perform the duties of another Supervisor who is not available owing to sickness, absence or other causes.

The following establishment has been sanctioned in respect of each Supervisor:—

One Clerk on Rs. 30—$\frac{2}{10}$—50.

Two Chuprassies on Rs. 8 each.

Each Supervisor has been allowed a permanent advance of Rs. 300 to meet office and tour expenditure.

Tours and Inspections.

8. The Chairman was on tour for 204 days and visited—

Midnapore (twice), Kharagpur (twice), Bankura, Asansole, Goalundo and Chandpur in Bengal;

Berhampur (twice), Chattrapur (twice), Waltair (twice), Parvatipuram (twice), Nellore, Masulipatam, Bezwada, Guntur, Coconada and Pithapuram, in Madras.

Ranchi (twice), Purulia (twice), Balasore (twice), Cuttack (twice), Sambalpore, Puri, Chaibassa, Galudih, Hazaribagh and Daltonganj, in Bihar and Orissa.

Allahabad, Banda, Bara Banki, Fyzabad, Gonda, Basti, Gorakhpore, Azamgarh, Ghazipore and Benares, in the United Provinces.

Jubbulpore, Katni, Nagpur, Riapur and Bilaspore in the Central Provinces.

Shillong, Gauhati, Moriani, Nazira, Safrai, Doom Dooma, Margherita, Dibrugarh, Amaluckie, Tezpur, Itakhola, Srimangal, Shamshernagar, Juri, Hailakandi.

In the course of his tours he had the advantage of discussing emigration affairs with the officers of Government and, in Assam, with the tea planters, and he inspected 25 local agencies and 16 transport agencies. He also paid a visit to Simla by desire of the Government of India.

The following table shows the touring work done by the Supervisors :—

The tours of the Supervisors were also connected with the repression of abuses in recruitment by arkatties and others, and, when requested to do so, they rendered assistance to District Officers in the prosecution of illegal recruiters and in emigration matters generally. Their work, like that of the Board, is still in the experimental stage, but the Board has already derived much advantage from the tours and reports of the Supervisors, and the appointments promise to be even more useful in the future.

II.—FINANCIAL.

Sources of Income of Board.

9. The income of the Board is derived from (a) a cess not exceeding five rupees in each year on each garden-sardar deputed to recruit labourers and on each person so recruited or engaged as a labourer or assisted to emigrate, and (b) one half of the salary of the Chairman contributed by the Government of India.

For the year under review the cess was fixed at Rs. 2 on each garden-sardar and emigrant, vide Department of Commerce and Industry Notification No. 13629-132, dated the 21st August, 1915, from which date cess first became payable.

Rule 24 of the rules prescribed by the Government of India under Section 116 F, Act VI of 1901, contains the provisions regulating the levy of the cess. This rule lays down that the cess payable in respect of a garden-sardar shall be deposited by the employer in the local treasury in Assam prior to the countersignature of the certificate of the garden-sardar, except in the case of garden-sardars deputed to recruit in areas such as the United Provinces, whose certificates do not at present require countersignature in the labour districts, when the cess is payable through the local agent, or, if the employer has not appointed a local agent, by the employer direct to the Board. The rule provides that the cess on emigrants shall be collected through local agents, and that it shall be paid direct to the Board by the employer if latter has not appointed a local agent. The portion of the rule requiring the deposit of the cess payable on a garden-sardar before the countersignature of his certificate in Assam, was not given effect to during the year under report. The cess was collected through local agents or directly from those employers who had not appointed a local agent, this being the procedure prescribed for the recovery of the cess which was payable before rule 24 came into operation. Since the close of the year arrangements have been made with the Assam Administration to give effect to rule 24 (1) (a) on and from the 1st September, 1916. The Board did not ask that this should be done previously since it was apprehended that confusion might arise in the case of garden-sardars deputed to recruit in the United Provinces. Though the countersignature in Assam of the certificates of garden-sardars working under a local agent has been dispensed with by notification of the Government of the United Provinces, it is understood that in practice the certificates of such garden-sardars are, in a number of cases, still produced for countersignature in Assam. If, therefore, effect had been given to the rule, it might have resulted in a double collection of the cess in such cases. In paragraph 26 of this Report it is stated that the Board have submitted a recommendation to the Government of the United Provinces that, with a view to the better control of the operations of garden-sardars, countersignature of their certificates in the labour districts should be reintroduced. If this recommendation is accepted full effect can, without risk of complications, be given to the provisions of rule 24 and, even in any case, under the arrangement approved by the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner, instructions have been issued to countersigning officers in Assam to the effect that the fact that the cess due has been paid shall be noted on the sardar's certificate. This should obviate any chance of a double recovery by the local agent. As it is, there is no reason to believe that the Board have sustained loss owing to the non-observance of the letter of rule 24. The cess payable both on garden-sardars and emigrants has been received very punctually through the local agents. The number of garden-sardars employed to recruit independently of a local agent has been very small, and is now practically nil, the Board and the tea industry in general being opposed to this system of recruitment. By kind permission, also, of the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam, the Board is now supplied monthly, by Deputy Commissioners of the labour districts, with details regarding garden-sardars deputed to recruit independently of a local agent. Moreover, the certificates of such garden-sardars require countersignature in all recruiting districts, so information regarding them and their recruits should be available in the monthly returns furnished under rule 24 by Superintendents of Emigration.

The collection of the cess has added considerably to the work of all local agents and especially to that of the officers of the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, through whom the greater portion of the recruitment for Assam tea gardens is carried out, and the Board desire to offer to the recruiting Associations, and to firms and employers who maintain private local agencies, as well as to the local agents themselves, their cordial thanks for the assistance in this matter which has been so readily given.

Refund of Cess.

10. As the results of a reference from the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, the Board have agreed to grant a refund of the cess paid on labourers who have not gone forward, who have absconded en route or who have been repatriated either en route or within a short time of their arrival on the garden. No such refunds were made during the year under reference, but Rs. 50 were refunded in respect of cess twice realised on the same individuals, and Rs. 2 being cess erroneously paid on a dependant.

Receipts and Expenditure.

11. The first budget of the Board covers the period from the 1st May, 1915, to the 30th June, 1916. The budget was, necessarily a rough one, since actuals of previous years were not available for guidance. A preliminary budget was prepared in May, 1915, and was passed at the meeting of the Board held in December, 1915, and sanctioned by the Government of India after inclusion of expenditure subsequently approved. The accounts were audited by an officer deputed by the Accountant-General, Bengal, and a statement showing the actual receipts and expenditure will be found in Appendix A.

The estimate of receipts provided for an income of Rs. 1,15,540-6-9, viz., a Government grant of Rs. 20,240-6-9, and Rs. 95,300 derived from cess. The actual receipts largely exceeded this sum and amounted to Rs. 1,97,159-12-9. The estimate of the yield of cess was based on figures kindly supplied by the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association and the Madras Labour Association, and represented the average results of the three years ending the 31st March, 1915. On this basis it was assumed the cess would be payable on 24,750 garden-sardars and 22,900 emigrants. The year was, however, an abnormally successful one from the point of view of recruitment, owing to conditions of scarcity which obtained in certain areas, notably portions of Orissa and Chota Nagpur and the district of Bankura, and the cess actually realised amounted to Rs. 1,81,114, which was paid on 34,683 garden-sardars and 55,874 emigrants. Cess on garden-sardars and emigrants, for the period from the 21st to 31st August 1915, has yet to be paid in by the Tea Districts Labour Supply

Association the delay being due to the difficulty of checking the accounts for this period, cess being payable on all sardars at work on the 21st August 1915, as well as on those who arrived in the recruiting districts after that date. It is expected that some Rs. 7,836 will be realised on this account. The contribution payable by the Government of India towards the Chairman's salary for the months April to June 1916 is, also, still due.

The total expenditure amounted to Rs. 76,916-10-8, as compared with the revised estimate of Rs. 86,044-1-0, the closing balance being Rs. 1,20,243-2-1 (excluding a permanent advance of Rs. 300, with each of the Supervisors) against Rs. 29,496-5-9 estimated.

The savings accrued principally under the heads travelling allowance of all classes (Rs. 9,500); pay of office staff, owing to non-appointment of the sanctioned staff for the full period allowed (Rs. 730); tour charges (Rs. 230); pay of Supervisors (Rs. 3,140), owing to the fact that their salary for June was not drawn till July.

On the other hand the budget estimate was exceeded under the following heads:—

Stationery, printing and forms, due to the cost of publishing a pamphlet explaining the changes in the method of recruitment (Rs. 400); purchase of books (Rs. 540), temporary establishment and job typewriting (Rs. 690) and contribution towards the leave and pensionary allowances of Supervisors (Rs 1,860), for all of which no provision was made in the budget; office contingencies (Rs. 700), owing almost entirely to the cost of erecting partitions in the office and to the honorarium paid to the officer who inspected the office; contingent expenditure including stationery of Supervisors (Rs. 1,070), the original allotment of Rs. 700 being inadequate.

There were also minor savings and excesses under other heads to which it is unnecessary to refer in detail.

Budget Estimate for 1916-17.

12. The budget estimate for 1916-17, which was passed at the meeting of the Board held in March 1916, provides for an opening balance of Rs. 81,000-0-0, a contribution from Government of Rs. 16,133-0-0, and Rs. 1,36,000, as realisations from cess at Rs. 2/- on 27,000 garden-sardars and 41,000 emigrants. Owing to the fact that the recruiting results for the year 1915-16 were quite abnormal, it was deemed advisable to adhere to the original estimate of the yield from cess for that year, which was based on the normal recruitment so far as could be ascertained, since it is most unlikely that the large emigration of the past season will continue if good rains fall. Indeed, some reduction as compared with the normal figures would not be improbable. For the same reasons the Board decided not to recommend a reduction in the rate of the cess, which has accordingly been fixed by the Government of India at Rs. 2/- on garden-sardars and emigrants for the year 1916-17. The budget provides for an expenditure of Rs. 1,18,190-3-0 and a closing balance of Rs. 1,14,942-13-0. Since the actual closing balance of the year 1915-16 amounted to Rs. 1,20,243-2-1, the estimated opening and closing balances for the current year should be increased by Rs. 39,243-2-1. After the close of the year Rs. 75,000, have been placed on fixed deposit for six months with the Bank of Bengal, bearing interest at 3% per annum. It is a matter for satisfaction that the yield from cess has been so good, since the result has been to place the Board in a sound financial position from the outset which, if maintained, may render it possible for them to recommend a reduction in the rate of the cess for the year 1917-18.

Audit.

13. The Report of the Auditor deputed by the Accountant General, Bengal, to audit the Board's accounts for the year 1915-16, will be found in Appendix A. The Objection Statement mentioned in paragraph 7 of the Report has been received and necessary action is being taken thereon. The recommendation made in paragraph 3 of the Report that expenditure against the permanent advance should be shown in a separate register will be followed in future. There was, in fact, no actual accumulation of cash in the Chairman's hands in excess of Rs. 400/- the sanctioned permanent advance, the apparent excess being due to the fact that cheques, when received, were shown as cash until paid into the bank. The formal sanction of the Government of India to the budget estimate for the year under review was not received, but the budget was finally modified according to the instructions issued by Government. With reference to the remarks in paragraph 6 of the Report, the Board agree that the prescribed check on the levy of the cess payable in respect of emigrants is not of much value, since, in practice, Superintendents of Emigration obtain the figures for their statements from local agents. The Board will consider whether a more satisfactory check cannot be devised. The reason why the provisions of rule 24 (1) (a) as regards the cess leviable on garden sardars were not followed has been given in paragraph 9 of this Report. The excess of Rs. 5,623-3-8 over the budget provision under certain heads will be adjusted by re-appropriation from those heads under which there were savings. This was not done during the course of the year, as the Chairman was doubtful whether the Accountant General would require the Board to follow the practice in this respect obtaining in Government Departments.

III.—SUPERVISION OF LOCAL AGENTS.

Appointment of Local Agents.

14. Under the provisions of amended Section 64, Act VI of 1901, applications for the appointment of local agents are now presented to the Board in the first place. Enquiries are thereupon, made by the Board regarding the fitness of the candidate put forward, and, on their conclusion, the application is forwarded, with the recommendation of the Board as to whether the license should be granted or refused, to the Superintendent of Emigration concerned who alone is empowered to allow or reject the application.

During the period under review 102 applications for the grant of local agents' licenses were received, of which the Board recommended that 92 should be granted and 6 refused. The recommendations of the Board were accepted by Superintendents of Emigration in all cases except three, in which latter licenses were granted to persons whom the Board did not consider to be suitable. Four applications were pending with the Board at the close of the year, three of which have since been forwarded to the Superintendents of Emigration concerned; the remaining application has been struck off.

In addition to the applications specified above, several applications were withdrawn at the suggestion of the Chairman, as they were for the appointment of persons whom the information in the Board's office showed to be connected with recruitment through arkatties, and in a number of cases, before putting in formal applications, employers asked the Chairman for information as to the fitness of the prospective candidate. This was supplied and generally resulted in the application being dropped. Owing to the abolition of the system of recruitment by contractors, a considerable number of persons who used to gain a livelihood by supplying coolies under that system are now without employment. It is inevitable that they should still endeavour to carry on business, either in the guise of local agents, or by supplying coolies to graden-sardars who are nominally working independently of a local agent. These persons issue many appeals to tea agency firms in Calcutta and to employers in Assam, asking for employment, and frequently stating that they have coolies ready for despatch if garden-sardars be sent to them. Many such letters have been forwarded to the Board, by whom a record is kept of the persons who write them and of other persons attempting to carry on an illegal system of recruitment. This record is not only of assistance to the Board in making the recommendations to Superintendents of Emigration, but often enables the Chairman to satisfy applicants for the appointment of local agents that their nominees are unsuitable.

Conduct of Local Agents.

15. The great majority of the local agents work under the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, the number employed by individual firms or employers being small. At all their larger agencies the above Association have Europeans in charge, with, in many cases, European assistants, and their European staff is being strengthened as funds and suitable candidates become available. The present war conditions, however, have naturally retarded this improvement.

At the smaller agencies, Indian local agents are in charge but they work under the supervision of the local European superintendent. At the larger agencies the head clerk, also, as a rule, holds a second license in order that he may be able to carry on the work in emergencies, such as the temporary absence of the European agent-in-charge. Any defects noticed by the Chairman of the Board or the Supervisors in the course of their inspections are brought to the notice of the Association, who have always shown themselves ready to remedy them. Their local agents have generally carried out their duties honestly and well, but the Association found it necessary to dispense with the services of three local agents whose work was not satisfactory. In one case exception was taken by the Superintendent of Emigration concerned to the registration procedure at one of the local agencies, and the Chairman of the Board was asked to advise on the subject. He drew up a note suggesting improvements in procedure, which have been adopted.

When the Board was first formed, among the local agencies not under the Tea Districts Labour supply Association there were several whose operations partook more of the character of the contractors than that of the sardari system of recruitment. The licenses of these local agents have either expired and not been renewed, or have been cancelled at the instance of the employers concerned or of the Board or by the District Magistrate of his own motion. The reports on the working of the remaining existing private local agencies have been satisfactory, except in two of the three cases mentioned in paragraph 17, in which the Board felt themselves unable to recommend the renewal of the licenses of the local agents. Since January last other arrangements have been made in respect of one of the two agencies mentioned, the working of which has thereafter been quite satisfactory. In the third case the local agent had not previously held a license as such.

The Board is empowered by Section 116 D., Act VI of 1901, to call for and endorse the license of a local agent whose conduct they have reason to believe to have been such as to detract from his suitability to hold a license. Action under this section was not, however, necessary, it having been found equally efficacious and less cumbersome in cases calling for action to draw the attention of the District Magistrate or the employer to the delinquencies of the local agent.

System of remuneration of local agents.

16. A matter which occupied the attenion of the Board was the most suitable system of remunerating local agents, regarding which the Board's advice was sought by certain tea agency firms. There have been in the past, roughly speaking, three systems, namely:—

(a) the payment to the local agent of a fixed sum per recruit, to include all charges for the upkeep of the agency and forwarding charges, etc., of the coolies from the recruiting district to the tea estate or some centre such as Goalundo;—

(b) the payment of a fixed salary, supplemented by a commission on each recruit, all incidental charges being borne by the employer;

(c) the payment of a fixed salary, without commission, all incidental charges being borne by the employer.

The Board were asked to advise as to the relative suitability of systems (a) and (b), when the following resolution was recorded;—

"(a) a local agent should be granted a fixed salary sufficient to maintain him in comfort in the social position in life which he occupies and to place him beyond temptation to resort to malpractices;

(b) the Board consider that remuneration by a fixed salary, to be increased by commission according to the number of coolies challaned, is certainly preferable to remuneration at an all-round rate per coolie challaned, since there is always the danger that the latter system of remuneration may tempt a local agent to commit or to overlook malpractices in order that his remuneration may not be reduced."

There can be no doubt but that system (a) was a bad one, in that it acted as a direct incentive to a local agent to employ his own recruiters to supply coolies, who were challaned in the names of garden-sardars, and, even when a local agent did not proceed to the length of employing arkatties himself, the system tended to encourage his winking at his sardars doing so, and to render him over—ready to pass coolies who should have been rejected.

System (b) is the system which has hitherto been followed by the premier recruiting agency, namely, the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, since, until lately, the financial position of the Association did not warrant them guaranteeing a high fixed salary. The Board have, however, learned with pleasure that the Association have decided, with effect from the season beginning the 1st September 1916, to raise the fixed salaries of their employés and to abolish payment by commission altogether. The Board feel sure that the most satisfactory method of remunerating local agents and employés at local agencies is by an adequate fixed salary.

In order that the Board should be in a position to satisfy themselves that local agents are paid adequate salaries, it was decided that all applications for the appointment of local agents should state the salaries proposed to be paid to the local agents and in what way incidental expenses are to be met.

Licensing of local agents contrary to the recommendation of the Board.

17. In the preceding paragraphs mention has been made of three cases in which licenses were granted to local agents contrary to the recommendation of the Board. Latter have hitherto been reluctant to raise the question of the grant of licenses against their recommendations, as they were unwilling hastily to take any action which might possibly be misconstrued into an attempt on their part to curtail the legitimate exercise by District Officers of the authority conferred on them, more especially as in all but the three cases referred to, their recommendations were readily accepted. The matter is, however, one of such vital importance to the existence of the Board as an influence in the direction of clean recruitment, that they have no option but to bring it forward. As the law at present stands, a Superintendent of Emigration is not bound to accept the recommendation of the Board in regard to the appointment of a local agent, and he can refuse to issue a license the grant of which they recommend, or grant a license the refusal of which they have advised. The two cases, however, are on an entirely different footing. It may very well and reasonably happen that a District Officer should refuse to grant a license recommended by the Board. He may disagree with the Board as to the fitness of the candidate proposed, or, apart from personal reasons, he may be of opinion that for purposes of efficient control the existing number of licenses in his district is sufficient. That being so, and the Superintendent of Emigration in his capacity as District Magistrate being responsible for the peace and good government of his district, no exception could be taken to any reasonable exercise of his right to refuse applications which are supported by the Board. In the second case, however, namely in granting a license which the Board had not recommended, the same principles are not involved, but the power of the Board to carry out their statutory duty in relation to the supervision of local agents and of recruitment is seriously impaired. The Board may refuse to recommend the grant of a license for more reasons than one. For instance, they may consider a particular candidate to be unsuitable, owing either to his status, or character, or previous connection with recruitment or work as local agent—and so important is it that local agents should be absolutely reliable in all respects, they are reluctant to take any risks in regard to these matters. Or it may be that they consider that a particular tea estate, by reason of its unsatisfactory recruiting record, should not be allowed to have a private local agent. Unless the Board are conceded either by the good will of District Officers or by law, the right of veto in cases such as these, where they are of opinion that licenses should not be granted, they are powerless to put down abuses and to control recruitment by tea estates. In fact the Board might as well cease to exist. Apart from this, there is the general consideration that the Board represent the tea industry as a whole, and it seems hardly reasonable that the industry should have forced upon it a local agent whom its representatives do not wish for, since the industry is the body chiefly concerned. The Government of India are being addressed separately on this subject.

IV.—RECRUITMENT.

General results of the year.

18. As the Board receive only returns relating to adult labouring emigrants on whom cess is payable, they have not complete figures showing the volume of emigration to Assam tea gardens during the year under report. That the year was an unusually favourable one there can, however, be no doubt. The number of emigrants in respect of whom cess was paid, as compared with the number estimated on the basis of the results of the previous three years, is an indication of the extent of the increase, and these figures do not include children and aged dependants, who emigrated in large numbers. This result was due to a great extent to short rainfall, followed by conditions of scarcity, in portions of Bengal and Bihar and Orissa—especially the Feudatory States in the latter province—but it may, also, fairly be attributed in part to the abolition of the system of recruitment by contractors. The increase was most marked at the local agencies situated in the districts of Cuttack, Balasore, Bankura and Chaibassa, and was, likewise, considerable in those of Midnapur, Purulia, Ranchi and Hazaribagh. There was an improvement in the district of Ganjam but elsewhere in Madras, as also in the Central Provinces results were not so good as during the previous year. In the United Provinces and Bihar there was little variation. Given good agricultural conditions, a considerable falling off may be expected in the current year, but the fact that, of the large number of persons who emigrated during the year under report, many may wish to return to fetch their families and friends, should result in, at all events, the normal rate of emigration being maintained.

Measures affecting recruitment.

19. Towards the close of the year under review the Government of Madras were pleased to throw open to recruitment under special arrangements a portion of the Agency Tracts in the Ganjam and Vizagapatam districts, and the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, have appointed two local agents for these areas. It will probably be some little time before the full benefit of the opening of these areas is reaped, but as the attractions which Assam has to offer to the emigrant become known to the people, it is hoped that a satisfactory class of labour will be available from these tracts. The Government of Madras have also sanctioned a scheme under which labourers in Assam, who are natives of the portions of the Agency Tracts still closed to recruitment, will be enabled to bring out their immediate relatives.

A matter of far-reaching importance, now under discussion with the Government of Bihar and Orissa, is the proposal to introduce, with the sanction of the Chiefs, a system of regularised recruitment in the Feudatory States, on payment of a fee on each garden-sardar sent down to recruit and on each coolie recruited. A measure of this description, if carried through, could not fail to benefit both the tea industry and the States themselves.

The Government of Madras consulted the Board as to the advisability of extending the Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1901, to the Southern Districts of that Province and of prohibiting recruitment for Assam in those districts by notification under section 3 of the above Act. This proposal was made as the result of abuses which were found to exist, not so much with reference to emigration to Assam itself, which is small, but in connection with emigration to the colonies, a case having come to light in which certain coolies recruited by an Assam agency, were being shipped off to the colonies against their will. The Board concurred in the proposal to extend Act VI of 1901 to the Southern Districts of Madras, but asked that, instead of absolutely prohibiting emigration to Assam from those areas, it should be permitted under the supervision of licensed local agents. The small number of coolies from South Madras who have been recruited for Assam have not turned out very well, so there is at present no likelihood of any considerable emigration from those areas, but the facts that a likely class of labour may yet be procured from those districts and that a certain number of people therefrom, who are now in Assam, may wish to bring up their relatives, rendered total prohibition, in the opinion of the Board, inexpedient. The Government of Madras were unable to accept the recommendation of the Board, that recruitment under a local agent should be allowed in the Southern Districts, and have prohibited emigration therefrom, but they have kindly undertaken to render assistance to any coolie now in Assam who wishes to fetch his family from the closed areas.

At the instance of the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, the Board represented to the Government of the United Provinces that recruitment should be allowed in the districts of Unao, Rae Bareli, Etawah, and Farrukhabad, which are now closed to the engagement of labour for Assam. These districts are contiguous to districts in which recruitment is permitted, and though it is not anticipated that any considerable number of recruits would be obtained from them, persons belonging to those districts, who are occasionally recruited in Cawnpur and other districts open to recruitment, are as a result of the prohibition cut off from their families whom they are unable to assist to emigrate to Assam. Owing to the opposition of the Upper India Chamber of Commerce, His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor could not see his way to accept the recommendation of the Board.

Cost of sardari recruitment.

20. The Board have addressed the Indian Tea Association, suggesting that measures should be taken to reduce the cost of recruitment by garden-sardars, and this matter is still under consideration. Apart from such items as railway fare, clothing, agency charges and other incidental charges of a like nature, very considerable sums are paid in the way of advances and bonuses to garden-sardars, which tend to increase as years go on. Unless some agreement on this subject is arrived at, there is a danger of competition between tea concerns in the matter of the payment of bonuses and advances, resulting in the progressive enhancement of the cost of importing labour. There is, therefore, a general consensus of opinion among members of the tea industry that the time has arrived for a combined effort to keep down excess expenditure, which is not only money wasted, but which, by furnishing the garden-sardar with surplus funds, provides a temptation for him to purchase coolies from arkatties or other sardars. Connected with this subject is that of the advances or payments made to prospective emigrants for the purpose of paying off debts or for the support of members of their families left in the recruiting districts or on other grounds. Cases in which emigrants, who have received such payments and who have subsequently, when en route to Assam, declared themselves unwilling to proceed, have lately arisen, and in some instances the same emigrants have repeated these tactics on more occasions than one, so there is reason for the apprehension that the practice of making cash advances to the emigrants themselves instead of making payments direct to the creditors or other persons who are intended to benefit by them, has a tendency to encourage fraud of this description. This matter is also receiving attention, and the Governments of Bengal and Bihar and Orissa, on the matter having been represented to them, have been so good as to issue instructions that when complaints of improper recruitment, etc., are received from emigrants en route to Assam, employers or their local agents should be given a hearing before orders of repatriation are passed.

Labour for newly opened out tea estates, etc.

21. Owing to the abolition of the system of recruitment by contractors, the question of the provision of labour for newly opened out estates has become more difficult, and the same applies, but in a lesser degree, to the recruitment of labour for new extensions of existing concerns, or for estates which, owing to the fact that they have failed to send down recruiters for several years, have lost connection with the recruiting districts, and for estates which wish to recruit from districts other than those from which their labour force was obtained. The Indian Tea Association sought the advice of the Board as to whether some special concessions should not be granted to newly opened out estates and to existing estates which are extending their cultivation, and as to whether it should not be recognised in such cases that a sardar might not only recruit in villages other than his native one and persons of castes other than his own, but that he might be deputed to recruit in a district other than that to which he belonged.

It is not the present practice of garden-sardars to confine themselves to their own particular villages or castes when recruiting, nor can they reasonably be expected to do so, as their relatives and friends or the acquaintances of their relatives and friends are not confined to a particular village and they, also, have social intercourse with persons of other castes. When, however, it comes to deputing a garden-sardar to recruit in a district in which he has no connections, the matter becomes more difficult. In the first place the chief safeguard to sardari recruitment lies in the fact that the sardar generally recruits people who know him or know of him, and in the second place a sardar operating outside his native district is not likely to prove successful except in times of famine or scarcity. The Board, therefore, think that there is a greater likelihood of new concerns obtaining better results by deputing as sardars time-expired coolies residing in the neighbouring villages, who are accustomed to work on the estate and who would recruit in their native districts. Another expedient which has been tried with varying results is to borrow sardars from another estate in the same Company, and the Board see no objection to this, provided that the sardar spends some weeks on the garden for which he is to recruit before he is sent to engage labourers, in order that he may gain some insight into labour conditions on the estate, and provided also that he remains for some months on the estate with the coolies whom he has recruited, and that the local agent explains to the coolies that the sardar will not remain permanently on the garden to which they are going. In view, however, of the special difficulties of newly opened out estates the Board would not be prepared to deprive them of any small advantage which they might obtain by deputing sardars to recruit in districts other than those in which their homes are situated, but they think that the sardars selected to do so should, as far as possible, be natives of districts in the neighbourhood of that in which they are to recruit, where conditions are similar and where prospective emigrants of the same or analogous castes are available. Tea estates which have entirely lost connection might, perhaps, be allowed the same concession, but it would seem that no special concessions are required in the case of estates needing labour for new extensions as they have already a nucleus from which they can draw recruiting sardars, or in the case of estates which have not a connection with a particular district, since they can presumably obtain labour from the districts from which they ordinarily recruit. In times of scarcity, however, when the people, owing to stress of circumstances, are looking for sardars to assist them to emigrate and are indifferent to what estate they go, the Board are of opinion that the principle that a garden-sardar may be sent down to recruit in a district in which there is scarcity, although it is not his home district, might with safety generally be recognised. The number of sardars sent to recruit outside their home districts will always be automatically limited, since no Manager unless compelled to do so, would employ sardars in this way owing to the fact that their chances of success would be much smaller than those of sardars operating in their native districts.

V.—ILLEGAL RECRUITMENT.

Non-act Native States' coolies

22. It was not to be expected that all of the large number of people who earned a livelihood by obtaining coolies for Assam tea estates under the contractors system would retire from business on the enactment of the Assam Labour and Emigration (Amendment) Act, 1915, and, even up to the present, some of them are endeavouring to carry on a profession which has now become illegal.

The fact that, till the abovementioned amending Act was passed, coolies recruited in Native States could be taken up to Assam free of all restrictions was a fruitful source of abuse. This was not only the case in regard to coolies who were bonâ fide natives of Native States, but also in regard to coolies who were natives of British recruiting districts, the latter being frequently forwarded to Assam misdescribed as natives of Native States. In this way the safeguards provided by the Act were evaded. Such people were often removed from their home districts on the pretext that they were proceeding to Chittagong, Calcutta or elsewhere in order to obtain work. Arrived at Goalundo or at some place at a distance from their homes, they became "free or non-act Native State coolies." Since the amendment of the law, all coolies described as being from Native States, are required to be registered before their departure from the British recruiting district which they may enter on leaving the Native State, and can only emigrate to Assam from such district subject to the same conditions as natives of the district. The Amending Act (VIII of 1915) became law on the 27th March 1915, and although Section 7 of that Act, in virtue of the provisions of which the system of recruitment by contractors was abolished, was not put into operation by notification of the Government of India until the 1st July 1915, the provisions relating to natives of Native States came into force with the Act itself, and consequently all coolies said to have been recruited in Native States, whether by contractors or otherwise, should have been registered. This change in the law was, however, overlooked, and even after the 1st July 1915, from which date the provisions of Act VI of 1901 legalising recruitment by contractors were withdrawn, the so-called free or non-act Native States coolies were, through a misapprehension at Goalundo, allowed to pass up to Assam as before without restriction. But a stop was soon put to this by the Government of Bengal on the matter being brought to their notice by the Board, and other Local Governments were also good enough to issue instructions on the subject. This particular form of illegal recruitment had now ceased.

Recruitment nominally for Chittagong, etc.

23. During the earlier half of the year under review, reports were rife that contractors and arkatties were sending up batches of coolies to Assam either as ordinary third class passengers or under cover of recruitment for Chittagong tea gardens. Accounts were, moreover, received of batches being hawked from garden to garden. At the instance of the Board the Government of Bengal kindly agreed to depute a special police officer to patrol the transit routes and the Chief Commissioner of Assam was pleased to permit the Assam railway police to co-operate. Owing to press of other work it was unfortunately found necessary to remove the special police officer from this work, but it is hoped that it will be found possible to depute one again later on. To what extent this type of illegal recruitment is being practised at present it is not easy to say, as there is no very definite information. The Board are inclined to the opinion, however, that it is not now being followed to any great extent, though undoubtedly at the outset, before the new conditions became fully known, some illegally recruited batches went forward. For one thing, the number of managers who will accept illegally recruited coolies is exceedingly small. For another, the temporary closure of the Hill Section of the Assam-Bengal Railway would considerably hamper operations nominally for Chittagong. There can be no doubt, also, but that arkatties and the like are not having by any means an easy time; their trade is now illegal and it becomes increasingly difficult to carry it on. In Basti district in the United Provinces there was an organised raid on recruiters. In Sambalpore, too, legal proceedings were taken against them on a large scale and in other districts the authorities have taken steps to curb their activities. In this work the Board have been able to afford assistance by furnishing District Officers with information of offers to supply coolies made to tea agency firms and managers of estates, which are now in many cases reported to the Board by the recipients. The information gleaned by the Supervisors of the Board and from other sources is likewise placed at the disposal of District Officers, who are also made welcome to the services of the Supervisors, if required. In some cases District Officers have requested the Board to undertake prosecutions, but latter believe that neither they nor their Supervisors are empowered to do so and that their duty is confined to furnishing information and rendering assistance. It would, however, greatly add to the usefulness of the Supervisors if they were given powers of arrest and investigation in cases of illegal recruitment. Were the Criminal Investigation Department, also, to take up such cases, it would result in the more speedy elimination of the arkatti, as the operations of illegal recruiters are often widespread, extending over many districts, and even over several provinces, a fact which renders it difficult for the ordinary district police to cope with the organisation.

Garden-sardars working independently of a local agent.

24. What has done more than anything else, perhaps, to keep alive the arkatti is this practice of deputing garden-sardars to recruit independently of a local agent. Though the great majority of tea estates work only through responsible local agents, there have been a number—fortunately a decreasing one—which have deputed sardars to work independently. These sardars do not recruit themselves, but go to an ex-contractor or arkatti who supplies them with coolies on payment. In some cases which have come to the notice of the Board, the sardar is himself an arkatti. From the correspondence in the Board's office it would seem that tea agency firms and managers of estates have been bombarded with offers to supply coolies, if either sardars are sent down to the applicant or latter is appointed their local agent. In not a few cases the Board's recommendation has been sought for the appointment of persons of this class as local agents, such recommendation being, needless to say, withheld. Though offers of this description are generally consigned to the waste paper basket or forwarded to the Board to be dealt with, a small minority of concerns have been lured into sending down sardars to these persons. Offers to supply coolies come in the greatest numbers from the United Provinces. This is largely due to the fact that the province is a centre of recruitment for the Colonies. There can be no doubt but that certain Colonial contractors unite with their legitimate business an illegal recruiting business for Assam, coolies who are rejected by the Colonial authorities being too frequently sold to illegal recruiters or sardars for despatch to Assam. An ex-contractor for the Colonies informed the Chairman of the Board that he used to dispose of his rejections in this way, and in the Madras Presidency a Colonial contractor actually offered the Chairman a batch of coolies, which he was unable, for the moment, to get accepted for the Colonies, emigration having been temporarily stopped. Neither of these gentlemen, it may be remarked, knew that he was doing anything illegal, though the same, it is feared, cannot be said in regard to most of the other persons concerned in this traffic. It is obvious that this system of disposing of Colonial rejections not only provides a field for the arkatti and independent sardar, but also constitutes a temptation to the bonâ fide sardar, working under a local agent. From the point of view of recruitment for Assam, therefore, it seems very desirable that steps should be taken to insure that coolies rejected by the Colonial authorities as being unfit or unsuitable are sent back to their homes.

In view of the danger to bonâ fide recruitment caused by the employment of garden-sardars to recruit independently of a local agent, the Board decided, at their meeting held in December 1915, that, on its coming to their notice that a manager has deputed a sardar to recruit independently, he should be called upon to recall him at once, and to give a guarantee that he will in future only depute sardars to recruit under a responsible local agent. Failing compliance with such requisition it was resolved that the matter should be reported to the Assam Administration with the recommendation that countersignature of the certificates of all sardars of the garden should be withheld, until the concern should take the desired action. Through the courtesy of the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner the Board is now being supplied monthly with lists of garden-sardars who have been granted certificates to recruit independently of a local agent, so that action can at once be taken to secure their withdrawal. It is satisfactory to note that for the last few months these lists have been blank.

Action taken as regards tea concerns which engage improperly recruited coolies.

25. The Board have not lost sight of the fact that illegal recruitment would cease altogether (except in so far as it can be carried on through the medium of bonâ fide sardars without the knowledge of their employers) if tea concerns would refuse to employ improperly recruited coolies. The Board are glad to be able to report that the great body of the tea industry is with them in their endeavour to put down abuses, and in the conviction that a clean system of recruitment is essential in order to promote emigration to Assam. At the outset, the methods adopted by certain gardens were open to objection, and in two cases the Assam Administration was asked to intervene, with the result that one manager who employed an arkatti to recruit as a sardar was required, on the recommendation of the local Branch of the Indian Tea Association, to contribute Rs. 150 to one of the war funds. In the other case the Assam Administration was of opinion that the manager had erred owing to the instructions which he had received from the agents for the garden. Latter were accordingly addressed with satisfactory results. In the remaining cases a reference to the agents for the estate or to the manager was sufficient to ensure that the practices complained of would not be repeated Such trouble as there was in the earlier portion of the year was due to a great extent to the fact that some managers had not realised the changed conditions as regards recruitment now obtaining. The Chairman toured in both the Assam and Surma Valleys, where meetings were held at convenient centres, at which recruiting matters were discussed, and difficulties explained, and it is hoped that this helped to remove misapprehensions. The Board, however, regret to have to say that there is still a small residuum of estates, the recruiting methods of which leave much to be desired. These estates are being dealt with, and if they prove recalcitrant the Board will not hesitate to ask the Assam Administration to put a stop to their recruiting till they mend their ways. Certain cases regarding the recruitment for such estates are now under investigation in the recruiting districts, and will probably result in the prosecution of the managers concerned. The Board would have preferred to see the desired end obtained by voluntary agreement without resort to the law courts, but a few concerns, which are as blind to their own interests as they are indifferent to those of the tea industry as a whole, cannot be permitted to obstruct the adoption of the reforms which have been decided upon.

Illegal recruitment in the Gorakhpur Division.

26. The Government of the United Provinces addressed the Board in November 1915 in regard to the serious abuses in recruitment which had occurred in the Gorakhpur Division, and asked for their advice as to whether somewhat stringent restrictions should not be placed upon the operations of sardars. There can be no doubt but that the Government of the United Provinces had had much to complain of, but the Board were of opinion that the source of the abuses was not the bonâ fide garden-sardar working under a reliable local Agent, but that the evil was attributable partly to the fact that, though the contractors system was abolished in that province in 1908, contractors and arkatties still continued to work, in some cases as licensed local agents and in others without licenses at all. Their operations were facilitated owing to the fact that entirely free and unrestricted recruitment was at the same time allowed to the Surma Valley districts and Kamrup and Goalpara, the result being that no control was exercised over sardars or others alleging that they were recruiting for those areas, who could operate and remove their recruits without reporting to any one. The measures recommended by the Board were the careful selection of local agents, in which it is the duty of the Board to assist, the rigid supervision of all sardars working independently of a local agent, and the amendment of the notification issued by the Government of the United Provinces under section 91, Act VI of 1901, so as to provide for the countersignature of the certificates of all sardars in the labour districts, copies of the certificates being forwarded to the Magistrate of the recruiting district concerned. A conference on the subject was held at Gorakhpur in January 1916, at which the Commissioner presided, and which was attended by the local District Officers, the Chairman of Board, Mr. Craven, Supervisor, and the local Superintendent of the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association. The orders of the Government of the United Provinces on this subject are shortly expected, and the Chief Commissioner of Assam has already been so good as to direct that copies of all certificates shall be forwarded by the countersigning officer to the Magistrate of the district in which the sardar is to recruit.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Questions relating to transit arrangements.

27. Much inconvenience is experienced by batches of coolies en route to Assam, when the peon deputed by the local agency or transport agency to accompany the batch is taken into custody. Such cases occur when a coolie in the batch becomes unwilling to proceed and accuses the peon or sardar of wrongful confinement, or in consequence of charges made by the railway police or railway station staff. When the peon or sardar in charge is removed, the batch is stranded, and in many cases the coolies composing it become alarmed and abscond. The matter was represented by the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association some time back to the Government of Bengal, who, after consulting the Chairman of the Board, have passed orders which will do much to remove the inconvenience. Stress has been laid upon the desirability of distinguishing between non-cognisable cases under the Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1901, and cognisable cases under the Indian Penal Code, and it has been enjoined that, in all cases in which the detention of the sardar or peon in charge should be necessary, information should be sent without delay to the nearest local or transport agent concerned in order that he may arrange for the escort of the batch of coolies. Similar instructions have been issued by the Government of Bihar and Orissa and by the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

In July 1915, a conference was held at the office of the Coaching Superintendent, East Indian Railway, with the object of discussing improvements in transport arrangements. The conference was attend by representatives of the East Indian and Eastern Bengal Railways, the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, the Transport Agents and by the Chairman of the Board, and satisfactory conclusions were arrived at. The Traffic Manager, East Indian Railway, has issued most useful instructions as regards the assistance which is to be afforded to emigrants travelling to Assam tea estates.

The Eastern Bengal Railway have undertaken to improve the facilities for emigrants on the Amingaon route and are providing feeding accommodation at Santahar and Golakganj, as well as hospital accommodation at the latter place, the present hospital accommodation at Amingaon being enlarged. On receipt of representations from the Board regarding the detention of certain batches of coolies which were being chalaneed to gardens in the agency of Messrs. Williamson Magor & Co., the administration of that Railway has also been good enough to give instructions which are likely to obviate the recurrence of inconveniences of this description.

After consultation with the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, a recommendation was made to the Government of the United Provinces that the transit routes prescribed by rule 55, Chapter III, page 91 of the Inland Emigration Manual of that Province should be amended as follows in view of recent improvements in communications with Assam:—

(a) From the districts situate on the north of the rivers Gogra or Ganges by the Bengal and North-Western Railway and/or Oudh and Rohilkand Railway to Amingaon and Gauhati viâ Katihar or to Goalundo viâ Naihati.

(b) From all other districts, by the Great Indian Peninsula Railway and/or East Indian Railway to Amingaon viâ Bhagalpur Ghât or to Goalundo viâ Naihati.

After the close of the year an intimation has been received from the Government of the United Provinces that this recommendation has been accepted.

Improved measures for the prevention of outbreaks of cholera and small pox among batches of tea garden emigrants were under discussion with the Sanitary Commissioner, Assam, at the close of the year.

Conclusion.

28. At the conclusion of the first year of the existence of the Board, the members wish to tender their thanks to the Local Governments and Officers of Government with whom the Board have been brought into contact, as well as to the Indian Tea Association and its Branches, to the Tea Districts Labour Supply Association, and generally to all connected with the tea industry for the kind reception and support which has been afforded them, without which the difficulty of establishing the Board on a sound working basis would have been greatly increased.

W. M. KENNEDY,

Chairman, Assam Labour Board.

APPENDIX A.

No. L. A.-688, dated Calcutta, the 15th September 1916.

From—The Inspector of Local Accounts, Bengal,

To—The Chairman, Assam Labour Board.

I have the honour to report that the accounts of the Assam Labour Board for the period from 1st May 1915 to 30th June 1916 have been audited under my supervision. The abstract of the accounts of receipts and expenditure prepared by the Board, a copy of which is attached to this report, has been examined and found generally correct subject to the remarks contained in the following paragraphs :—

Verification of Balance—

2. The balance of the accounts on the 30th June 1916 has been verified as explained below :—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Balance as per account	1,20,243	2	1
Amount of Permanent Advances to Supervisors	900	0	0
TOTAL	1,21,143	2	1

Analysis of the Balance—

	Rs.	A.	P.	Rs.	A.	P.
(1) Amount deposited in the Bank of Bengal	1,22,166	3	9
(2) Balance in the hands of the Chairman	514	15	7
(3) Permanent Advance	900	0	0
(4) Debit in the Bank's Accounts not accounted for during the year	0	1	0
TOTAL	1,23,581	4	4
Less—
Outstanding cheques	2,438	2	3
				1,21,143	2	1

The total receipt during the period under audit amounted to Rs. 1,97,159-12-9, while the expenditure came to Rs. 76,916-10-8, leaving a balance of Rs. 1,20,243-2-1. This balance would have been increased by Rs. 2,706-0-11 had not the salary of the Chairman and of the establishment for the month of June 1916 been paid on the last day of the month instead of on the first working day of the following month.

CASH BOOK.

3. The cash book contains records of petty payments made from the permanent advance of Rs. 400 sanctioned by the Board. It is desirable that the petty payments met from the permanent advance should be recorded in a separate permanent advance register and the amount of the advance recouped as necessity arises, the recoupments being only charged in the main cash book. In this connection, it is brought to notice that the limit of the permanent advance was exceeded in some instances. If the permanent advance register is separately kept and the collections are remitted intact to the Bank for credit to the Board's accounts, such accumulations of cash may be avoided. This procedure will also minimise clerical work in the Board's office.

BUDGET ESTIMATES.

4. The Budget estimates for the year under report required the formal sanction of the Government of India as prescribed by rule 23 of rules published in Commerce and Industry Department Notification No. 295—132-C., dated the 20th November 1915. Some modifications were made in the estimates after they had been passed by the Board. These changes required the final approval of the Government of India.

There was an aggregate excess of Rs. 5,623-3-8 over the Budget grants under the several heads. This excess may be sanctioned by the Board with the approval of the Government of India.

RECEIPTS.

Cess on Garden Sardars and emigrants.

5. Under rule 24 (1) (a) of the rules published by the Government of India, the cess on sardars is to be remitted by the District Officers of the labour districts, who are also required to furnish the Chairman with lists of sardars deputed by the tea gardeners; but this procedure was not followed during the year under report and the cess was realised from the agents according to their own statements. Consequently no check could be exercised over the cess realised on the garden-sardars actually on work in the recruiting districts.

6. With regard to cess on the emigrants Rule 24 (3) lays down that the Superintendents of Emigration should furnish the Chairman with monthly statements showing the number of emigrants despatched to the tea gardens. It appears that the Superintendents did not furnish the statements regularly. Consequently no check could be exercised on the statements furnished by the agents. The cess is, however, being realised on the statements furnished by the agents In this connection, it may be mentioned that the statements furnished by the Superintendents of Emigration are the duplicate copies of the returns of the local agents who furnish the original copies to their agents. The intention of the Rule 24 (3) is apparently that one set of figures should check the other. Since both sets of figures practically come from the local agent, the value of the check referred to above seems to be doubtful. It is therefore suggested that a procedure may be laid down by which the Superintendents may furnish their figures from an independent source, so that they might be useful in checking the figures furnished by the agents. It is also suggested that the Superintendents of recruiting districts may be asked to furnish their statements regularly to the Board's office in future.

EXPENDITURE.

7. The irregularities in expenditure noticed during the course of audit have been communicated to the Chairman through the Audit Objection Statements for necessary action.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 25th November 1916.

Burma.—The week was rainless. Reaping of winter rice has begun and planting of island crops is proceeding. Plucking of cotton and gathering of groundnut continue. Standing crops are satisfactory. The cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice has risen further to rupees 115 per hundred baskets and is slightly above normal. The market for white rice is steady.

Assam.—The weather during the week was seasonable and very little rain fell. Plucking and manufacture of tea are nearly completed. Harvesting of winter rice and sowing of mustard and pulses are in progress. Pressing of sugarcane has commenced. Prospects of tea and mustard are fair and those of cotton are fair to good. Damage to crops caused by insect pests is reported from four districts. Insufficiency of fodder is reported from two and cattle disease from three districts. The price of common rice has fallen in four districts and slightly risen in two. Distribution of agricultural loans continues in Cachar.

Bengal.—No rain fell during the week. Harvesting of winter paddy has commenced in places and a good outturn is expected. Sowing of potatoes and other spring crops is progressing briskly. The prospects of standing crops except in certain low-lying tracts are on the whole reported to be good. Cattle disease exists in five districts only. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 1·7 per cent as compared with that of the preceding week.

Bihar and Orissa.—The week was practically rainless. Harvesting of paddy is in progress. Sowing of spring crops continues in some districts. Standing crops are on the whole doing well. The average price of common rice has fallen as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from several districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is on the whole good.

United Provinces.—Light rain fell in the south and east of the Province. Harvesting of autumn crops is nearing completion; sowing of poppy, irrigation of winter crops, pressing of sugarcane and picking of cotton continue. Sowing of winter crops is almost complete. Standing crops are doing well and prospects are good. The condition of agricultural stock is good though some cattle disease is still reported from a few districts. Fodder and water are sufficient. Market supplies are ample. A general rise in prices is noticeable.

Punjab.—The weather remains dry. Rain is wanted for spring crops in a few south-eastern and submontane districts. Picking of cotton, pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of maize and rice, etc., continue. The yield is normal to good. The condition of standing crops and of sugarcane and cotton is generally good. Sowings of wheat, barley, rapeseed, etc., are in progress and are normal or above normal. Germination of crops sown is good. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are sufficient. Prices of wheat and other grains have risen and generally range between normal and scarcity rates. In some cases autumn food grains are below normal rates. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Prices of wheat.—Lahore 8¼, Lyallpur 9, Ambala, Ferozepur and Rawalpindi 9¼ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless; rain is required for autumn sowings on unirrigated areas in the Peshawar district. The weather is cold. The condition of standing irrigated and unirrigated crops is average in the province. Sowing of spring and harvesting of autumn crops are proceeding; the outturn of latter is reported to be average except in Dera Ismail Khan where it is below average. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are sufficient. The Paharpur canal is not running. The public health is good, but malarial fever is still prevalent in Peshawar and a few cases of cholera occurred in the Dera Ismail Khan district. Prices are high and rising in Peshawar and Bannu but falling in Dera Ismail Khan.

Jammu.—Light rain is reported to have fallen in tahsil Ramban only. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 14 and maize from 14 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is good. Cattle disease still prevails in the Ranbir singhpura tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was insignificant. Spring crops are being sown. The cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices have risen.

Rajputana.—The weather is cool and clear. Slight showers have fallen in Banswara and Partabgarh and 50 cents in the Kotah district. Standing crops are doing well. Harvesting of autumn and sowing of spring crops continue. Prospects are promising Agricultural stock is in a healthy condition except in some places in Kishangarh where cattle disease is reported. Water and fodder are abundant. Prices are normal in Karauli; rising in Mewar Dungarpur, Jaipur, Kishangarh and Tonk and stationary elsewhere.

Central India.—The weather is cloudy; the rainfall is general in Baghelkhand and Southern States and sufficient elsewhere. Sowing of spring and harvesting of autumn crops continue everywhere except in some parganas of Gwalior where they have been retarded by heavy rains. Picking of cotton has commenced in Indore and Malwa. Standing corps and probable outturn are fair in Indore and Bhopal and good elsewhere. Crops have been damaged in the Shujawalpur pargana of Gwalior and in Bhopal by excessive rain. Agricultural stock is in good condition everywhere except that there is some cattle disease. Fodder supply is sufficient Prices are rising in Bhopal, fluctuating in Indore and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been clear and cool and occasionally cloudy. Light to moderate showers were received over most of the provinces, nowhere exceeding ½ inches. Reaping and threshing of autumn crops, picking of cotton and sowing of spring crops are in progress but operations were somewhat impeded in places owing to unseasonable rain. Spring seedlings already germinated are in good condition and prospects are so far satisfactory. Fodder and water are sufficient and cattle are healthy. Wheat showed a sharp rise of about 1 seer per rupee; juar also showed a tendency to rise.

Feudatory States:—Two States received light showers.

Bombay.—Rain fell during the week in parts of the Konkan, the Deccan, the Carnatic, Rewa Kantha and Kolhapur. Standing crops are generally thriving but severe damage has been caused in Bijapur by excessive rain, slight damage in Belgaum, Kolhapur, three talukas of Poona and two talukas of Dharwar. They are withering in two talukas of Kaira. Autumn harvesting generally continues. Cotton picking is progressing in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Khandesh, Ahmednagar, Sholapur and Kathiawar. Spring sowing generally continues. The supply of fodder is adequate. Agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Kaira and the Panch Mahals. Prices of food grains are generally steady.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was light throughout except one inch seven cents in the Nalgonda district. Break in rain benefitted crops which are improving. The average fall was sixteen cents. Autumn and early rice crops which had suffered from rain are being harvested. Spring lands have been resown in parts. The crop is fair to good and is being weeded generally. Late rice lands are being prepared and sown. Cattle disease prevails in seventeen taluks. Prices of grains are almost constant. The highest price of juar in districts is 8½ seers per rupee in Warangal and the lowest 26¾ seers per rupee in Usmanabad.

Standing crops especially gardens have been damaged by a cyclone in the tract bordering on the junction of the Chingleput, South Arcot and North Arcot districts where some loss of life and of cattle is also reported. Standing crops elsewhere are fair to good generally but have been damagèd by floods or heavy rains in parts of two districts and require more rain in parts of another. Harvests of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding normally. The outturn is fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy and dry crops are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. Water supply is insufficient in parts of Anantapur, Chittoor, North Arcot, Madura and Ramnad and sufficient eleswhere. Pasture is sufficient. Rainfall Summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 14th December 1916, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. Rainfall of importance occurred only in the southeast of Madras. Unsettled conditions were transmitted eastwards from Persia, but they exerted no influence on the Indian weather beyond causing heavy cloud in the northwest. Ordinarily rainfall to the extent of about 1½″ occurs in Persia between the beginning of November and the middle of December, but this year the weather there has been abnormally dry.

2. Burma.—Myitkyina had a light fall of rain.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—There was a light fall at Sibsagar.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—There was no rain.

Northwest India.—Weather was dry throughout.

The Peninsula.—Showers were reported on five days, the largest number occurring on the 8th.

3. The daily falls were all below three-quarters of an inch in amount.

4. The rainfall of the week was normal in Assam, and in defect by 20 per cent or more in all the remaining divisions with the exception of Bihar, Sind, Gujarat, the Central Provinces East, the Konkan and Hyderabad South, where the absence of rainfall is a normal feature at this time of year.

The rainfall from the 1st December to date is more than 20 per cent in excess in Mysore, and is within 20 per cent of the normal in Assam and Madras Southeast. It is 20 per cent or more in defect in the rest of the country except in the following divisions where no rain usually falls during this period of the year: Bihar, Sind, Gujarat, the Central Provinces East, the Konkan and Hyderabad South.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 9th December 1916.

Burma.—Slight rain fell on the Arakan coast and in five districts of Upper Burma. Reaping of winter rice is progressing in Lower Burma and continues in Upper Burma where harvesting of groundnut and cotton is also progressing. Standing crops are generally in good condition. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice in Rangoon is Rs. 111 per hundred baskets and is above normal. The market for white rice is weak.

Assam.—The weather was seasonable. Slight showers of rain fell mostly in upper Assam. Plucking and manufacture of tea and sowing of spring crops are nearly finished. Harvesting of winter rice, pressing of sugarcane and plucking of cotton are in progress. Prospects of tea, mustard and cotton are fair and of pulses moderate. Prevalence of insect pests and cattle disease is reported from two and four districts respectively, and insufficiency of fodder from one. The price of common rice has fallen in five districts. Distribution of seeds and agricultural loans continue in Cachar.

Bengal.—No rain fell during the week except some slight showers in parts of the Darjeeling district. Reaping of winter paddy is in full swing. Sowing of spring crops is fast approaching completion. Sugarcane and other standing crops are doing well. Fodder is insufficient in the flood affected parts of Dacca and Tippera. Cattle disease is reported from three districts only. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by 1·14 per cent. as compared with that of the preceding week.

Bihar and Orissa.—The week was rainless. Harvesting of paddy and weeding of spring crops are in progress, pressing of sugarcane continues and sowing of spring crops is almost completed. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has fallen appreciably as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from thirteen districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—No rain fell during the week. Harvesting and threshing of late rice, sowing of poppy, irrigation of winter crops and poppy, pressing of sugarcane and picking of cotton are in progress. A rough estimate in annas of outturn of principle late autumn crops is as follows:—Rice rather over 16, juar 12 to 14, bajra 12 to 14, pulses 13 to 15, cotton about 12. Rice has been uniformly good while cotton has been a disappointing crop. Juar suffered from late rains. Germination of winter crops has been good and there is a plentiful supply of water for irrigation purposes in canals and tanks. Standing crops are doing well. Agricultural stock is in good condition and very little cattle disease is reported. Fodder is ample; markets are full and fall in prices is reported from 14 districts mostly in western tracts while 23 districts mostly in Oudh and eastern tracts report a rise.

Punjab.—The weather during the week remained dry. Rain is wanted for spring crops almost everywhere. Picking of cotton and pressing of sugarcane continue. The yield is generally normal to good except that of cotton in parts of the south-east where it is reported to be below normal. The condition of standing sugarcane and cotton and of spring crops is generally good. Irrigated wheat and barley, etc., are being sown in some districts. Area sown is normal or above normal. Germination of crops sown is generally good. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and range between normal and scarcity rates. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Prices of wheat:—Lahore 8⅝, Ambala 8⅞, Rawalpindi 9, Lyallpur 9¼ and Ferozepore 9⅜ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless; rain is needed for autumn sowings in the Peshawar district. The weather is cold. The condition of standing irrigated and unirrigated crops is average in the province but some damage has been done by insects in the Bannu district. Sowing of spring and harvesting of autumn crops are proceeding. The outturn of the latter is reported to be average in Bannu and Peshawar and below average in Dera Ismail Khan. The condition of cattle is good and fodder and water are sufficient. The Paharpur canal is not running. Public health is good but malarial fever is still prevalent in Peshawar though decreasing. Prices are high and rising in Peshawar and Bannu but falling in Dera Ismail Khan except in case of bajra. Prices of wheat are high and stationary in Peshawar but fluctuating in the south of the province.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 14 and maize from 14 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is good. Cattle disease is still prevalent in the Ranbirsinghpura tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—There was no rainfall during the week; it is badly wanted as spring crops are being sown. Cattle are generally healthy and water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are rising.

Rajputana.—The weather is cool and clear. Standing crops are good. Harvesting of autumn crops is nearing completion in most places with outturn good. Sowings and irrigation of spring crops continue. Prospects are good. Agricultural stock is in a healthy condition except in Kishangarh where cattle disease is reported in some places. Water and fodder are ample. Prices are falling in Mewar, hilly tracts, Kishangarh, Tonk and Karauli, rising in Marwar, Kotah, Jaipur, Bharatpur, Dholpur and Ajmer, and stationary elsewhere.

Central India.—The weather during the week was seasonable and practically rainless. Harvesting of autumn and sowing of spring crops continue. The condition of standing crops is fair to good and prospects are promising. Cattle disease is prevalent to some extent everywhere except Bhopal and Malwa. Fodder is sufficient. Prices are rising in Gwalior, Indore and Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been clear; nights and mornings are cool. Picking of cotton and reaping and threshing of autumn crops are well advanced. Sowing of spring crops still continues in places but is approaching completion. The condition of spring seedlings is generally good and prospects are satisfactory. Fodder and water are sufficient and cattle are healthy. The price of juar indicates an upward tendency and other fluctuations are unimportant.

Feudatory States:—Prospects of spring crops are favourable.

Bombay.—Standing crops are generally thriving except for slight damage by locusts in one taluka and two mahals of Karachi, and two talukas of Nawabshah and Larkana. Autumn harvesting generally continues. Cotton picking is progressing in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Khandesh, Ahmednagar, Sholapur and Kathiawar. Spring sowing generally continues. Fodder supply is adequate and agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition and drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation purposes is deficient in parts of Thar and Parkar, Kaira and the Panch Mahals. Prices of food grains have risen in Sind, Gujarat and the Deccan, fallen in the Karnatak and are generally steady in Konkan.

Hyderabad.—There was practically no rain during the week, the average being one cent. Autumn crops and early rice are being harvested; the latter is suffering from blight in parts of the Medak and Karimnagar districts. Spring crops are being sown. They are generally fair to good and are being weeded. Late rice lands are being prepared throughout and sown in places. Cattle disease is prevalent in fourteen talukas. Prices of food grains are high and almost steady. The highest price of juar in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Bidar and the lowest 26¾ seers per rupee in Usmanabad.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was good in Mysore and light to nil elsewhere. Prices of food grains are steady; markets are well supplied and standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of harvested ragi, paddy and sugarcane is fair to normal. The prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy and water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The condition of rice is good. Picking of cardamom and coffee continues. Prices of food grains are high. Public health is fair. Cattle disease is prevailing in parts. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was heavy in Madras, good in Chingleput, South Arcot, North Arcot, Salem, Tanjore, Pudukkottai and Nilgiris, fair in Chittoor, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly, Madura, Ramnad and Malabar and light or nil elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good generally except in parts of three districts where they have been affected by floods or cyclones. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding normally. The outturn is fair to normal generally. The condition of cattle is generally good. Water supply is insufficient in parts of Kurnool, Anantapur, Chittoor, North Arcot and the southern parts except Tanjore and is sufficient elsewhere. Pasture is sufficient and fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 16th December 1916.

Burma.—The week was rainless. Reaping of winter rice has become general in Lower Burma and a good harvest is expected in Upper Burma. Reaping of winter rice, sowing of miscellaneous crops, gathering of groundnuts and late sesamum and plucking of cotton are proceeding. Standing crops are in good condition. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice in Rangoon is Rs. 117 per hundred baskets and is considerably above normal.

Assam.—The weather during the week was seasonable and practically rainless. Plucking and manufacturing of tea and sowing of mustard are nearing completion. Pruning of tea has begun. Harvesting of winter rice, pressing of sugarcane and plucking of cotton are in progress. Prospects of tea, mustard, cotton and sugarcane are fair and of pulses moderate. Fodder is insufficient in Sylhet. Insect pests are still prevalent in flood affected districts of Cachar and Nowgong. Cattle disease is reported from six districts. The price of common rice has fallen in five districts. Distribution of agricultural loans and seed still continues in Cachar.

Bengal.—There was no rain during the week. Sowing of spring crops is nearing completion. Prospects are generally fair. Harvesting of sugarcane has commenced in some of the western districts and reaping of winter paddy is proceeding; the outturn is estimated at 94 per cent. of the normal. Fodder is scarce in parts of Dacca and Tippera. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 27 per cent. as compared with that of the preceding week.

Bihar and Orissa.—There was no rain during the week. Harvesting of paddy continues; pressing of sugarcane and weeding of spring crops are going on. Standing crops are doing well. The price of common rice has risen in three and fallen in six and has been stationary in the remaining districts as compared with the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from fifteen districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—The week was rainless. Harvesting and threshing of late rice, sowing of poppy and picking of cotton are nearing completion. Irrigation of spring crops and poppy and pressing of sugarcane continue. Preparation of land for the next cane crop has begun in places. Standing corps are doing well everywhere and prospects are favourable. The condition of agricultural stock is good and there is little cattle disease. Fodder and water are ample. Market supplies are adequate. Prices have fallen in twenty-five districts, risen in ten and are stationary elsewhere.

Punjab.—The weather during the week remained generally dry; rain is wanted for spring crops everywhere. Picking of cotton and pressing of sugarcane continue. The yield is generally normal to good except that in parts of the south-east the outturn of cotton is below normal. Standing sugarcane and cotton, wheat and other spring crops are generally in good condition. Sowings of irrigated wheat and barley, etc., are in progress in some districts and are normal or above normal. Germination is good. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are generally sufficient. Prices have fallen slightly in some districts but range between normal and scarcity rates. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Price of wheat :—Ambala 8¾, Lahore and Rawalpindi 9, Lyallpur 9¼ and Ferozepore 9¾ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless throughout the province except Bannu where slight rain fell. Rain is needed for autumn sowings on unirrigated areas. The weather is cold. The condition of standing irrigated and unirrigated crops is average in the whole province, but insects continue to do damage in certain unirrigated tracts. Sowings of spring and harvesting of autumn crops are proceeding. The outturn of latter is reported to be about average in the Bannu and Peshawar districts. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are sufficient. The Paharpur canal is not running. Public health is good but malarial fever is still prevalent in the Peshawar district though decreasing. Prices are high and rising in Peshawar but falling in the Bannu and Dera Ismail Khan districts except in case of wheat in the latter district.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating; wheat sells from 9 to 14 and maize from 14 to 23 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is good. Cattle disease is still prevalent in Ranbirsinghpura tehsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—Report not received.

Rajputana.—The weather during the week was cold and clear. Standing crops are good. Harvesting of autumn crops has been completed in most places. Sowings and irrigation of spring crops continue. Prospects are good. The condition of agricultural stock is healthy except in some places in Kishangarh and in two villages of Ajmer where cattle disease is reported. Water and fodder are ample. Prices have risen by three seers per rupee in Partabgarh and Tonk, are rising in Dungarpur, Kotah, Jaipur, Kishengarh and Dholpur, falling in Udaipur, hilly tracts, Jhalawar and Karauli and stationary elsewhere.

Central India.—The weather during the week was seasonable and rainless. Harvesting of autumn and sowing of spring crops continue. Standing crops and their probable outturn are fair to good. The condition of agricultural stock is generally good. Fodder supply is sufficient. Prices are rising in Bhopal, slightly fluctuating in Indore and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather during the week continued to be dry, clear and cool. Harvesting and threshing of autumn crops and picking of cotton are in rapid progress. Spring sowings are nearly complete and prospects are favourable. No deficiency of fodder and water is reported anywhere. Agricultural stock is in good condition. The price of wheat has remained steady.

Feudatory States.—Spring crops are fairing well.

Bombay.—Standing crops are generally thriving. Autumn harvesting generally continues. Cotton picking is progressing in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Khandesh, Ahmednagar and Sholapur. The supply of fodder is adequate. Agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation purposes is deficient in parts of Thar and Parkar, Kaira and Panch Mahals. Prices of food-grains have slightly fallen in Sind and are generally steady elsewhere.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. Autumn and early rice are being harvested, the latter is suffering from blight in parts of the Medak and Karimnagar districts. Spring lands are being re-sown in places. The crop is generally fair to good and is being weeded. Late rice lands are being prepared and sown. Cattle disease prevails in fourteen taluqs. Variations in prices of grains are insignificant. The highest price of jawari in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Warrangal and the lowest 26 seers per rupee in Usmanabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell during the week. The price of ragi has risen in Tumkur and Chitaldroog and fallen in Kolar and that of rice has fallen in Mysore and Hassan. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of harvested ragi, paddy and sugarcane is fair to normal. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are healthy in the greater part of the State. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The condition of rice is good. Picking of cardamom and coffee continues. Prices of food grains are high. Public health is fair. Cattle disease is prevailing in parts. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was light in Tanjore, Ramnad and Tinnevelly and nil elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good generally except in parts of two districts where they have been affected by floods or cyclone and in parts of three others where they are withering or have withered for want of rain. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding normally. The outturn is fair to normal generally. Sowing of paddy and dry crops is proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. Water supply is insufficient in parts of Kurnool, Anantapur, Chingleput, South Arcot, Chittoor, North Arcot, Coimbatore and the southern parts and sufficient elsewhere. Pasture is sufficient. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

SHIPPING.

The following table shows the number and tonnage of vessels, which entered and cleared with cargoes at ports in British India during November, 1916, as compared with October, 1916, and November, 1915, 1914, and 1913 :—

November, 1913 (pre-war month)	228	643,235	39	3,608	267	646,843

The total tonnage entered and cleared in November, 1916, as compared with the corresponding month of 1913, 1914, and 1915 is shown in the last column of the table above and is, perhaps, of interest in view of the present scarcity of tonnage. The increase in trade in 1916-17 as compared with 1914-15 and 1915-16 is shown in the chart on page 2. In the month of November, 1916, there were 288 arrivals * and 436 sailings † with cargoes in and from India. As regards tonnage, if a comparison be made with November, 1913, the corresponding pre-war month, it will be seen that there is a decrease in the tonnage of vessels cleared with cargoes of 88,170 tons or 14 per cent. The decrease in the entries (with cargoes) amounted to 229,230 tons or 40 per cent.

The shipping clearances with cargoes in foreign trade from the ports of British India in the eight months, April to November, 1916, as compared with the corresponding period of 1913, i.e., before the war broke out, were as follows :—

	TONNAGE CLEARANCES IN THE EIGHT MONTHS, APRIL TO NOVEMBER.
	1913 Peace conditions.	1916 War conditions.
British ships (including British Indian)	4,188,666	3,274,859
Foreign ships	1,202,042	696,803
TOTAL	5,390,708	3,971,662

Under war conditions, the total tonnage clearances have declined 26 per cent. Under peace conditions, the British (including British Indian) tonnage was 78 per cent and foreign tonnage 22 per cent of the total, while under war conditions, the British (including British Indian) tonnage is 82 per cent and foreign tonnage 18 per cent.

RAILWAY STATISTICS.

Railway statistics, like the import and export statistics above, are a valuable index to the general movement of trade throughout the country, and show that the earnings from 1st April to 2nd December, 1916, were R45,05 lakhs as against R40,63 lakhs in the corresponding period of 1915, or an increase of R4,42 lakhs.

* The details were as follows :—Bengal 25, Bombay 78, Sind 67, Madras 99, and Burma 19.
† The details were as follows :—Bengal 53, Bombay 79, Sind 104, Madras 157, and Burma 43.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN OCTOBER 1916.

The object of the tables below is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and the Madras ports during the month of October 1916, and for the seven months April to October 1916, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1915. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN OCTOBER 1915 AND 1916.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river and sea in October 1916, as against the corresponding month of 1915 show (in round numbers) an increase of—

197 per cent in linseed.

(22,400 tons as against 7,500 tons last year.)

170 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).

(92,300 tons as against 34,200 tons last year.)

58 per cent in tea.

(53,490,900 lbs. as against 33,825,700 lbs. last year.)

41 per cent in jute.

(1,154,400 bales as against 820,600 bales last year.)

11 per cent in rice (including paddy).

(105,200 tons as against 94,600 tons last year.)

The imports of raw cotton by rail, river and sea into ports show a decrease of 47 per cent (106,900 bales as against 202,800 bales last year) due mainly to smaller exports from the Punjab, Rajputana and Central India, Bombay, and the Central Provinces and Berar. The decrease of 47 per cent (6,200 tons as against 11,600 tons last year) in the imports of rape and mustard seed is accounted for by a decrease in exports mainly from the United Provinces. The imports of gram and pulse show a fall of 16 per cent (28,800 tons as against 34,200 tons last year) owing mainly to a decrease in exports from the Punjab.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal sources of the imports in October 1915 were the Punjab and the United Provinces. During the corresponding month of 1916, the Punjab sent by far the largest quantity, namely, 69 per cent of the total. Table XI shows the exports out of India of wheat (including wheat flour) month by month during the last five years.

NOTE.—One bale of cotton or jute is equivalent to 400 lbs.
One maund is equivalent to 82⅜ lbs.
One maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SEVEN MONTHS ENDING OCTOBER 1915 AND 1916.

The seven months' figures in table I show (in round numbers) a decrease of—

36 per cent in raw cotton.
(1,205,600 bales as against 1,875,100 bales last year.)

30 per cent in rice (including paddy).
(615,700 tons as against 879,600 tons last year.)

16 per cent in jute.
(2,965,200 bales as against 3,511,800 bales last year.)

3 per cent in tea.
(171,269,100 lbs. as against 177,250,000 lbs. last year.)

Imports of linseed by rail, river and sea into ports show an increase of 71 per cent (268,200 tons as against 156,300 tons last year) mainly on account of larger exports from the United Provinces, Bihar and Orissa and the Central Provinces and Berar. The increase of 20 per cent (117,700 tons as against 98,200 tons last year) in rape and mustard seed is accounted for by larger exports from up-country into the ports mainly from the United Provinces.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN OCTOBER 1916 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with September 1916, the imports in October 1916 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers) an increase of—

51 per cent in raw cotton.
(106,900 bales as against 70,900 bales previous month.)

46 per cent in rice (including paddy).
(105,200 tons as against 71,800 tons previous month.)

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 23rd December 1916.

Burma.—No rain fell during the week. Reaping of winter rice is progressing in Upper Burma. Sowing of pulses and miscellaneous island crops and cultivation of spring rice are proceeding. Gathering of groundnut and plucking of cotton is nearly completed. Standing crops are good. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice (new crop) is Rs. 100 per hundred baskets and is almost normal.

Assam.—The weather during the week was seasonable. Harvesting of winter rice continues and its outturn is good. Plucking and manufacturing of tea have been finished and pruning is in progress. Pressing of sugarcane and plucking of cotton continue and harvesting of pulses has commenced. Prospects of sugarcane, pluses and cotton are fair to good. Insects are causing damage to rice in Nowgong. Fodder is insufficient in parts of Sylhet. Cattle disease is reported from four districts. The price of common rice has again fallen slightly.

Bengal.—No rain fell during the week. Harvesting of winter rice is in full swing and sowing of spring crops is nearly completed. The prospects of standing crops are generally reported to be fairly good. Cattle disease exists in three districts. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 1·3 per cent. as compared with that of the preceding week.

Bihar and Orissa.—The week was rainless. Harvesting of paddy continues. Pressing of sugarcane is in progress. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has fallen as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from thirteen districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—The week was rainless. Need for rain is beginning to be felt in parts of north and west of the province. Irrigation of spring crops, irrigation and weeding of poppy and pressing of, and preparation of land for, sugarcane continue. Standing crops are doing well and prospects continue to be favourable. Agricultural stock is in good condition and there is very little cattle disease. Fodder and water are sufficient. Markets are full. The general level of prices remains practically unchanged with a fall in thirteen districts and a rise in five.

Punjab.—The weather during the week remained dry; rain is wanted for spring crops everywhere. Pressing of sugarcane and picking of cotton are in progress. The yield is generally normal to good. Standing sugarcane, cotton, wheat and other spring crops are generally in good condition. Late sowings of irrigated wheat continue in a few districts and are normal or above normal. Germination is good. Toria is being harvested. The yield is generally normal. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and range between normal and scarcity rates. Prices of wheat:—Ambala 8⅞, Lahore and Rawalpindi 9, Ferozepore 9¾ and Lyallpur 10 seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless; rain is badly required for autumn sowings in the Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan districts. The weather is cold. The condition of standing irrigated and unirrigated crops is average in the whole province. Sowing of spring and harvesting of autumn crops are proceeding. The outturn of latter is reported to be above average in the Peshawar district and average in the Bannu district. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are sufficient. The Paharpur canal is not running. Public health is good but malarial fever is still prevalent in Peshawar though decreasing. Prices of food stuffs are high but falling in the case of wheat and barley and rising in the case of gram in the Peshawar district. In the Dera Ismail Khan district the price of gram is slightly falling while that of wheat is rising.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell in some parts. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8¼ to 14 and maize from 15 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is good. Cattle disease still prevails in the Ranbirsinghpura tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—The week was rainless. Spring sowings are in progress. Cattle are generally healthy and water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—The weather is cold and clear. Standing crops are good. Sowing and irrigation of spring crops continue. Prospects are good. The condition of agricultural stock is healthy except in one place in Kotah and some villages of Ajmer-Merwara where cattle disease is reported to be prevalent. Water and fodder are ample. Prices are rising in Dungarpur, Banswara, Jhalawar and Jaipur; falling in Shahpura, Kotah, Kishangarh, Karauli and Merwara and stationary elsewhere.

Central India.—The weather is clear and cold. Harvesting of autumn and sowing of spring crops continue. Standing crops and their probable outturn are fair to good. Agricultural stock is in good condition. Fodder supply is sufficient. Prices are rising in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—No rain fell during the week. The weather remains clear and cool. Harvesting and threshing of autumn crops and picking of cotton continue. Sowing of spring crops is nearly completed and prospects are all that can be desired. Fodder and water are sufficient and agricultural stock is thriving. Variations in prices are unimportant.

Feudatory States:—Standing crops are in good condition.

Bombay.—Standing crops are thriving but have been slightly damaged by frost in two talukas of Larkana and by locusts in two talukas of Nawabshah. Autumn harvesting generally continues. Spring sowing is progressing in parts of Sind and Gujarat. Cotton picking continues in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Khandesh, Ahmednagar, Sholapur and Kathiawar. The fodder supply is adequate. Agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation purposes is deficient in parts of Thar and Parkar, Kaira and Panch Mahals. Prices of food grains have slightly fallen in Sind and Deccan and are generally steady elsewhere.

Hyderabad.—There was no rain during the week. Autumn and early rice crops are being harvested; the latter is suffering from blight in parts of the Medak and Karimnagar districts. Groundnuts are being picked. Spring crops are being weeded. Germination is satisfactory. Cattle disease prevails in fourteen taluqs. Prices of food grains are almost constant. The highest price of jawari in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Warangal and the lowest 26 seers per rupee in Usmanabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell during the week. The price of rice has fallen in Mysore and of ragi in Chitaldroog and of rice and ragi in Tumkur. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of harvested paddy, ragi, sugarcane and cotton is fair to normal. The prospects of season are generally good. Cattle are healthy in the greater part of the State and water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The condition of the rice crop is good. Picking of cardamom and coffee continues. Prices of food grains are high. Public health is fair. Cattle disease is prevailing in parts. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—No rain fell during the week; it is required in the southern districts. Standing crops are fair to good generally except in parts of two districts where they have been affected by floods or cyclone and in parts of three others where they are withering or have withered for want of rain. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding normally with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy and dry crops are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. Water supply is insufficient in parts of Kurnool, Anantapur, South Arcot, Chittoor, North Arcot and Southern parts and sufficient elsewhere. Pasture is sufficient. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

CALCUTTA, DECEMBER 21, 1916.

Final General Memorandum on the INDIGO Crop of 1916-17.

This memorandum is based upon reports received from provinces containing practically the whole area under indigo in British India. The figures refer to the crop which is now being marketed.

The total area is estimated at 756,400 acres, which is 114 per cent in excess of the finally revised acreage (353,100 acres) of last year. All the provinces show an increase in the area sown, the largest increases being in the United Provinces and in the Punjab.

The total yield of dye is estimated at 95,500 cwts, as against 55,100 cwts, the finally revised estimate of last year, or an increase of 73 per cent.

The present estimate of yield, as against the final figures of last year, shows an increase of 267 per cent in the Punjab, 252 per cent in the United Provinces, 117 per cent in Bombay and Sind, 53 per cent in Bihar and Orissa, and 46 per cent in Madras.

The season has not, on the whole, been favourable for the crop except in the Punjab and Bombay and Sind. Heavy rainfall and floods adversely affected the crop in the United Provinces and in parts of Bihar and Orissa and Madras.

Details for the provinces are given below :—

TOTAL*	95,500	55,100	756,400	353,100	14	17

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Bihar and Orissa (37·9 per cent of the total area under indigo in British India).—The total area sown is estimated at 80,600 acres as against 60,800 acres last year, or an increase of nearly 33 per cent. According to the estimates furnished by the Bihar Planters' Association for Saran, Champaran, Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga, and by the District Officers for the remaining four districts, the crop of the province is estimated at 10,900 cwts (16,300 factory maunds), as against 7,100 cwts (10,600 factory maunds) last year, or an increase of 53 per cent. In the important districts of North Bihar, the weather conditions before harvest were, on the whole, normal, although some damage was done by drought in May and June. The harvesting began at the usual time but some of the crop was destroyed by floods, and the outturn in places turned out less than what was anticipated in the preliminary forecast.

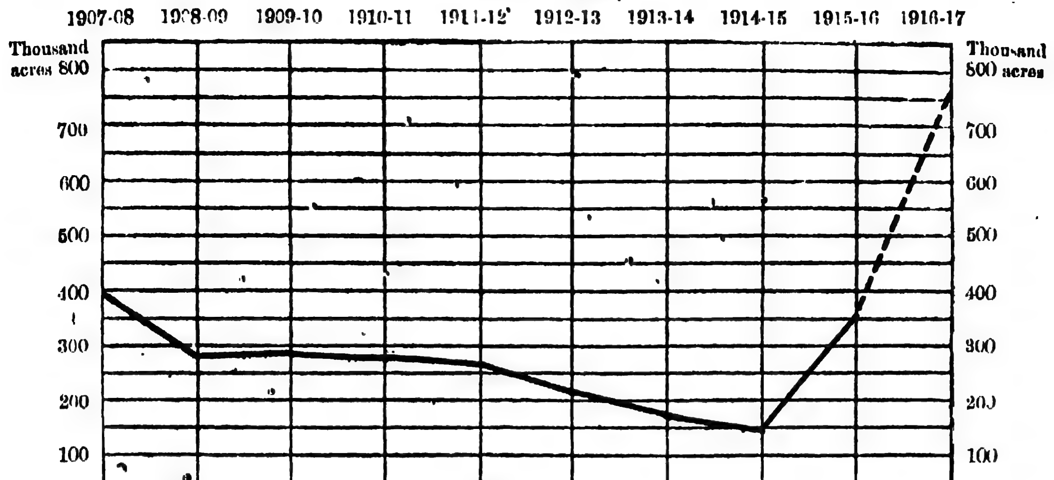
Madras (33·4 per cent of the total area under indigo in British India).—The total area sown with the indigo crop is reported to be 449,900 acres, which is more than twice the finally revised area of last year. The largest areas have been grown in the districts of Guntur, Kistna (Nandigama taluk), Kurnool, Cuddapah, and Nellore. The area grown in South Arcot and Chingleput also shows a large increase. The total yield is estimated at 59,100 cwts, as against 40,500 cwts, the revised figure of last year, or an increase of 46 per cent. Heavy rains in Guntur and the Deccan districts have seriously damaged the crop, so that the yield of dye per acre is poor and the quality mostly indifferent. In North Arcot, Salem, and Chittoor, the season was more favourable. On the whole, however, this year's crop is much inferior to that of last year.

Punjab (15·1 per cent of the total area under indigo in British India).—The total area under indigo is estimated at 57,400 acres, which is 168 per cent above the finally revised estimate of last year. The total yield is estimated at 9,900 cwts, as against 2,700 cwts last year, or an increase of 267 per cent. Climatic conditions were favourable and harvesting began on the normal dates in all districts.

United Provinces (21·4 per cent of the total area under indigo in British India).—The total area is now reported to be 159,300 acres, as against 43,200 acres, the revised area of last year, or an increase of 269 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 14,100 cwts, of which a certain proportion is kutcha indigo and consumed locally. This is 252 per cent in excess of last year's estimate. In the western districts the early sown crop did well, but the crop sown late suffered from continuous wet weather. In the eastern districts heavy rainfall and floods damaged the indigo crop. From the latest factory reports it appears that the provisional estimate made in the October forecast was too high, and that the average yield will not exceed 70 per cent of the normal. The provincial Director believes this to be due partly to the wet season and partly to the inexperience of many of the manufacturers, who were making dye for the first time.

Bombay and Sind (1·7 per cent of the total area under indigo in British India).—The total area sown is now estimated at 7,000 acres (including 4,300 acres in the Khairpur State), which is 71 per cent in excess of the area of last year. The total yield is estimated at more than double that of the previous year (1,300 cwts, as against 600 cwts last year). The crop throve well under good inundation, and was very fair in Sukkur and good in Khairpur.

Bengal (0·3 per cent of the total area under indigo in British India).—The total area and outturn are 2,200 acres and 200 cwts, as compared with 1,600 acres and 200 cwts last year.



*In addition to the area for which particulars are given above, the crop is grown on a very limited scale in Upper Burma, for which no forecast is prepared, and the average area so grown for the last five years has been some 200 acres. On the basis of the average outturn per acre in other provinces, this area would produce only about 25 cwts of dye.

Chart.—The chart below shows the variations in the present figures of area and yield as compared with the finally revised figures of the last nine years.

CALCUTTA, DECEMBER 20, 1916.

Third COTTON forecast, 1916-17.

This forecast is based on reports furnished by provinces, which comprise the entire cotton area of India. It deals with reports on both the early and the late varieties of cotton up to the 1st December, 1916. A fourth and final report will, as usual, be published in the third week of February, 1917.

The total area this year amounts to 20,702,000 acres as against 17,389,000 acres (the revised figure) on this date last year, or an increase of 19 per cent. As compared with the final estimate of last year (17,967,000 acres), the present estimate shows an increase of 15 per cent.

The total estimated yield is 4,515,000 bales of 400 lbs each, as against 3,686,000 bales (the revised figure) on this date last year, or an increase of 22 per cent. As compared with the final estimate of last year (3,819,000 bales), the present estimate shows an increase of 18 per cent.

The present estimate of outturn, as compared with the sum of actual exports (net) abroad, mill consumption, and estimated extra-factory consumption in 1915-16 (5,109,000 bales),* shows a decrease of 12 per cent.

The present figures for the provinces are as follows :—(The figures for previous years are given on page 6.)

Provinces	Acres	Bales of 400 lbs
Bombay (including Native States)	5,507,000	1,352,000

On the basis of these figures, the average outturn per acre of the present crop for all India is 87 lbs, as against 85 lbs last year. The area increased almost everywhere, owing mainly to the stimulus of high prices obtained last year. The crop was, however, adversely affected by the heavy and continuous rain of September and October, particularly in the Central Provinces, the United Provinces, Sind, and Bengal. The present condition of the crop is on the whole fair.

A statement showing the present estimates of area and yield according to the recognised trade descriptions of cotton is given below.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Bombay (26·9 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area under both early and late cotton is estimated up to 1st December at 5,507,000 acres (including 2,067,000 acres in Native States, but excluding 706,000 acres in Baroda), which is 37 per cent above the area reported at this date last year. The cultivation of the crop was greatly restricted last year on account of the abnormal fall in prices on the outbreak of war. Prices, however, soon re-established themselves, and this, coupled with favourable sowing rains, encouraged the cultivators to resume sowings on the usual scale. The expected yield is at present estimated at 1,352,000 bales (including 566,000 bales in the Native States but excluding 170,000 bales in Baroda), which is 62 per cent in excess of the estimate made at this date last year. In North Gujarat and Kathiawar the crop suffered at first from insufficient early rains, and in South Gujarat continuous heavy rains damaged the young crop in places, necessitating resowing or replacement by other crops. Later rains, however, have been beneficial, and the crop is progressing

* Net exports abroad from September, 1915, to August, 1916, were 2,486,000 bales, the mill consumption 1,873,000 bales, and the estimated extra-factory consumption 750,000 bales as accepted by the Bombay Cotton Trade Association.

(a) An addition of about 1,000 bales may be made to this estimate in respect of the crop in the Native States of Bihar and Orissa which make no returns.

favourably everywhere. In the Deccan the crop did well in the beginning, but excessive rain in September caused some shedding of leaves and bolls in places, and the abnormally heavy rains of October-November further injured the crop, causing dropping of ripe bolls and discolouring the lint in many places in the north and east. Since then the crop has revived. In the Karnatak the crop was sown under favourable conditions. The October-November rains were somewhat injurious in parts of Belgaum and Dharwar, but the damage was comparatively small, and the crop has since improved and is doing well, although it is still young. The area and outturn of cotton by trade descriptions in the Bombay Presidency (including Baroda but excluding Sind) are :—

		Acres	Bales
Oomras	Kandesh	1,436,000	324,000
	Barsi and Nagar	229,000	34,000
Dholleras		2,032,000	581,000
Bengal-Sind (Rajputana)		31,000	7,000
Broach		1,197,000	313,000

Central Provinces and Berar (19·9 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is reported to be 4,402,000 acres (3,118,000 acres being in Berar), which is 8 per cent above the area at this date last year. All the important cotton growing districts except Wardha and Yeotmal contributed towards the increase, which is attributed partly to favourable climatic conditions at sowing time and partly to the high price of cotton last year. The yield is estimated at 884,000 bales (638,000 bales being in Berar), which is 20 per cent below the estimate made at this date last year. The rainfall of June was generally well distributed. Moderate to heavy rain fell in July and August and continued up to the end of October. Good showers were also received in the first and the last weeks of November. The heavy and continuous rain retarded weeding operations, damaged the crop, and stunted its growth on heavy soils in nearly all the southern districts. A certain amount of low-lying heavy land which had been sown with cotton, has now been reploughed and sown with rabi crops. The season was remarkable for the absence of sunshine, which is very beneficial to the full development of the cotton plants.

Madras (10·3 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is at present estimated at 2,114,000 acres (13,000 acres being in the Banganapalle State), which is 7 per cent above the area at the corresponding date of last year. The sowings of Tinnevellys were not completed at the date of report, and it is expected that the ultimate area under that variety will be from 15 to 20 per cent larger than the figures now reported. The total yield is now estimated at 354,000 bales (1,000 bales being in the Native State), which is 31 per cent above the estimate at this date last year. The season has been marked by heavy rains in the north and by a scarcity of sowing rains in the south. In the central districts the season has been favourable, resulting in a marked increase in the area sown with Salems (including Cambodias). An increased outturn is expected from the 'Salems' area where much Cambodia cotton has been grown this year. There are good prospects of Northerns and Westerns, yielding a fair crop in spite of the set-back due to the heavy rains at sowing time. A normal outturn is expected on the Tinnevellys area. The area and outturn of cotton according to trade descriptions are as follows :—

	Acres	Bales
Tinnevellys	571,000	136,000
Salems (including Cambodias)	327,000	71,000
Northerns and Westerns	913,000	105,000
Cocanadas	283,000	40,000
Others	20,000	2,000

Punjab (7·3 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is reported to be 1,174,000 acres (98,000 acres being in the Native States), which is 27 per cent above the area reported at this date last year. The increase is attributed partly to the high prices of cotton last year and partly to the heavy rainfall in the latter half of July, which stimulated late sowings on unirrigated areas. The total yield is estimated at 324,000 bales (35,000 bales being in the Native States), showing an increase of 60 per cent over the estimate made at this date last year, which was a bad year for unirrigated cotton. The season has been favourable for the maturing of the crop, although some damage by excessive rains and floods is reported from some districts.

United Provinces (5·7 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is reported to be 1,184,000 acres (10,000 acres being in the Rampur State), which is 42 per cent above the area reported at this date last year. The yield is estimated at 309,000 bales (including 2,000 bales in the Native State), which is 18 per cent above last year's yield. This is the second year in succession that the season has been unfavourable to the cotton crop. Early rain which fell in June throughout the cotton tract favoured sowings. During July and August the rainfall was heavy and continuous ; the ground was water-logged, and a difficulty was experienced in weeding. At the beginning of September there was a short break which benefited the crop. The monsoon then set in again and there was continuous rain till the first week of October. The heavy showers of September caught the crop when in flower and greatly reduced the yield. The quality of the lint is on the whole up to the average.

Sind (1·3 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is reported to be 232,000 acres (4,000 acres being in the Khairpur State), showing an increase of 14 per cent over the area reported at this date last year. The yield is estimated at 74,000 bales (including 1,000 bales in the Khairpur State), being 5 per cent below that of last year. The late rains in August-September caused dropping of bolls in Thar and Parkar, and boll-worms did some damage there and in Hyderabad. Since then the weather has been favourable and the crop has improved to some extent.

Burma (1 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is reported to be 216,000 acres, which is 6 per cent above the area reported at this date last year. The yield is estimated at 44,000 bales, being 47 per cent more than that at the corresponding date last year. The early rains were somewhat unsatisfactory, but the middle and later rains were favourable.

Bihar and Orissa (0·4 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown with both the early and the late varieties of cotton is estimated at 67,000 acres, which exceeds the area at the corresponding date of last year by 1 per cent. The estimated yield is 16,000 bales, being the same as reported at this date last year. The crop in the Native States, for which no statistics are available, is roughly estimated at some 1,000 bales. The weather conditions have generally been favourable, and the condition and prospects of the crop (both early and late) are reported to be generally good, although the early crop was affected to some extent by excessive rain in September and October.

Bengal (0·3 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area is estimated at 73,000 acres, being 17 per cent short of last year's area at this date. The yield is estimated at 21,000 bales, which is 30 per cent less than the estimate made at this date last year. The general condition of the early crop is reported to have been unsatisfactory in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, Hill Tippera, and Midnapur, owing to excessive rainfall and flood in September and October, but it was generally fair in Bankura and Maimensingh. The condition of the late crop is reported to be on the whole fair. The area and outturn of cotton according to trade descriptions are :—

	Acres	Bales
Bengal-Sind	4,000	1,000
Comillas	69,000	20,000

North-West Frontier Province (0·2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area is reported to be 28,000 acres, which shows an increase of nearly 8 per cent as compared with the area at the corresponding date of last year. The irrigated area increased almost everywhere, owing to the high prices obtainable for cotton and also to timely rain at the sowing season. The crop was damaged by the heavy rains of July and August in the Dera Ismail Khan District. The estimated yield is 6,000 bales, being the same as reported at this date last year.

Assam (0·2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The area sown is estimated at 32,000 acres, which is the same as that at the corresponding date last year, but the estimated yield (11,000 bales) is 10 per cent above that of last year. The weather conditions have been unfavourable since the issue of the second forecast. Untimely and excessive rain in October caused damage to the crop in all the cotton-growing districts except the Lushai and the Garo Hills. Some damage was done by insects in Nowgong.

Ajmer-Merwara (0·2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area reported is 47,000 acres as compared with 23,000 acres reported at the corresponding date of last year. The yield is estimated at 20,000 bales as against 2,000 bales estimated at this time last year.

Hyderabad (14·6 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area is now reported to be 3,200,000 acres, which is 8 per cent above the area at the corresponding date last year. The yield is estimated at 500,000 bales, being 11 per cent more than last year's yield. According to the estimates of the district authorities, the outturn this year amounts to 707,000 bales as against 617,000 bales last year, but on account of the excessive and abnormal rains towards the close of October, which adversely affected the cotton crop, especially in the Mahratwada, the best cotton-producing area of the country, the Revenue Department of His Highness the Nizam's Government is inclined to believe that the present crop may be approximately estimated at 500,000 bales, as against last year's estimate of 450.000 bales. The detailed district-figures, as reported by the District Officers, are as follows :—

Central India (6 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total yield is estimated at 280,000 bales on an area of 1,265.000 acres. These figures indicate an increase of 35 per cent in yield and 18 per cent in area as compared with the estimate made at this date last year. The detailed figures are as follows :—

Baroda (3·3 per cent of the total area under cotton in India) reports 706,000 acres under cotton as compared with 556,000 acres at this date last year. The yield is estimated at 170,000 bales, which is 59 per cent above the estimate at this date last year.

Rajputana (1·7 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area and yield are at present estimated at 334,000 acres and 133,000 bales, as against 244,000 acres and 67,000 bales at this date last year. The heavy and continuous rains of August greatly damaged the crop in Kotah. The standing crops are in good condition in Marwar.

Cotton crop in foreign countries.—The latest information published by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, regarding the cotton crop of 1916 in foreign countries may be summarised as follows :—In the United States of America the area sown is 35,979,000 acres and the approximate estimate of yield about 11,613.000 bales of 500 lbs. each (or 14,516,000 bales of 400 lbs. each), as compared with 31 522,000 acres and 10,446,000 bales of 500 lbs. (=13,058,000 bales of 400 lbs.) in the previous year. In Egypt the hot weather early in September augmented the expectation of crop results, but the latter part of the month was damp with cool nights, so that the improvement did not take place. Pink worm attack increased everywhere, and notably in Upper Egypt, while other pests also did damage. On the whole the yield this year is likely to be appreciably below the average. The total area under cotton in Egypt is at present estimated at 1,718,000 acres as compared with 1,231,000 acres last year.

APPENDICES.

APPENDIX A.

Memorandum of Procedure for Firms.

GENERAL.

1. The general principle governing the relationship between the Government and the firms is that it shall be a relationship of agency. The firms, that is to say, will be required to disclose their outgoings of every kind, subject to the confidential examination of their books, if required, and will be reimbursed these sums by Government, the whole of the profit of the firms being derived from direct commission.

2. Consequently the net result of the firms' wheat account, in so far as Government business is concerned, must be transferred to Government at the end of the season or earlier if the scheme ends earlier.

3. Government, on the other hand, assumes the responsibility of all risks including floods and rains and fire.

4. The terms on which firms receive orders to buy and at which purchases will be advised are understood to be F.O.B. Firms are not allowed to exceed their orders as regards quantities, price or time of delivery.

Pro Forma Invoices and allocation of items shown in these invoices.

5. The items which go to make up the value of wheat as advised and invoiced are as follows:—

(a) Initial cost of wheat.—As paid upcountry or at the port in India. As this cost is estimated at the time of buying, any profit or loss under this head remains for the account of Government. It merges into the wheat account through the firms' agency invoices or through bills for goods bought at the ports.

(b) Shroffage account.—This in the case of some firms will be a fixed charge for all upcountry purchases and is paid to the firm to cover its cost and risk of financing. It is not subject to variation or revision and remains for the account of the firm. In the case of some firms the actual shroffage paid by them is included in their agency invoices.

(c) Standard charges.—These are charges which have been fixed at certain standards by the Wheat Commissioner after satisfying himself that they are as near actuals as it is possible to estimate them. They will be subject to revision from time to time; but such revision will not have a retrospective effect, the object of the revision being to correct any material deviation, which actual experience, as the season proceeds, shows to have taken place, from actuals. Some of these charges vary with different firms and the actual standard adopted for each firm is to be found in the Pro Forma approved for each firm. The following are included in this category:—

(i) All the upcountry handling charges, such as filling, mixing, sewing, heaping, re-bagging, cartage, gunny bag charges, twine, watching charges, district charges, sundry produce charges. Particulars of these charges will be found in the usual Pro Formas of the firms as established for each particular market.

(ii) All the handling charges from f. o. r. to f. o b., such as taking delivery, sampling, cleaning, mixing, bagging, weighing, piling, loading for shipment and marking, cost of twine, sewing bags burst on board.

(iii) The value of gunny bags at the f. o. r. Howrah or other centre rate ruling on the date of purchase plus a charge per 100 bags to cover wear and tear, shortages, interest and market risk on stocks. In the case of certain firms, however, the actual expenditure incurred by them for the purchase of gunnies is taken plus the charge referred to to cover wear and tear, shortages, interest and market risk on stocks.

(iv) Samples and Bills of Lading.

(v) Fire Insurance.—This item will be deducted from the invoice but remains in the Pro Forma and is for Government account.

(vi) Interest for 40 days at the Presidency Bank rate, but not below 5 per cent. If more than 40 days elapse between the date of purchase by the firm of the wheat and the date of payment, and the delay is due to the Government, it is understood that extra interest may be charged for by the firm.

(vii) Telegrams and Postages.

(d) Actual charges.—In the following cases, where the charges are easily ascertainable, the actual expenses shall be charged—

(1) in upcountry pro formas the various market allowances, e.g., dami, karta, brokerage, railway freight and the haulage ;

(2) in the f. o. r. to f. o. b. pro forma, the terminal charges, wharfage and shipping.

(e) Establishment charges.—For the purpose of arriving at the charges under this head, a certain turnover for a period of 12 months from April for each port has been assumed and a rate hais accordingly been determined and included in the pro forma for each firm. The Secretary of State's orders are that in the first instance the firms will be credited with a fixed allowance of 3d. per quarter of wheat handled for "Establishment charges and actual and necessary expenses in India, the sums thus paid being subject to final adjustment on evidence of the actual and approved expenditure of the firms as shown by their books." This account is thus for the present in suspense as between Government and the firms.

(f) Godown rent at Karachi and at Keamari.—Here too a certain turnover for a period of 12 months from April 1st for each firm at each port has been assumed and a rate has accordingly been determined. This account is for Government, since the understanding is that the amount of rent actually payable by the firm for the storage of Government wheat shall be reimbursed to them.

(g) The buying commission to the firm of 3d. per quarter.

(h) The quality allowance of 1½*d.* per quarter. This item will be regularly deducted from the invoices submitted to Government. Any profit or loss under it remains for Government account and no adjustment is made.

(i) The following variable items :—

Loss in weight during the voyage.—This item varies according to the port of delivery, time of shipment and condition of wheat. The percentage adopted at different periods for different firms is shown in the addenda to their Pro Forma. The estimated item, as based on past experience, is shown in the pro forma but is subject to periodical revision, and deducted from the invoices submitted to Government. If the loss turns out more or less than estimated in the invoice, the profit or loss is for Government account and no adjustment is made in the Government wheat account kept by the firm

Refraction allowances for excess admixture and food grains.—There is a probable profit or loss in analysis as compared with allowances paid at home, which varies at each port, with each firm, and with each class of wheat. Where past experience indicates a loss, such loss is provided for in the Pro Forma. Where it indicates a gain it is not discounted in the Pro Forma. The firms deduct from the invoices submitted to Government, the refraction allowances as estimated by them at the time of shipment and adjust these to the probable loss in analysis if any; and any profit or loss arising through the final allowances as found at Home, both as regards admixture and food grains, remains for account of Government.

No adjustment will be made in the firms' account under the above two heads, any variations from the items provided in the invoices, both in the case of loss in weight during voyage and of refraction allowances, falling automatically in the Government Home account through their Home collections.

The loss accruing owing to the different incidence of the allowances when calculated on f. o. b. and c. i. f. prices remains for Government account.

Gain in godown is not discounted in Pro Forma Invoice. But on closing lots the excess found in godown is to be advised to the Wheat Commissioner as gain in weight. This quantity is not to be invoiced but all proper charges to be paid to firms as per Pro Forma Invoice and debited to Government Wheat Account by a transfer from the respective Charges accounts. The closing of lots to be arranged as convenient to the firms.

Notification of Purchases

6. Purchases to be notified as per enclosed Form A, purchase prices to be converted into f. o. b. prices as per Pro Forma adopted for each firm.

Bills of Lading and Invoices.

7. After shipment, bills of lading to be sent with invoice.

8. Bill of lading to be in suitable quantities according to existing practice of firms, having regard to the fact that firms' London houses will ordinarily be selling their purchases.

9. Invoice to be as per enclosed Form B.

10. Payment will be made within 7 days from presentation of bill of lading.

11. Adjustment memoranda to be submitted as per Form C; but each adjustment memo. to refer only to wheat shipped in a particular vessel.

12. Accounts should be kept on the following lines :—

(a) Government current account.—Being a record of invoices submitted to Government and of cheques received from them.

(b) Government wheat account.—This is the account that must focus all transactions, and its balance is of course for Government account.

Net amounts of invoices submitted to Government shall be credited to this account.

Amounts collected from sellers on account of allowances shall also be credited to it, either through Agency invoices, local bills or direct.

Agency invoices and bills for purchases at Ports shall be debited to it.

(c) Adjustment memo. charges shall form subsidiary accounts as follows :—

(i) Bill and Exchange brokerage account.
Bill stamps account.
Terminal charges account.
Wharfage account.
Godown rent account.

These accounts must be debited with actual or approved expenditure, and credited with the amounts shown under these heads as per adjustment memos., the balance being for Government account.

(ii) Establishment account.—This account must be debited with 3*d.* per quarter on the quantity shipped, and credited with the amount shown under this head as per adjustment memos., the balance being in suspense.

(iii) Commission account.—To be credited with amount under this head as per adjustment memo., balance being for firms' account.

(iv) Samples and bill of lading account.
Handling charges account.
Telegrams and postages account.
Interest account.

These accounts must be debited and credited with the amount shown as per adjustment memos. These are balancing accounts.

(v) Gunny bags account.—(a) In the case of firms who show on their purchase memos. the cost of gunnies on day of purchase this account will be merely a balancing account; the amounts shown under this head as per adjustment memos. to be debited and credited. (b) In the case of other firms this account must be credited with the amounts shown as per adjustment memos. and debited with the actual expenditure under this head; balance in this case being for Government.

NOTES.—1. With effect from the 20th May, charges for Samples and Bills of lading are excluded as a separate item, the charges incurred merging in Handling charges.

2. The Item "Fire Insurance" is for Firms' account in respect of purchases on or before the 18th May.

3. With effect from the 20th May, Terminal charges are excluded, as no such charges are levied at present.

4. With effect from the 24th May, charges for Interest and Bill stamps and Bill and Exchange brokerage are excluded, in view of the fact that advances are being made by Government from the date of order to purchase or advice of purchase.
